South in Grip of Storms and Floods

Several southern states extending from Arkansas to Florida are in the grip of severe windstorms and floods. In addition to much damage by wind the Withlacoochee River, in Georgia and Florida is at the highest flood stage ever known. Many towns are completely isolated from the rest of the world. It is a wise precaution to insure your property against wind. The Insurance Department of the City Trust Company shall be glad to quote rates on this type of insurance.

SCIENTISTS TO START 3-YEAR WORLD CRUISE

Depart May 1 in Carnegie Yacht to Study Ocean Conditions.

By United Press
WASHINGTON, April 27.—Eight scientists will sail from here next Tuesday on the non-magnetic yacht, Carnegie, to spend three years on a trip around the world. The 110,000,000-mile cruise is under direction of the Carnegie Institution of Washington.

From the years between 1909 and 1921 the Carnegie made six voyages, covering 290,000 miles in a magnetic and electric survey of the oceans.

Now, after a long lay-off the ship will go forth once more on a quest for general scientific information. The crew numbers seventeen.

England, Germany and Iceland are the first intended ports of call. As the sun goes southward next fall, the Carnegie will work south to the West Indies and Panama, spending next winter in the South Pacific visiting the Society Islands, Easter Island and Peru and coming north again to Japan and California next summer.

And so on around the world, following the sun in order to avoid storms and delays due to wintry weather and to improve the conditions for making her investigations.

Among the places to be visited after leaving California are Honolulu, Samoa, New Zealand, Cape Horn, South Georgia, South Africa, Ceylon, India, Western Australia; across the South Pacific again and across the Horn to Buenos Aires, Argentina, St. Helena, Azores, Madeira and back to Washington in September, 1931.

The purposes of the cruise are manifold. Capt. J. P. Ault, commander of the expedition, outlined the program as studies of magnetic, electrical and oceanographic conditions.

The general procedure these days is to preview a film two or three times before it is released. Big specials sometimes are previewed oftener. What are known as "temp" titles are printed for these previews.

"Temp" titles are photographed directly on a positive stock which is printed and cut into a print of the film. When the final set of titles is approved, they are photographed on a negative which is cut into the master negative.

Dens of prints are made from this negative. The same process is followed that is used in printing a picture on paper except that the printing is done on positive film.

With the final changes of scenes and titles after the second or third preview, the film is ready for release—but it must be exploited.

'Black Crows' Visit Mayor

SOCIALIZIN' AROUND

Moran and Mack Call on Slack

BY EDWIN V. O'NEEL

GEORGE MORAN and Charlie Mack, "Two Black Crows" of phonograph record and Earl Carroll "Vanities" fame, who are at English's Theater this week, dropped in on Mayor Slack for an hour Thursday.

When they departed—Mack to play golf with Dr. J. W. Wright, an old friend, and Moran to join his bride of five weeks, Clare Whyte, dancer in "Vanities"—Slack had enough wisecracks stored up to make himself the hit of dinner parties for weeks to come.

Slack spent several hours with Will Rogers on his recent trip here and was "loaded" for the stage stars. They agreed that Will could handle "delicate subjects" before a mixed audience in clever fashion.

The stars attribute much of their fame to the fact that they have "stuck together" and offer clean amusement.

"We have made it a practice never to use a joke which could not be heard by children, preachers or mothers and sisters. Americans appreciate clean humor," Mack said.

Asked what he considered the greatest contributing factor to the popularity of their dialogue, Mack said:

"I have a system which I have never heard of any one using. Our expressions are those which might be used by a child between 5 and 8. We keep our ears open for the naive humor of the very young."

Both were born in Kansas, Moran at Elwood and Mack at Whitecloud—twenty-eight miles apart. Mack is 40 and Moran 46.

They have known each other a quarter century. Both have been on the stage for more than thirty years.

"I just wouldn't work," said Mack when asked how he happened to take to the stage.

Mack is running against Will Rogers as a presidential "candidate."
