

USTON GLAD T WAS HOST TO DEMOCRATS

Texas Lost All of Its Fights in Convention, but Isn't Kicking.

BY C. J. LILLEY

HOUSTON, Texas, July 2.—The state that played host to the Democrats convention, lost out all around in its proceedings. Governor Dan Moody fought for a bone dry plank, as written by the Texas State convention and admitted defeat.

Jesse Jones, of Houston, was put up as a candidate and received forty-three votes. The citizens of Texas contributed to the convention cost and are out an amount ranging anywhere from $550,000 to $650,000.

Despite the cost and despite the fights that were waged in vain, Texas was far from down-hearted at what occurred.

Houston citizens, ranging from Mayor Holcombe down, were all extravagant in their remarks about the convention. They praised it and hoped that the delegates had had a good time, while here.

Jesse Jones Satisfied

Governor Moody told the convention that regardless of what had occurred he was still a Democrat.

Jesse Jones continued to straighten out convention arrangements and exhibited no disappointment.

Even his fight with Will Hogg, the multimillionaire who objected to nearly everything that he did, failed to mar the proceedings for him, friends of Jones said.

Houston today was settling down to its regular routine.

The $200,000 temporary convention hall is to be left standing.

Business men returned to their offices and took up the work that they dropped weeks ago in order to help serve the Democratic party.

The Rice and other hotels settled down to normalcy and once again single rooms were used by one person instead of housing several.

Elevator Service Normal

Elevator service in the hotels returned to an ordinary basis so that it was no longer necessary to rope off lobbies in order to protect persons from overcrowding and possible accident.

Bunting was being taken down and American flags put away. Houston was settling down for a long, warm summer, contented in the thought that it had made Democratic history and brought the National convention south of the Mason and Dixon line for the first time since before the Civil War.

GIVES KIDNAPER SLIPS

South Bend Child Escapes On Pretext of Getting Drink.

By United Press
SOUTH BEND, Ind., July 2.—Katie Sinko, 13, escaped a kidnaper when she left his presence on a pretext of getting a drink while in a theater.

While on her way home from school a young man in an automobile forced her to enter it. After driving around the city, the man took the girl with him to the theater where she succeeded in escaping.

No, Not 'Howdy, Pop'

When a duke meets a king in a public place and when the duke happens to be the king's son, what sort of greetings do you suppose are exchanged? Here's King George of England shaking hands with the Duke of York as they met at the horse show at Surrey. The deferential doffing of the ducal headgear explodes the hunch that the youngster might be saying, "Howdy, pop."

THRONGS RUSH TO SEASHORE

July Heat Jams Resorts in N. Y.; 8 Drown.

By United Press
NEW YORK, July 2.—The summer holiday season opened Sunday with a week-end that will extend through the Fourth of July and between 2,000,000 and 3,000,000 persons were believed to have departed for the mountains and the seashore. Every seat resort within close proximity of the metropolis was crowded Sunday, a day that was warm but with sufficient wind to prevent suffering.

The Rockaways were reported to have received 600,000 visitors; Coney Island another 600,000. Asbury Park, N. J., 75,000, and estimates placed the number of persons going through Grand Central terminal and the Pennsylvania station at 750,000. Eight drowning deaths were reported from the various ocean resorts.

The undertow at the Rockaways was said to be the greatest in years and three persons were drowned there while seventeen were rescued by life guards. The full summer complement of life guards was in force at the Rockaways Sunday for the first time this year.

Nervousness and Stomach Trouble Ended by Konjola

Gladly Indorses This Medicine as a Product of Merit.

Konjola's popularity is due only to one thing—MERIT. A little over two years ago this medicine was unknown to the people of Indianapolis, but today it takes its place among the leading proprietaries in every drug store in this city. Thousands of men and women from all over this section have endorsed it as the only medicine that gave them lasting relief from disorders of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and rheumatism and neuritis, and the Konjola Man at Hook's drug store, Illinois and Washington Sts., this city, is still receiving one report after another from former sufferers who have been restored to new and glorious health. There can be only one reason for this great demand and that is the fact that Konjola in most cases does everything claimed for it.

One of the latest reports of the benefits received from this celebrated compound is from Mr. F. R. Maurice, a well-known Indianapolis citizen, living at 334 Cable St. Mr. Maurice enjoys a wide acquaintance among the merchants of this city because of his frequent contact with them as a tobacco salesman. "This is the first time I ever made a public indorsement of a medicine," said Mr. Maurice, "but I am satisfied Konjola is a product of merit and worthy of all the praise it is receiving every day from the people of Indianapolis. It completely ended my stomach trouble and nervousness and filled my whole system with new life energy."

"Ever so often I was subject to attacks of stomach trouble that finally made life miserable for me. In fact at times the suffering and pains were almost unbearable. Gas bloating caused me the most misery. Every time I ate a full meal, my stomach would swell and feel like there was a heavy rock at the bottom of it. This gas often caused burning pains around the heart and at night I was subject to smothering spells. Soon my nervous system was affected. The least little thing would set my nerves on edge and a terrible feeling would come over me. Sound sleep was out of the question and consequently, I always felt tired and drowsy. But Konjola relieved all this misery, and now my stomach is in good shape and my nerves never bother me. At night my sleep is sound and restful and I wake up in the morning full of new energy and feeling fine."

"Konjola was the first medicine to relieve my illness and it worked so effectively on all the organs of my inner-system that I believe my relief will be permanent."

The Konjola Man is at Hook's drug store, Illinois and Washington Sts., Indianapolis, where he is daily meeting the public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Konjola is sold in every Hook drug store in this section and by all the leading druggists throughout this section.—Advertisement.

MUCH ACTIVITY SHOWN BY KIDS FOR DERBY DAY

Entries Pour Into Times
Offices as Training
Period Starts.

The scooter derby entries are pouring in to The Times office daily, and hundreds of kids all over the city are on their training diets, and taking daily practice spins on the sidewalks, or at the playgrounds nearest their homes.

Entries may now be taken to the playgrounds, as well as to The Times office. Hurry and get them in, for the lists will be closed shortly and the races will begin. Clip the blank which appears in The Times today, and mail it or bring it to The Times office, or to the playground where you play.

The $500 in cash prizes will be augmented by merchandise and other prizes. Watch for the announcements of the extra prizes. One will be a toy automobile which runs by itself.

Get your blank in today!

Recreation Director Jesse P. McClure has announced that the race will be supervised carefully, and will be run on a paved street blocked off for the occasion to provide absolute safety for the contestants.

Every Indianapolis youngster who has a scooter should get into the race. It is your chance for a real prize, and splendid training for every boy and girl. Athletic leaders from all parts of the State will contribute advice for the entrants. But the first thing is the entry blank—send or bring it in today!

SENATE DUE TO LOSE A LEADER

Curtis, Robinson Vie for Rostrum Honor.

HOUSTON, Texas, July 2.—The United States Senate is about to lose a party floor leader. The nominees for Vice President of the Republican and Democratic parties are the Senate floor leaders of those two parties. One of them is going to be elected and leave the Senate floor for the rostrum. The other will continue to hold office, for his candidacy does not require resignation from the Senate.

If Charles Curtis is elected, Republican leadership in the Senate might pass to Wesley Jones of Washington, Republican whip, or to David Reed of Pennsylvania.

On the Democratic side, if Robinson should be successful, Pat Harrison, party whip, and Key Pittman, who was chairman of the resolutions committee at this convention, would probably be in line for his job. Possibly Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana would be a candidate. With either Robinson or O. in the vice presidential chair, Senate will have a skilled president officer. Not for a number of years past has a Vice President been elected from the Senate.
