

SCOTLAND YARD OBTAINS DEATH PENALTY FOR 2

Convictions of Cop Slayers Ended Difficult Seven Months' Search.

LONDON, April 28.—Scotland Yard today wrote a tentative "finis" to one of its hardest and most successful cases when two men were sentenced to death at Old Bailey criminal court for the murder last September of Police Constable G. W. Guttridge.

The men sentenced were Frederick Browne, 46, and William Kennedy, 37. Their conviction for first degree murder came after a four-day trial.

Guttridge, a patrolman in a country district, was found shot to death beside a road near Stalport Abbots, in Essex county, Sept. 27.

Eyes Shot Out

A bullet had been placed through each eye after he was killed, because of the belief by the murderers that Scotland Yard usually photographed the eyes of murdered people to see whether an image of the killer was engraved on the retina.

There was no apparent clew to the murderers. Scores of men were put on the case.

Several days later an abandoned motor car was found a few miles from the scene of the murder. At about the same time, twenty miles away on the other side of London, a pistol was fished up from the River Thames as it flowed through the Hammersmith district.

Auto, Gun Lead to Arrests

These two clues had no apparent connection with the crime, but were connected, for theory purposes, with it, and the story of the crime, eventually was written around them.

A complete hypothesis was reconstructed, involving a burglary, theft of the car, and the use of the pistol to kill Guttridge. Four and one-half months later a squad of detectives arrested Browne and Kennedy, from them, and on Feb. 6, they were charged formally with the murder. Statements were taken.

FLIER'S BODY IS FOUND

Doubt If Remains Are Those of Paul Redfern, Brazil Aviator.

MOBILE, Ala., April 28.—The body of a man reported dead in an aviator's costume had been found on Dauphin Island, Mobile Bay, near where an airplane wheel and tire were found several weeks ago. The body is being brought here for identification.

Belief that the body might be that of Paul Redfern, Georgia-Brazil flier, was given little credence, as Redfern's plane was last seen more than 1,000 miles away. The wire wheel and tire further were not of the type used on Redfern's plane.

ARMY OFFICER DROWNED

Washed Off Rock While Inspecting Group at Honolulu.

HONOLULU, T. H., April 28.—Capt. Harry M. Thatcher, Army quartermaster corps, stationed at Ft. Armstrong, Honolulu, was washed off the rocks of Kali Hiwai Kauai and drowned, according to reports received here today.

Captain Thatcher was inspecting engineers' equipment when he was struck by a huge wave and washed into the sea, the reports said.

DARE JUNGLES IN MAD RUSH FOR DIAMONDS

Huge Gems Taken From Bed of River in Brazil, Reports Say.

RIO DE JANEIRO, April 28.—Five thousand men of all nationalities, fired by dreams of sudden wealth, were concentrated along the Lower Araguaya River in wild Matto Grosso state today waiting for low water to begin a diamond rush.

A mushroom town has sprung up in the almost unknown region—La Geado. It has acquired all the aspects of a wild west mining town, with dance halls, cabarets and gambling dens, with hastily improvised jazz bands, operating twenty-four hours a day.

Many prospectors returned after the dry season last year reporting big finds of diamonds in the bed of the river, all taken out with bare hands.

One find was said to be a thirty-carat diamond of a unique purplish tint, claimed to be the only specimen in the world.

Paint, Not Bugs

Spray From Park Gives Car at Curb New White Coat.

PERHAPS the first long-distance paint job was inadvertently accomplished Thursday afternoon at the Riverside amusement park when an auto parked on W. Thirtieth St., at least 100 yards from the park entrance was changed from black to white in a few minutes as a result of a high wind on one of the light standards inside the resort.

In accomplishing the annual spring paint-up week activities at Riverside many barrels of white paint are being shot out of guns over the buildings and light standards much in the manner in which trees are sprayed.

It happened that the fine spray of white paint was caught in the stiff breeze and, although almost invisible when in the air, soon changed the hue of the car out on Thirtieth St.

When the angry auto owner stormed into the administration office he was properly appeased by Jack Mooney, assistant manager, who gave him an order for a complete new paint job and a pocketful of season passes on the merry-go-round.

Lindy Brings Back 'Snaps'

How Col. Charles A. Lindbergh brought back pictures of his landing at Quebec, Canada, for NEA Service and The Times is illustrated above. Lindy made a hurried flight from New York to Quebec with pneumonia serum intended for Floyd Bennett. An NEA Service photographer snapped Lindbergh's landing in a howling blizzard (below) and also a close-up of Lindy, Commander Byrd and A. G. Penny, editor of the Quebec Chronicle-Telegraph (above) as Byrd received the package containing the serum. Lindy then took the films aboard his plane and brought them back to New York, delivering them to Bob Dorman, NEA Service photographer, who was waiting at Mitchell Field, as the center picture shows.

CHURCH GIVEN BULLETIN

STRESSES NEED OF ARBITRATION

Hughes Urges Friendliness With Latin-America.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Charles E. Hughes, former Secretary of State, told the American Society of International Law here Thursday night that this country should go fully half way in arbitrating disputes with Latin-American nations.

He expressed hope that the United States would meet its sister republics in the approaching arbitration conference with a "clear-cut policy for genuinely obligatory arbitration of justifiable questions."

"We should have no stipulations which could be regarded as a reservation of the right to refuse arbitration in cases which lie outside the excepted classes," he said.

He said the recent Pan-American conference at Havana demonstrated mutual friendship of nations represented.

INVITE PUBLIC TO OLD TIME DAILEY MEETING

Old-fashioned political meetings will be duplicated at Tomlinson Hall, May 3, when the Indiana Dailey-for-Governor Club holds its "honesty meeting."

Frederick Van Nuys, president of the club, says that Frank C. Dailey, Democratic candidate for the nomination of Governor, has a desire to "get a lot of people who believe in honest politics and honest government together and talk over how to get honesty in public life."

"So," said Van Nuys, "we rented a hall and extended an invitation to all citizens who believe in honesty in politics to come. It would not be consistent with the purpose of this meeting to put on a lot of frills and pretenses, so we just are going back to old-fashioned tactics."

"This meeting will be called to order about 8 o'clock and after he talks, Dailey will greet people personally until the time arrives to go home."

LEGAL AUTHOR TO TALK

Edson Sunderland Will Address Bar Group Here, May 2.
