

Girl With Job Should Pay Family Only Small Amount as Board Bill

BY MARTHA LEE

SO MANY young persons write for advice about paying board while living under their parents' roof. The letters are usually complaints against what they feel to be unjust treatment.

In a number of cases I agree that the attitude of parents on this matter is a bit unfair. Today I received a letter that is too long to publish, but takes up a small form of this particular tyranny. If "C. D." reads this she will find her answer.

When a girl has married, even against her parents' wishes and returned to the family home, principally because they have interfered with her choice for domestic happiness, I do not believe that she should be expected to contribute much to the upkeep of the home. If she is earning a good salary and there is no great stress which she feels bound to relieve at home, I see no reason why she should contribute more than a very reasonable amount for board. The same applies in my opinion when the girl is single and earning her own salary.

In the case of C. D., the parents do not permit her to entertain either girls or men in their home and object when she buys new clothes. Consequently, she is wondering whether or not it would be all right for her to go to the apartment of a man friend to listen to the radio. To me this points a moral for all parents. Whatever the circumstances, whether a daughter is single or divorced, if she is living at home her parents should by all means make her feel that home is the place where her friends are always welcome. No girl should ever be driven to going to a man's apartment because she can't entertain him at home.

As I said not long ago a girl can go to the apartment of a man she knows and respects and remain perfectly decent, but ten to one the all-too-numerous Mrs. Grundies of this world will not believe this to be the case.

My advice to all girls in C. D.'s predicament is to take the money that they would otherwise contribute at home, go to business school even though it means a few months of family rows and fit themselves for a good position. They can then keep a small place of their own or with some other girl and avoid the unreasonable demands of a thoughtless parasitic family.

Peggy: I hope that I can advise you wisely, my dear. You have given me a very serious problem—and one on which I have strong views. First of all, I think that you are too young to marry. You must remember that marriage is a serious thing even when people are much older than you are. At eighteen few girls think of cope with the many adjustments that marriage requires. Again at that age youth has not even neared its peak, and it is too precious to lose one moment of it. I have no doubt that you love this boy as you say that you do—but never get the idea that you can live without him—and then find to your lasting regret that you can't live with him. Think it over very carefully and see if you don't feel that two years more of waiting will be better than to marry in haste and secrecy. If you love each other as you say wait, try to win your mother over and be married with her consent. She cannot have the marriage annulled as you are of age. None the less, I beg you to wait. I know you won't be sorry.

AUXILIARY HEAD TELLS OF WORK IN HAWAII

Gret progress is being shown in the work of the American Legion auxiliary in the Philippines, according to Mrs. Robert Walbridge, national president who has just returned from a two and a half months trip to Hawaii. She stopped at national headquarters here only a day, going on to Chicago and then to Washington to address the D. A. R.

The greatest problem of the auxiliary is in New Mexico and Arizona, she said, were 75 per cent of the Legionnaires are disabled.

MARYE and 'MOM' THEIR LETTERS

Dearest Marye:
I'm glad to hear from you about coming to help Betty out. She knew I had written you about it and I didn't know what to tell her when she asked me what you said. I didn't like to write you about it again because I don't want to urge you to do things.

It won't be any satisfaction to you to do a good deed at another's prompting. It never is to anyone. I'm sure that having decided by yourself to come you will be glad of it even if it does interfere with your plans because you can't possibly have any plans that are more important than doing a kindness to one who is in need of it.

Besides, I think it will be good for you to get back to a simple life for a change. Somehow I don't like your going to a studio party without Alan and doing an outlandish dance among a lot of strangers.

Frank had a few of his friends in the other evening and one of the girls was twisting and shaking herself in an awful fashion. I thought she had stomach trouble. Frank told me it was that dance you said you did—the Black Bottom. Such a lame. If you contorted yourself like this girl I wouldn't be surprised if you'll be complaining of a fractured spine shortly.

I can believe you attracted attention all right. But why you should desire attention that you get in that manner is a puzzle to me. I noticed that the boys were very much interested in this girl's dancing.

It does worry me to think of you going back into that studio to pose. Please do be careful how you conduct yourself, Marye. Perhaps if you assume a little dignity you may undergo the impression you must have created in the man's mind about you.

