

FOREIGN MYSTERY COMEDY IS STUART WALKER PLAY

'Interference' Opens Monday Night, With George Gaul, Marie Adels and Larry Fletcher Heading Cast; Berkell Players Present 'Underworld.'

"INTERFERENCE," the English mystery comedy which has had an entire season's run in New York, and has just recently been released to repertory and stock, comes to Keith's next week, beginning Monday night, June 11, the sixth production of the Stuart Walker Company this season.

George Gaul of the Theatre Guild, Marie Adels, leading lady for Walter Hampden, and Larry Fletcher, who carried the "heavy" role in "The Jest," take the leading roles. Also in the cast are William Ingersoll, Ann Chase, Regina Stanfield, Aldrich Bowker and Fred Stewart.

There is said to be plenty of excitement in "Interference." A poison murder plot reunited a husband and wife following a period of chaos. The play carries a love theme, intermingled with an abundance of creepy moments.

"Interference" had a successful road tour and just recently has been released to companies outside New York, and Indianapolis will be one of the first cities to see it.

"Interference" is a "different" sort of mystery play. It brought fame to the authors, Roland Pertwee and Harold Dearden, and to Gilbert Miller who produced it in New York. "The Wooden Kimono" will be seen in Indianapolis for the last time Sunday night. This cast will go to Cincinnati, where Mr. Walker has another repertory company.

CROOK DRAMA TO BE AT ENGLISH'S

Miss Edythe Elliott, leading woman with the Berkell Players at English's, will appear next week in what she indicates is her choice role of the season so far. For her wardrobe used in the interesting character portrayal she will wear clothes purchased directly in New York, and made especially for the occasion. Miss Elliott feels that the wearing apparel in this particular case, is of paramount value.

The play deals with the night life of certain individuals, two of whom are ardent suitors for the hand of a comely maid, indifferent as to the jealousy she has incited in the hearts of her admirers. The under currents of the underworld, with its constant flow of love, hatred, revenge, catch these three in their violations of propriety, and toss them about.

The play is entirely true to life—that is, to the life which is lived by the other half of the world. The play reveals the possible cause and cure of those little tragedies which lead one into the bypaths of alluring city life. It pictures manhood and womanhood touched by uncircumspect influences, and the happy outcome when life is guided by love.

The play is not a moral play, and is melodramatic in character, with the usual touches of comedy and pathos.

It is done in three acts and six scenes. All of the members of the Citizens of Morgan and Putnam Counties to Frolic.

FIVE of this city's leading girl swimmers are featured in Alfred's Diving Girl Revue, which will be one of the free attractions at Riverside amusement park this week-end, with performances tonight and Sunday night and Sunday matinee.

An additional feature will be a balloon ascension and triple parachute leap Sunday afternoon, by Miss Ethel Pritchett, also an Indianapolis girl.

Included in the diving girl revue are such well-known local amateur swim stars as Regina Ries, Marie Delatore, Suzanne Briggs, Anna Bennett and Helen Heideman, all of whom have won many honors as mermaids representing the city's leading athletic clubs.

The act, which has been rehearsed at the Elks Club for several weeks, was organized and is produced by Blanche Alfred of New York, and has been booked for an extended tour of eastern vaudeville houses this fall, previous to which time it is filling park and fair engagements for the Burton Theatrical Agency of this city.

A large portable tank has been built for the act and this will be placed on the elevated stage at Riverside for the various novelty dives by members of the troupe, the presentation including a bathing girl style show and climaxing with a high dive by Miss Rice.

Despite the unfavorable weather conditions, Riverside has been drawing good crowds so far this summer, the free admission at all times to both children and adults, together with the free parking and checking services, proving a magnet to the park visitors.

NEW EVENTS

AT BROAD RIPPLE

Entering into the third week of its summer season, Broad Ripple Park has this year more to offer in the way of amusements than at any other time in the history of the park.

While this is the third week of the current season it marks the fifth year for summer amusement on the site now occupied by the park.

One of the latest of the attractions installed in the park this season is "The Temple of Mystery," a huge funhouse in which a bevy of pretty, young girls present a series of illusions that are baffling as well as amusing. Bluebird's Palace is another feature with its weird and laugh-producing interior.

Dancers come into their own this season in the Moonlight Dance Garden, where dancing is free at all times to the music of Rocky Hall's Golden Orchestra, a popular dance orchestra.

The new skating rink with its prize nights, the Ski, the long and thrilling coaster ride, the Kentucky Derby, with its miniature race horses, the Tumble Bug, Whip, Carroussel, Shoot-the-Chutes, Miniature Railway, Skee-ball alleys, the Fairland Flier and the concessions along "Joy Lane" vie with each other for popularity.

With real swimming weather the bathing beach will come into its own as it has always been one of the big features of the park. Motion pictures will be taken of the crowds tomorrow, which will include visitors from Morgan and Putnam counties, who will hold a joint outing in the park.

Canary Case

Florence Ryerson, scenario writer, has come east from Hollywood for a series of conferences with S. S. Van Dine, author of "The Canary Murder Case," which she will adapt for the screen. William Powell, who has just been announced as a star, will have the leading role of the detective, Philo Vance.

Work In Desert

Jack Holt and his production unit at work on the new Zane Grey film, "The Water Hole," were guests of the mayor of Beverly Hills the other day. The mayor, who is none other than Will Rogers, allowed the company to use his Beverly estate for exterior scenes in the new film.

Vacation Deferred

Mary Brian will spend her vacation in Honolulu this year, she has just announced. She had expected to go there within a few weeks in company with Esther Ralston, but her work on "The Perfumed Trap" will not be completed in time.

Hell's Angels Premiere

"Hell's Angels" will have its world premiere in New York City on Sept. 15, and subsequently will have a road-showing throughout the country.

ROUNDING ROUND THEATERS

With WALTER D. HICKMAN

MY mail has been flooded with requests that I list worth while attractions on Broadway this summer for those who will journey to New York for vacations.

Since I have done this for several summers and having escaped too serious damage on the part of those who took my advice, I will attempt it again.

Of course my list is what I would see on a visit to New York. There is one play that heads my list and it is "Strange Interlude" by Eugene O'Neill.

This O'Neill play is the most discussed play now on Broadway. You will recall that curtain rises at 5:30 in the afternoon and that the super intermission is at 7:40.

I might be blamed for putting Mae West, that lady who managed to get into jail by acting and writing a naughty play, in "Diamond Lil." This play has caught on and it is the talk of the street. It is strange theater, but everybody is seeing Mae.

Paramount Will Make Sound Film

Picture Company to Use Western Electric Device.

JESSE L. LASKY, first vice president of Paramount, in charge of production, today amplified the announcement that the Paramount Famous Lasky Corporation has consummated a deal with the Western Electric Company whereby Paramount acquired full rights to a new and highly perfected device which permits the synchronization of sound to filmed action on the screen.

Mr. Lasky disclosed that Paramount is prepared immediately to enter the talking picture field with this Western Electric sound process which he considers to be the finest on the market.

"For some months we have been conducting our own experiments and have already completed one stage whereon exhaustive tests will be conducted, leading to the time in the immediate future when Paramount will launch its first talking motion picture film. Plans are now being drawn for a second large sound-proof stage which will be completed and ready for use within two months.

"Our early experiments have been very successful," Mr. Lasky continued, "and during the summer our first production utilizing various sound effects, including dialogue, will be placed before the cameras.
