

CARTER FACTION CLAIMS BACKING FROM DRY WING

Asserts Flying Squadron Comment Shows Favor to Judge.

BY ROBERT BEARD

Wet and dry aspects of the three-sided race for the Republican nomination for United States Senator were bidding for attention today when a division of dry sentiment appeared on the horizon.

Backers of Solon J. Carter, Republican senatorial candidate, were interpreting as a tacit endorsement of his candidacy an editorial in the National Enquirer, organ of the "extra-dry" Flying Squadron Foundation.

Although Indiana Anti-Saloon League headquarters attached little importance to the Flying Squadron's favorable appraisal, the Carter faction was admittedly in direct contradiction to the League's recommendations in the Senate race.

Pledge Dry Law Support

Despite the statements of Carter and Attorney General Arthur L. Gilliom, rival candidates for the nomination, that they are for strict enforcement of dry laws, the Anti-Saloon League has made it clear that Senator Arthur R. Robinson is its choice for the nomination, as he was two years ago.

The league's opposition to Carter and Gilliom made it the accepted belief that they would divide the anti-Robinson vote.

Referring to Carter's statement that it was not consistent with the theory of the Constitution to write the Eighteenth amendment into it, but that he was for its enforcement since it was enacted, the Flying Squadron's organ said:

Places Confidence in Carter

"In the light of the facts, at this early stage of the contest, it seems that Robinson and Carter will divide the dry vote," and of Carter's candidacy: "On the basis of that statement, assuming Judge Carter to be a man of his word, drys need not be afraid to support him."

Oliver W. Stewart, Flying Squadron Foundation president, said it was not the Enquirer's intent to in-dorse any candidate, "but to give the public the facts."

The Flying Squadron was organized by former Governor J. Frank Hanly, marshaling into its ranks ultra-drys who differed from the Anti-Saloon League policy with reference to prohibition as a political issue.

Asserts Wets Back Gilliom
The Flying Squadron organ at the same time said Gilliom "appears to be the choice of the wets. He deserves nothing at the hands of the supporters of the Eighteenth Amendment."

Of Senator Robinson, the dry organ said, "his vote and whatever influence he has had in the Senate have been given freely in support of prohibition. But he has his liabilities." It cited Robinson as an enemy of the World Court, referred to charges of affiliation with D. C. Stephenson, and observed "his prestige is suffering acutely from what was, to say the least, a blunder, namely—his feeble and futile effort to meet the charges against Republicans in connection with the oil scandals by bringing similar indictments of Democrats."

Democrats Enter State Race
Arch D. Hinch of Indianapolis filed for the Democratic nomination for State Senator, and Charles F. Cook, Indianapolis, filed for the Democratic nomination for State Representative.

Several hundred persons watched the rescue of McKinley Northington, 26, Negro, 1636 Ogden St., who was partially buried when pinned down by twisted timbers on the floor of a twenty-five-foot ditch in the rear of the World War Memorial plaza, Meridian and Michigan Sts., Monday afternoon.

More than three hours' work was necessary to release the Negro from his grave, in which for a while he virtually was buried alive. He escaped uninjured.

Northington, with a Negro gang, was digging a deep pipe line ditch when the north wall collapsed. Working at the bottom of the ditch, falling supports pinned Northington and dirt blanketed him.

The other workers jumped to safety.

Wenzler Kautsky, foreman of the Freyn Bros. Plumbing Company, which was laying the pipe, supervised the rescue.

Thomas C. Batchelor, attorney, 200 Indiana Trust Bldg., today announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for State Representative from Marion County. Batchelor attended Arsenal Technical High School, Butler University and Indiana Law School.

He is a member of the Indianapolis Bar Association, the Indiana State Bar Association, Columbia Club and Sigma Chi fraternity. Before entering the practice of law, Batchelor engaged in newspaper work, serving on the editorial staffs of Indianapolis and Miami, Fla., newspapers, and with the Associated Press in New York City.

FORM G. O. P. UNION

Leaders of Old League to Oppose Coffin.

Leaders of the disbanded Republican Reorganization League have formed the Republican Reorganization Union to carry on their fight against the George V. Coffin faction of the G. O. P.

Formation of the union with practically the same leadership, with campaign offices on second floor of Peoples Bank building, was disclosed today. Claude McIlvaine and Fred Akin are in charge of organization work.

Special Prosecutor Emsley W. Johnson, former park board member, is chairman of the campaign committee. It is understood precinct committeemen will boost the candidacy of George L. Denny, former league chairman, for G. O. P. county chairman succeeding Coffin.

The same anti-Coffin forces which formed the league are said to be aligned with the union leaders. Harry Dunn, county auditor and Otis Dodson, faction supporter, is said to be interested in the new organization.

