

Gifts Make Up Masonic Funds for Cathedral

Memorial Windows Will Mark Scottish Rite Home.

Along with plans for conferring the degrees this coming fall and winter, Scottish Rite Masons in the Valley of Indianapolis are giving attention to the completion and adornment of the new cathedral now being erected in N. Meridian St.

A large part of the cost of the furnishings, equipment and beautification, from present indications, will be met by voluntary contributions of money. In fact, many notable gifts already have been announced, although no solicitation for such is being made.

A large part of the cathedral embellishment will take the form of stained glass windows and models of a number of these have been placed on display in the temple in S. Pennsylvania St. The models were fashioned from suggestions made by George F. Schreiber, architect, who has studied the cathedrals of Europe and America.

Tradition Explains Music. Two models of the windows are shown in the illustration, the one on the right being symbolic of music. It is one of forty to be provided for the big lounge room of the cathedral. It is described as follows:

"Music is one of the quadrivium science founded, according to the Masonic system of morality, veiled in allegory and illustrated by symbols, by Jubal, brother of Tubal Cain, a teacher of musicians on the harp and organ, as recorded in Genesis.

"In the transom of this window are presented Beethoven and Mozart, two immortal names in the history of music. The larger medallion shows the influences in lulling the passions of wild beasts: the opposite medallion, a female figure playing the harp as introduced in temple worship.

Blue Background. Both are against a blue background, the symbol of universal friendship and benevolence, with a further background of amber and olive tones. There is a rich gothic detail in combinations of red, the symbol of devotion, fervency and zeal. Birds are introduced, symbolical of the freedom and inspiration of music, with delicately designed instruments, the trumpet, lute and harp. Touches of blue are interspersed throughout the windows as a foil for the reds and rubies colors used in the higher forms of masonry.

These windows are four by eight feet and other subjects to be worked out include: Industry, peace, truth, myths, arts and sciences, such as architecture, painting, sculpture, poetry, mathematics, astronomy, medicine, theology, literature, the labor history, the dance, the five senses, the four seasons and others.

Memorials Planned. The window on the left is devoted exclusively to the Rose Croix branch of the Scottish Rite, worked out with the symbolism of the Seventeenth and Eighteenth degrees, jewels and roses, in harmonizing combinations of reds, blues, amber and purple. This window, three by eight feet, will be at the right of the main structure. A similar window devoted to the council, Princes of Jerusalem, will be at the left of the entrance.

Many of the windows will be "memorials" to individuals and organizations. The stained glass transoms to be placed over the main entrance is to be contributed by Mystic Tie lodge No. 338. Another window will be provided by Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Ehnes in memory of their son, Richard H. Schweitzer, thirty-third degree member of Knightstown, has contributed $5,000 for the window in memory of William Geake, for many years deputy of the supreme council, thirty-third degree, for Indiana.

Before his death, Thomas C. Rutledge arranged for a window in memory of his sister.

Elaborate Tower Windows. Elaborate tower windows also will be placed in the 200-foot tower, which also will house the carillon or "singing bells," the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur R. Baxter, to cost more than $50,000.

Many other gifts previously have been made public. J. L. Holcomb is chairman of the committee on gifts and memorials, of which many inquiries are being made in regard to contributions.

The semi-annual convocation of the rite is scheduled for Dec. 3 to 6 inclusive and the "first section" of the candidates will start through the grades Oct. 17, taking the work on Wednesday and Friday evenings.

Fred I. Willis, the secretary, already is receiving petitions for this section. Vincent V. Smith, thrice potent master of Adoniram Grand Lodge of Perfection, says the activities of the rite are being carried forward throughout the jurisdiction during the summer months and meeting with great interest among master masons.

At the coming exemplifications he expects the largest number of candidates in a number of years.

LOVE FOR TWO

NEA Service Inc.

THIS HAS HAPPENED. BERTIE LOU WARD, on the eve of her wedding to ROD DEERY, receives a paper knife as a gift from LILA WARD, who had turned Rod down because he was not wealthy.

The feel of the metal chilled Bertie Lou, and the thought that she was to be married to a man who had turned her down because he was not wealthy.

Bertie Lou almost forgot the shadow of the predatory over-shoulder cast by the man who had turned her down because he was not wealthy.

ODD FELLOWS' INDIANA POLICY BEING CHANGED

Grand Sire Here to Aid in Revamping Work of Lodges.

A reshaping of the policy in the Indiana jurisdiction of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows followed the three-day visit last week of Leon S. Merrill, Orono, Me., grand sire of the order.

Merrill is making a visit to every division of the lodge in the United States during the term of his office. He left Indianapolis Thursday for Wisconsin, where he will hold a series of conferences with State officials.

"The work of Indiana Odd Fellowship compares favorably with that in other States I have visited," said Merrill. "I commend most heartily the work of its officials and see only a bright future for the Hoosier order."

He visited Philoxenian Lodge at its new home, 1336 N. Delaware St., when three candidates were initiated.

Hospital Fund $4,000. The $125,000 hospital fund for the Odd Fellows Home has been augmented by voluntary contributions boosting the fund to more than $4,000, according to Bornwasser.

Rebekah officers are distributing 1,800 rituals, which will go into effect today. A similar change now is being made in every State.

Shepard, Hazel Wilson, Frank Moscow, Alfred Collins, Ethel Byers, George Moscow, Felix Rutter, William Francis and Albert Satterfield.

Naomi chapter conferred the degrees at a called meeting last Friday night following a dinner attended by all officers and committees.

