

COOLIDGE GETS FINE TROUT AND REGISTERS JOY

President Given Thrill by Good Sport on His 56th Anniversary.

BY ROBERT MOOREFIELD, United Press Staff Correspondent
SUPERIOR, Wis., July 5.—Exuberant over his Fourth of July fishing triumphs, President Coolidge today will receive Governor Fred R. Zimmerman of Wisconsin at the summer White House.

Governor Zimmerman, a former Republican insurgent, who has joined the regular party ranks with a pledge to support Herbert Hoover, will be an overnight guest.

Politics will not be discussed, the Governor said. An expert angler himself, his conversations with the President probably will concern the Waltonian art.

Coolidge Enjoys Holiday

Independence day at the summer White House, which was Mr. Coolidge's sixty-fifth birthday, was a highly enjoyable one, both for the executive family and for the newspaper men and photographers assigned to Cedar Island lodge.

It was the first time since the President's arrival that the latter were allowed to make pictures of Mr. Coolidge whipping the stream on the picturesque Henry Clay Pierce estate, and the results were gratifying to both.

Mr. Coolidge landed five excellent trout and the cameramen ground out film to their heart's content.

The President seemed pleased with his catch and ordered John La Roche, his Chippewa Indian guide, to paddle his canoe slowly in review before the photographers.

"Did you get that one when he jumped?" Mr. Coolidge inquired of them.

When assured that the action had been recorded, a broad smile spread over his face.

Wears Lumberjack Garb

The President's holiday garb consisted of his famous ten-gallon hat, a black and red lumber jacket, riding breeches and lace boots. Mrs. Coolidge was dressed in white, while John, their son, had breeches and boots similar to his father's.

On his return from the fishing trip, the President called Mrs. Coolidge to the front lawn, and together they cut a seventeen-pound birthday cake baked for him by Mrs. F. L. Cowen of Duluth.

Each was in a holiday mood. The President chatted affably with newspaper men, while Mrs. Coolidge played with Rob Roy, the White House collie, and her red chow, Terrible Tim. Both assisted in serving guests.

WHERE IS TSCHIFFELY?

Chamber of Commerce Has Letters for Argentine Flier.

Has anybody seen A. F. Tschiffely, "test flight" aviator supposed to have taken to the air from Buenos Aires en route to New York?

Paul H. Moore, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce aeronautics committee, has letters for him and a lot more of them about him.

A telegram from St. Louis June 14 advised Moore the flier was bringing a letter from Buenos Aires to the national commander of the American Legion for delivery here. Then came a letter from the National Geographic Society for the flier. Next the Argentine embassy in Washington inquired for Tschiffely.

Moore hasn't heard from him and inquiries continue to arrive.

City Storm Hurls Tree to Housetop

TREES UPROOTED BY STORM'S FURY

Trees were torn from yards and roadsides, water rose to six feet in a subway, a barn blew down and a home was struck by lightning during the wind, rain and electrical storm Wednesday night.

Several were injured and others narrowly escaped.

Firemen and police formed rescue squads and brought marooned motorists to safety. Pumps were busy lifting the water from the low places into the swollen sewers.

Marion County tuberculosis hospital at Sunnyside was one of the first places to feel the violence of the storm. As it swept from the east and northern sections of the city it swooped down on the Sunnyside grounds and uprooted a dozen trees. Patients on porches were hurried inside and many persons who had assembled to witness the fireworks display were drenched by the rain, according to Dr. Harvard S. Hatch, superintendent of the institution.

Thugs at various parks where picnics were being held and at the amusement parks where fireworks programs were halted underwent similar experience.

At the home of Russell M. Edwards, Seventy-First and Pennsylvania Sts., a huge tree was uprooted and hurled across the roof of the house.

A tree fell across the roof of V. V. Smith's house, 5824 Guilford Ave., damages being so extensive that the family must live elsewhere, pending repairs.

The Kiefer Mayer home 4326 N. Illinois St., was struck by lightning and damage was estimated at $100. A barn on the Ellenberg farm, one mile east of the city, was blown down.

Helen Anderson, 8, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Anderson, 1856 Ghent Ave., and Mrs. Nellie Rough, 649 S. Alabama St., waded to safety when the water reached the floor boards of their stalled car.

The little girl had been seriously ill and was rushed to her home by police.

Fortville Man Hurt

One man was injured and roads blocked by fallen trees in the vicinity of Fortville, where the storm was close to tornado violence. Business houses were damaged and the town left in darkness through blowing down of light wires.

Harry Dicks, employed at the Big Four Railroad station near Fortville, was severely cut by glass from broken windows in stores. A Union Traction Company shelter, house was blown across tracks.

