

TWO SCHOOLS OF MUSIC SOLD; TO BE MERGED

Arthur Jordan Promises
Finest Conservatory in Middle West.

Metropolitan School of Music and the Indiana College of Music and Fine Arts have been purchased by Arthur Jordan, local capitalist, who will combine the two into "one of the finest conservatories in the Middle West," it was announced today. The project is estimated to cost more than $500,000.

Both schools are to be housed in a building to be a model of its kind. Site of the building has not been announced. It is considered likely that it will be downtown. A branch may be maintained on the north side for the benefit of high school pupils.

One School 32 Years Old
Present locations of the Metropolitan school are at Pennsylvania St. and Ft. Wayne Ave., and at Thirty-Fourth and Pennsylvania Sts., opposite the new Shortridge high school.

The Indiana College of Music and Fine Arts is at 1550 N. Meridian St. Jordan purchased stock of the Metropolitan school from Directors Edward Nell, Hugh McGibney, Leslie E. Beck and the estate of Mrs. Flora Hunter. The Indiana college was bought from Mrs. Blanche Harrington, owner and secretary-treasurer. The Metropolitan school is thirty-two years old. It started with a staff of thirteen instructors in 1895 and now employs forty-eight.

Enrollment Trebled
The late Oliver Willard Pierce left the Metropolitan faculty in 1907 to found the Indiana college. He headed the school until his retirement in 1918. He died in 1925. Mrs. Harrington took over the school in 1925. Mrs. Henry Schumann is president. The school has trebled its enrollment since 1924. Jordan became a director in 1926.

Jordan also is a director of Butler University and donor of $1,000,000 for construction of the Jordan Memorial Bldg., first unit of the new Butler, now being completed on the north side site.

Troubles Were Relieved by Theford's Black-Draught.

"For a long time I had a severe case of indigestion," says Mrs. Bell Buckheister, of 7 River St., Piedmont, S. C. "So many things that I ate hurt me. I almost quit eating until I was so weak and run-down. I could not do my work, or go about to see my friends."

"I would burn in my chest. I had severe headache, and such a tight, smothering feeling. I would be obliged to eat a little, then it would hurt me."

"A friend said to me: 'What causes your smothering spells?' and I told her 'indigestion and constipation.'" She said: "Why don't you take Black-Draught more often?"

"I was just too weak then to do my work. I began taking small doses after meals, and in just a few weeks I could eat anything I wanted to, then I took my small dose of Black-Draught and feel fine."

"I soon regained my health and strength, and could eat most anything."

"I am now seventy-five years old. I keep boarders. I cook for mine, and do all my work with ease, and feel strong and well."

"I haven't taken any other medicine for five or six years. I am rid of the stomach trouble, don't get constipated, and give the praise to Black-Draught."

In letters to Senator George W. Norris, chairman of the Senate judiciary committee; Attorney General John G. Sargent and Postmaster General Harry S. New, Hicks demanded Federal investigation of Rozelle's business and his removal from office.

Rozelle denied Hicks' charges that his business was fraudulent, saying "mail order houses are always subjects of complaint but I have never received complaint from the Postoffice Department during the time I have owned the company."

STEVE'S AID FREED

War Pay Suit Against Attorney Dismissed.

A Government suit against John H. Kiplinger, Rushville, Ind., former attorney for D. C. Stephenson, seeking to recover $175 alleged to have been illegally drawn by Kiplinger while in the Army, was dismissed in Federal Court Monday by Albert Ward, United States district attorney.

The suit charged Kiplinger, while a captain in the 139th Field Artillery during the war failed to deduct $175 allotment to his wife, paid by the Government when he made out his monthly pay voucher in Aug., 1919.

Ward explained the suit originally was filed at instance of the United States Attorney General's office and that it was dismissed because of a law invalidating such claims of the Government in war cases, and the difficulty of proving fraud. Kiplinger became prominent in the early stages of Indiana political corruption inquiry when he figured in the group which blocked authorities on the trail of Stephenson's "black boxes."

DUVALL IS SUED FOR $5,000 BY ATTORNEY

Fee Alleged to Be Due for Work in Million Dollar Suit.

Former Mayor John L. Duvall was sued for $5,000 by Attorney Milton L. Clawson for fees alleged to be due for work in $1,000,000 damage suit brought by Duvall against a group of newspapers and D. C. Stephenson.

The suit, brought in Superior Court Friday, alleged Clawson furnished information which Duvall used in making a settlement several months later. Duvall denies this. Newspapers printing an alleged contract between Duvall and Stephenson, by which the Klan leader was to dictate city appointments, were defendants in the suit, which was dismissed by Duvall. Newspapers in the original suit included The Indianapolis Times, the Vincennes Commercial, the Chicago Tribune, the Richmond Palladium, the Anderson Herald, the Huntington Herald and the Rushville Republican.

JAILED OVER 'CHASER' FOR COD LIVER OIL

'Try Crackers Instead of Booze,' Federal Judge
Tells Negro.

Federal Judge Robert C. Baltzell uses crackers to take the taste of cod liver oil from his mouth, so he had little sympathy with the plea of Henry Clay, Negro, Apt. 2, 705 N. Senate Ave., that he used a half pint of liquor found in his apartment to kill the taste of cod liver oil.

"I expect you need something after taking cod liver oil," said Baltzell. "I use crackers."

Clay couldn't explain the presence of home brew in the apartment. He was sentenced to thirty days in jail and his wife to one day.