Naomi will hold no meetings in July and August.

The 1926 and 1927 past worthy matrons attended a picnic today one mile south of Beech Grove. The organization members of Prospect chapter will be in charge.

Mrs. Beatrice Trusler, worthy matron of Brightwood chapter, announces a called meeting Saturday evening, July 7, for the conferring of the degrees on a class of six men.

A 6 o'clock dinner will precede the meeting.

Heads Luncheon Club. Dr. O. O. Carter, 508 Knights of Pythias Bldg., was elected president of the Knights of Columbus luncheon club at the last meeting in the Spink-Grims. Dr. Carter is the founder and first president of the club in 1924.

Melvin Shisla was named vice president and Stephen Wilhelm was elected secretary-treasurer.

The Rev. Michael Lyons of Our Lady of Lourdes Church, and the Rev. Charles Duffy of the Little Flower Church were the speakers.

Dick Miller, president of the Chamber of Commerce, will speak at the meeting Friday.

Terre Haute Elks Frolic. TERRE HAUTE, Ind., July 2.—More than 1,200 members of the Elks Club and their families attended the annual picnic of the order last week on a farm north of Terre Haute, Ind. The event drew Elks from western Indiana and eastern Illinois.

Bertie Lou unspun her hair and went over to the dresser to do it properly.

"Rod says I'm the prettiest girl in the world," she said during the process. "I'm not afraid of Lila taking him away from me. But it makes me mad to have her trying to cook up a triangle out of her old love affair with Rod and our marriage. I don't mean a regular triangle, but a silly three-cornered mess that will just keep the town talking and have people asking each other how they think I like being second choice."

The last words came slowly, reluctantly, as though she hated the sound of them.

Her mother regarded her silently for a moment and then got up to go.

"There's a steak and some cleaned vegetables in the icebox for your supper if you feel like cooking it," she said. "But I think maybe you'd better come home with me. You look awfully tired, Bertie Lou."

"Don't worry about us. We're the happiest couple in the world. Lila can't spoil it, and if I don't have such crazy ideas about wanting things just so, I wouldn't care what she did. I wish I had some of her indifference to the rest of the world. She doesn't give a bang what anyone says."

"Well, I never thought you cared so much either, Bertie Lou. You always were pretty up-to-date."

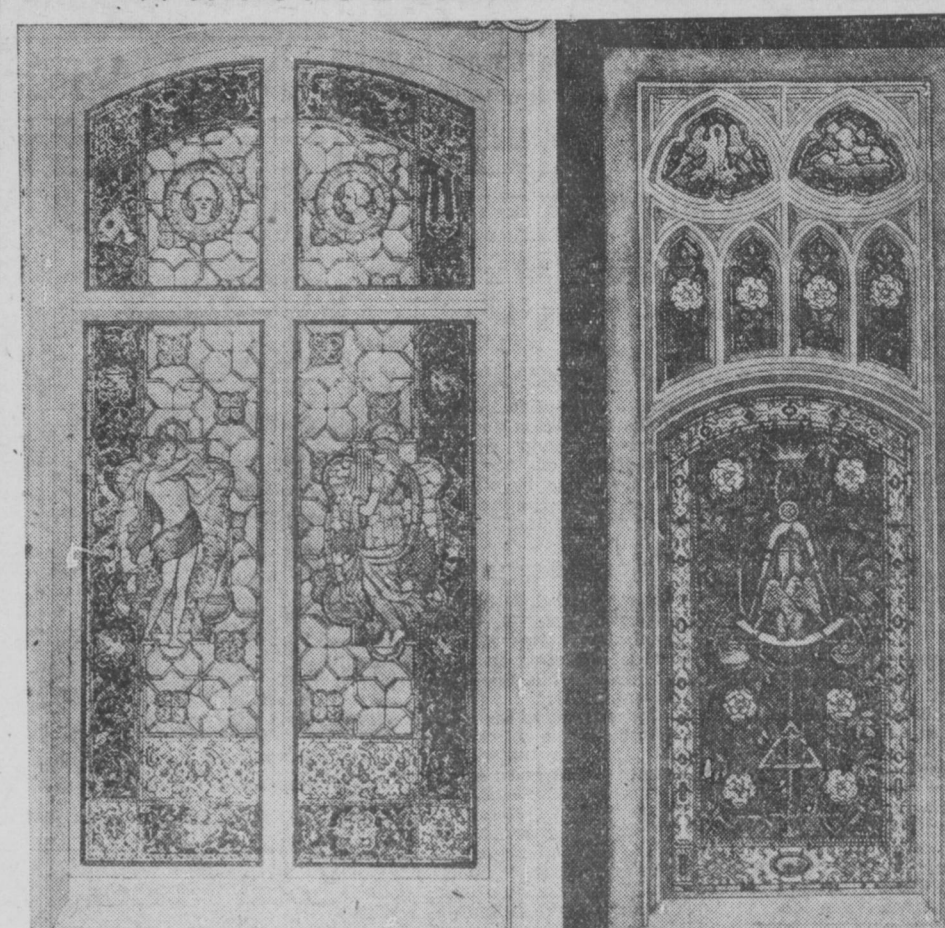

"Oh, about hobs and short skirts and cigarettes. But I don't like making a town topic out of my marriage, like the latest murder mystery or love nest scandal."

"It can't be that bad," her mother soothed. "But I wish you'd find a way to drop Lila. It can't do any good to let her come right into your home and torment you. She..."

Mrs. Ward stopped abruptly, her speech interrupted by the ringing of the door bell.