It just can't be possible for him not to wonder if you care very much about your husband, going places without him and abandoning yourself to the vulgar gestures of a heathenish exhibition.

You know, my dear, that even though times have changed, people still judge each other by behavior. And I'm sure that not everyone in the city is ultra-modern. If you must indulge in a wild time do it among your own friends. People you know. There's less risk of being misjudged.

Fondest love,
MOM.

Executive Secretary Heard Here

Miss Emily R. Kneubuhl, New York, executive secretary of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women, spoke at the annual dinner of the Indianapolis club Monday evening in the Riley room of the Claypool. Monday marked the beginning of national business women's week, being observed by clubs all over the country.

Covers for two hundred members and guests were laid at tables arranged with apple blossoms and spring flowers in shades of pink. Baskets of the blossoms were used on the speakers table and greenery decorated the chandeliers.

During the dinner, Miss Edna Frances Phinney, harpist, played, and after the dinner Mrs. Anita Scott sang. Miss Glen D. Anderson, president of the Indianapolis club, who presided, introduced the following guests at the speakers' table: Miss Margaret Shipp, president woman's Rotary; Mrs. S. E. Perkins, president Woman's Department Club; Mrs. Walter S. Greenough, president Indiana League of Women Voters; Miss Eunice Johnson, president Altrusa Club; Mrs. W. A. Denny, Anderson, president May Wright Sewall Council of Indiana Women; Miss Jennie Rae Hersch, Portland, vice president Indiana Federation of Business and Professional Women's Club; Mrs. Edward Franklin White, candidate for president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs; and Mrs. Grace Banta Urbahn, Indiana State treasurer.

"The women of the country will either make democracy succeed or make it fail," Miss Kneubuhl said in her talk following the dinner. "We will make the country better or make it worse, for we can not stand still. The right ideal is the most powerful thing in the world today."

"The womanhood of America is entering into the era of prestige of their country with the power of direction in their hands," she said. "Politics has become stagnant. It is up to the women of the world to vote 100 per cent as well as to save 100 per cent. If we can not be, come physical mothers, we can in."

Dark Blue, Gray in Worth Collection

Dark blue and gray seem to be the predominating colors in Paris this spring. Now that the warm days of spring are here, women are shedding fur coats for tailored suits, and trim tailor-mades in gray, dark blue and the inevitable black are seen on the Rue de la Paix and at the Ritz frequently. Practically every suit adds a fox scarf of silver or gray and is worn with either pullovers of jersey d'or or frilly blouses of chiffon or georgette.

Miss Kneubuhl said there are 9,000,000 organized women in the country, but they are not yet experienced enough to realize the power they possess.

Annual Party

Several hundred couples attended the annual dance and frolic of the Indianapolis Association of Retail Druggists Monday evening at the Indiana ballroom. Miss Ione Tullis and John Tullis gave eccentric dances.

For Miss Moorhead

Miss Ann Moorhead, who will leave April 25 for an indefinite stay in Hawaii, will be honor guest at a dinner party to be given Wednesday by Miss Mary Elizabeth Sutherland, 2636 Sutherland Ave.

Short Work Day Subject for Women

Explanation of the eight-hour working day for women was made by Miss Elizabeth Rainey, local attorney, in a talk before the May Wright Sewall Council of Indiana this afternoon at the Lincoln. The council opened this morning with a business session and reports of officers.

Miss Rainey favors the eight-hour day for women and explained a number of laws in various States relative to women who work.

Mrs. W. A. Denny, Anderson, president of the council, presided at the business sessions. Luncheon for fifty guests was served in the Travertine room at noon by the Indianapolis Council of Women.

Miss Katherine Lenroot, acting chief of the United States Children's Bureau, will speak at the convention banquet this evening at the Lincoln.

Reports given at the morning meeting included those of Mrs. M. L. Moon, recording secretary; Mrs. Edna H. Edmondson, bulletin editor; Mrs. Allen T. Fleming, citizenship; and Mrs. C. J. Sembover, education.

At the luncheon, Mrs. Jessie F. Croan reported for the Anderson Council of Women. Mrs. H. L. Smith for the Bloomington council and Mrs. W. H. Lewis, the Indianapolis council.