They were two of the nineteen defendants indicted in the strip stamp conspiracy case and charged with flooding the country with labels and revenue stamps to be used in disguising prohibition-era whiskey as "real stuff."

They pleaded guilty.

"The idea of bottling up poisonous liquor and labeling it to fool people is all wrong," said Baltzell.

Le Roy Reuter, R. R. C., was sentenced to ninety days in jail on the charge he operated a bootleg place. Charles Shiner, arrested with him, pleaded he had a gun because his "crackers had 'shot up' the place two days before the dry raid."

BREWSTER IS DEFEATED IN MAINE VOTE

Hale Is Nominated for Senate by G. O. P.;
Majority 22,000.

By United Press
PORTLAND, Me., June 19.—In one of the bitterest primary elections ever held in Maine, Senator Frederick Hale was overwhelmingly nominated for a third term over his Republican rival, Governor Ralph B. Brewster, by a majority of 22,000 votes.

In the gubernatorial primary, Colonel William Tudor Gardiner won the Republican nomination for Governor, later returns indicating he would receive more votes than his three opponents combined.

Gardiner was opposed by State Senator Frederick W. Hinckley, Herbert C. Libby, Colby College professor, and John G. Smith, State Bank Commissioner.

The nominations for the Democratic party were uncontested and a light vote was cast. Edward C. Moran, Jr., a Rockland insurance man, is running for Governor, and Herbert E. Holmes, a Lewiston lawyer, is the democratic nominee for Senator.

A record-breaking vote was cast in the Republican primaries, exceeding any other primary by 15,000 votes.

Gardiner's victory was said to be due to his endorsement of a policy favoring the exportation of water power, which has always been prevented under the twenty-year Fernald law.

AIR TRAFFIC LAW IS DRAWN UP FOR CITY

Deputy Prosecutor to Work for Uniform Regulations.

John M. Caylor, deputy prosecutor, is drawing up Indianapolis' first air traffic ordinance.

On request of Police Chief Claude M. Worley, Caylor is writing the measure to be submitted to the council.

If it passes the city council Caylor intends to urge the measure be passed by the Legislature and by other cities over the country, providing a uniform nation-wide regulation of air traffic.

Submit Law to U. S.

Chief Worley several weeks ago asked Caylor to find an ordinance believed to be in effect prohibiting planes from flying over the city at lower than 2,000 feet altitude. Caylor was unable to find the ordinance, and Worley asked him to draw up a measure.

Worley will submit the draft of the ordinance to Federal aviation authorities and before asking the council to pass it.

Complaints Numerous

Numerous complaints that some aviators are flying low over the city, frightening chickens and nearly "taking the chimneys off houses" impelled the action.

In the proposed ordinance he is drafting planes are required to keep 2,000 feet or more high while over the city except when ending or starting a flight, Caylor said.

Paul H. Moor, Chamber of Commerce aviation secretary, and Howard B. Rough, Department of Commerce aeronautical inspector, are aiding Caylor.

Noise of Police Station Quieted by Lost Child

A little breath of heaven flitted into police station Monday afternoon and for a time the hectic headquarters of human misery enjoyed a peace unparalleled in the memory of the oldest, hard-boiled cop.

Betty Hudson, two and half-year-old daughter of Mrs. Cecil Hudson, 1702 E. Maryland St., brought the blessed period of quiet with her.

Betty stays with her grandmother while her mother works. The child started for a walk. Police were called to 1441 Eastern Ave., where they found Betty crying because she was lost. They took her to headquarters and turned her over to Mrs. Elizabeth Denny, matron in charge of the woman's section of city prison.

The child cried heart-brokenly for her mother. Mrs. Denny took her into her arms, rocked her to sleep and placed her on a cot. Woe to the flat-footed officer who made unnecessary noise in that district thereafter until Betty's worried mother found her.

COUNCIL ASKED TO REVERSE 2 CORNER ZONES

City Plan Commission
Seeks Restriction of Areas to Apartments.

Ordinances to rezone two corners which were zoned for business by the former city council were before the new council today.

City plan commissioners asked the council to reverse the status of the southeast corner of Central Ave. and Thirty-Eighth St. and northwest corner of Twenty-Seventh and Meridian Sts.

City plan commission recommended the corners be changed from business to apartment territory. Existing business is exempted under the zoning law.

Change Street Name

The Central Ave. intersection includes the lot which former Councilman O. Ray Alberston bought from the city park board after it had been rezoned by the council of which he was a member.

It was revealed that Alberston obtained title to the lot from the city shortly before he turned State's evidence against his fellow councilmen in the bribery scandal. After "telling all" in the trial of Boynton J. Moore, Alberston resigned from the council during the "house cleaning."

The name of Pike St. between Sheldon St. and Hillside Ave. was changed to E. Twenty-Fifth St. by council Monday night. Council unanimously passed a ordinance rezoning the southeast corner of Forty-Sixth and Illinois Sts. from business to residential district.

Adopt New Rules

The corner was zoned for business when the city planned erection of a fire station on the corner. A filling station since has been erected on an adjoining lot but will not be affected by the rezoning.

An ordinance changing council rules, designed by John F. White, was adopted. The new rules abolishes the post of sergeant-at-arms, providing instead that a policeman be called in event such an officer is needed. City Clerk William A. Boyce will assume duties formerly performed by the sergeant-at-arms.