LAST RESPECTS PAID TO WILLIS

Home Town Hushed for Rites Today at Delaware.

By United Press
DELAWARE, Ohio, April 3.—Last respects were paid today to Delaware's "fallen citizen," the late Senator Frank B. Willis, who will be laid to rest beside his father and mother in Oak Grove cemetery this afternoon.

Delaware—the city where Willis as a stripling saw his ambitions take shape, finally to be realized in his election to the United States Senate—was hushed. The schools were closed and an honorary detachment of 200 soldiers patrolled the streets. Shop windows displayed pictures of the senior Ohio Senator draped in crepe, and poles hung with ropes decked with purple mourning wreaths attested to the city's esteem and deep friendliness for him. Out in Gray chapel at Ohio Wesleyan University, where he died as hundreds celebrated his "return home," the body of Senator Willis lay in state, blanketed beneath a robe of red roses. Above the casket were the flags of the State and Nation with a portrait of Senator Willis, encircled with a wreath between them.

Final rites will be held from Gray chapel. Senator Willis died suddenly Friday while fellow townsmen celebrated his homecoming. He was to have spoken in furtherance of his campaign for the Republican presidential nomination.

UPHOLDS D. A. R. CHAPTER'S BAN

Bay State Blacklist on Speakers Approved.

By United Press
WASHINGTON, April 3.—The Massachusetts Chapter of the D. A. R. has a perfect right to advise its chapters for or against public speakers, Mrs. Alfred J. Brosseau, president general of the D. A. R., said in commenting on charges of a Massachusetts D. A. R. "blacklist."

The matter first came to attention when Mrs. Helen Tufts Baile, D. A. R. leader in Massachusetts, protested that many nationally known educators and religious leaders were on the "blacklist" of the State chapter. She said there was a possibility the affair might be taken before the national council of the D. A. R.

"The Daughters of the American Revolution stand unwaveringly for constitutional government and American institutions," Mrs. Brosseau said. "No one who would adhere to those principles need fear repudiation from us. It is time that all Americans stood up and were counted."

Mrs. Brosseau said that Mrs. Baile had objected to the D. A. R. taking a stand in support of the Navy bill now pending.

Senator Brookhart, (Rep.) Iowa, Monday protested in the Senate against the action of the Massachusetts chapter on the blacklist.

COLD AND PNEUMONIA RESPOND TO DR. BEBOUT'S METHOD

To whom it may concern:
My daughter, Marie Grubbs, 12 years old, is susceptible to colds and catarrh, which usually attack the bronchial tubes and lungs, those parts being weak from birth. She had pneumonia for three consecutive winters, 1923, 1924 and 1925. Each time Dr. E. R. Bebout was called to our residence to attend Marie. His adjustments were successful in bringing up the congestion in the lungs and keeping the temperature under control. This past winter Marie has been more free from colds and did not take down sick with pneumonia which had threatened her life the three preceding winters.

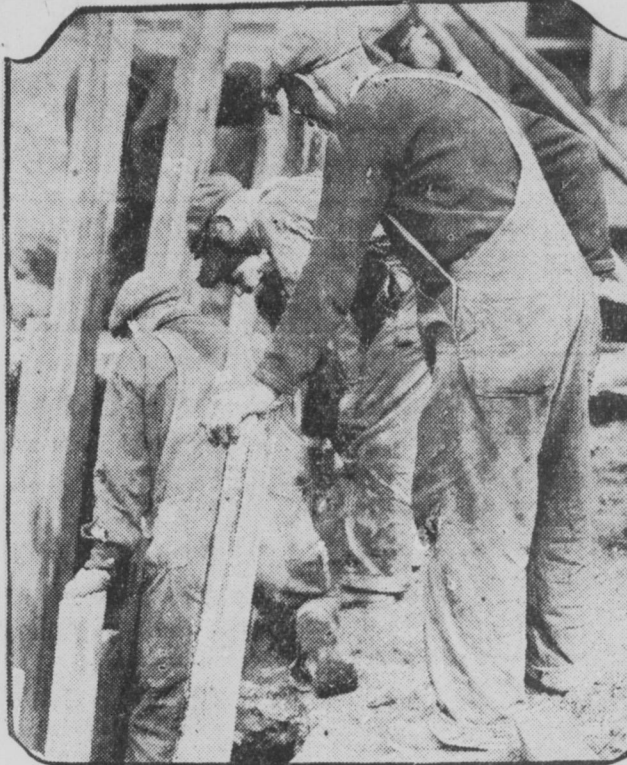

I am very grateful for the results we have obtained under Dr. Bebout's method, and I cannot recommend him too highly to others.

(Mrs.) Clara York.
E. R. BEBOUT, D.C., Ph.C.

By Appointment
I make house calls where patient is too sick to come to office, just as does the medical doctor, day or night, except during regular office hours as listed below. If you or your family are sick and you don't know what my method will do for the trouble, why don't you investigate. Come in and talk it over or I'll come to your home if necessary. Or telephone and ask me for my booklet. I'll mail it to you. It contains many testimonials from local people. You can then investigate for yourself. But for your health's sake, don't put it off.

Free Worker in Cave-in World War Memorial workmen rescuing McKinley Northington, 26, Negro; 1636 Ogden St., from a nine-foot trench which caved in upon him and imprisoned him for three hours Monday afternoon. The workmen had to retrace the timber walls of the trench and excavate cautiously to prevent further cave-ins.

BURGLAR PURSUIT IS LIKE MOVIE CHASE

'Specter' of Intruder Scares City Man From Bed, Through Window.

Burglars both chased and were chased here Monday night, police reports showed today.

A merchant policeman, a fireman and ordinary citizens joined in a "movie thriller" chase for two burglars, who escaped, and a burglar, or the specter of one, chased James Tate, 236 Minker St., out of bed and through a window.

Tate awoke at 1:30 a. m. He was sure he saw a burglar in his bedroom and he didn't wait to ask questions.

He jumped heading through an open window and ran to a neighbor's to call police, he told Lieut. Fred Drinkut.

But Drinkut couldn't find any burglar. He did find a piece of clothing in the bedroom that Tate might have mistaken for a man crouching, he said.

Leaps Through Closed Window
The chase occurred when Mr. and Mrs. John Howard returned to their home at 327 N. Alabama St., after a motor trip. As Mrs. Howard stood in the back yard while her husband put their automobile in garage she saw two men standing by their residence, a double house the other side of which is vacant.

One of the men went into the vacant side, walked out on the back porch roof and started to force open a window to the Howard's part of the house.

When Mrs. Howard called to her husband the burglar ran back into the double house, down the stairs and leaped through a closed window taking the glass with him.

Howard and his wife pursued and were joined by Merchant Policeman Rucker and City Fireman Jack Wake of headquarters and other passersby. The fleeing men joined two other men at Delaware and Market Sts. and all disappeared.

Clothing Is Stolen
Mrs. Helen Mudd, 215 Kansas St., screamed when she saw a man trying to pry open a window at the home of her mother, Mrs. Leonard Allmeroth, 235 Wisconsin St. He ran.

A Negro stole $174 worth of clothing from the home of William Fuller, 722 Sanders St. Fred Blough, 1115 Wright St., said he saw the burglar in the alley with his arms full of clothes, but did not know the clothes were stolen.

Dr. Thomas Noble, 4800 Michigan Rd., reported five silver butter dishes, valued at $60, stolen from his home. Ms. Elizabeth Hamilton, 1506 Cornell Ave., reported clothing valued at $25 taken.

PLAN TESTS ON STEAM MOTORS

Company Experiments Here on Bus Engines.

Formation of the Automotive Syndicate Ltd., composed of leading Indianapolis and Detroit automotive engineers, to do experimental work on eight cylinder steam busses, was revealed today.

The development company has taken over a part of old National Automobile Company plant, 1145 E. Twenty-Second St., for the laboratory work. There is a possibility that the entire plant will be acquired in event manufacture of the new product is begun. Although officials declined to comment on their plans it is understood that extensive manufacture of the steam busses is contemplated if experimentation proves successful.

McCall White, who aided in developing the Lafayette eight-cylinder gas machine at the old Mars Hall plant, has returned to the city to head the engineering experimental staff.

It is understood that engineers believe the eight-cylinder steam bus will be an important development because of economy of operation and smoothness of the steam engine for large busses.

Some of those backing the development company are: H. W. Alden, president of Timken Axle Company, Detroit; president; W. J. Parrish, secretary; George N. Dixon, former National head, treasurer; G. M. Williams, Marmon Motor Car Company president; Norman A. Perry, Indianapolis Power and Light Company president; and Walter Marmon, directors.

Edward J. Lennon Succumbs at Ft. Wayne.

By Times Special
FT. WAYNE, Ind., April 3.—Edward J. Lennon, 26, deputy attorney general of Indiana, is dead here as the result of a stroke of apoplexy suffered at St. Joseph hospital Monday night. He had been confined to the hospital several days following an appendicitis operation.

Graduated with honors from the University of Notre Dame in 1923, Mr. Lennon was appointed a deputy by Attorney General Arthur L. Gilliom three years ago. When advised of his death, the Attorney General said: "Mr. Lennon had been associated with me since Jan. 1, 1925, when I took office. He was an extremely conscientious and hard working official and a very efficient one."

Mr. Lennon leaves his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lennon, and a sister, Miss Irene Lennon, all of this city.