Six persons were stunned when the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Reese, Noblesville, was struck by lightning. Those hurt, besides the Reese couple, were their children, Rosemary and Perry, and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Patterson. The house was badly damaged. A dog and one of her six pups were killed when the bolt struck a kennel near the home. The five other pups, only two feet from the animals killed, escaped injury.

GIRL IS SENTENCED

Pretty Young Mother Admits Embezzling.

Mrs. Faye Grayson Summers, pretty 23-year-old Shelbyville girl, was sentenced to nine months in the correctional department of the Indiana Woman's Prison today on a plea of guilty to embezzlement, by Criminal Judge James A. Collins.

Dressed strikingly in red and black, with bright red pumps and hat, Mrs. Summers was unmoved as prosecutors explained how she embezzled approximately $400 in six months as cashier of the Starr Piano Company.

She sobbed slightly and leaned heavily on the shoulder of Lawrence Shaw, her attorney, as sentence was pronounced. Mrs. Summers said she has been married, has a child a year and a half old who is in Shelbyville with her parents, and that her husband deserted her.

The falsifications were effected by destroying the duplicates of receipts, and failing to make the entries in the cash book, it was shown.

POPE GIVES UP DAILY WALKS FOR CAR RIDES

Report Change Made Because of Pius' Poor Health.

ROME, July 5.—Pope Pius XI, for more than a month now, has given up his daily walks in the vatican gardens, taking only automobile rides. The change has been attributed to the pope's health, which, according to rumor, has been less satisfactory than usual.

A private prelate of his holiness, however, has said that the pope has made the change merely to avoid the discomfort of walking in the heat of the summer sun.

Pius XI, a few years ago, had a special covering built into the wall of Leo IV by the side of the vatican gardens, and even in days of heavy rain it has been his custom to walk rapidly up and down his sheltered promenade.

Water From Silver Mine Makes Desert Ranch Pay

Hundred Acres Irrigated by Using Waste From Famous Shaft.

By United Press
TONOPAH, Nev., July 5.—Victor Lambertucci, who has made many blades of grass grow where none ever grew before, is the owner of probably the only ranch in the world irrigated from water pumped from a big silver mine.

The Lambertucci hundred-acre ranch is one of the show places of this desert area of Nevada.

The water comes from the Victor mine, which has produced many millions of dollars' worth of silver and gold ore.

Wheels of the huge Diesel engines revolve day and night operating the big pumps that lift the water to the surface to make it possible for miners to work underground.

Victor Lambertucci, born in Italy, first came to Tonopah about ten years ago to work in the mines. Lambertucci did not like mining. Coming off his shift one afternoon he noticed large streams of water pouring down the hillside.

He went to John G. Kirchen, the boss, and got permission to use the mine's waste waters. He started in to clear up a few acres.

Five years ago he built a greenhouse at a cost of $15,000. The ranch

DELAY FACED IN FRANKFORT BRIBE TRIAL

Fail to Receive Orders for Special Jury Venire for Monday.

Further delay in the trial of Martin Frankfort, realty dealer, for bribery of the Indianapolis city council, was seen today when the jury commissioners failed to receive orders for a special venire of prospective jurors to report Monday, trial date.

It was said important witnesses of the State are out of the city. It is feared they will not be located before Monday.

Return to the city of Jury Commissioner Joseph R. Raub allowed the commission to draw special venires for other pending cases, the regular panel, and ten names for the new grand jury to report Monday.

No Comment by Remy

When Criminal Judge James A. Collins changed the orders for jurors, to report Monday instead of today as the delayed orders had read, he failed to send down one for the Frankfort trial.

Prosecutor William H. Remy had no comment. It was said his office is making efforts to locate the missing witness.

Frankfort's trial has been delayed from time to time since March when the first of the councilmen Boynton J. Moore, went to trial for bribery. Since then other councilmen have been allowed to plead guilty under a lesser statute escaping the penitentiary by payment of a light fine.

Moore's three to fourteen-year sentence has been commuted by Governor Ed Jackson, leaving Martin and ex-Councilman Claude Negley to be tried for bribery, punishable by imprisonment.

Ten Names Drawn

Ten names drawn today to fill four vacancies on the new grand jury, reporting Monday, are:

PURCHASE TRAILERS

Contract Is Signed by City Sanitary Board.

Contract with the Highway Trailer Company, Edgewood, Wis., for eight garbage trailers was signed today by city sanitary commissioners.

O. C. Ross, president, wrote an explanatory letter to Earl Cox and Taylor E. Groninger, attorneys, representatives of the Freuhauff Trailer Company, who protested awarding the contract to the Highway company, comparing specifications of the Indianapolis trailer with that purchased in other cities. The attorneys charged the Highway company offered the same product for less money to other cities.

"The trailer which the Highway company offered for $1,670 is specially made with features not contained in any trailer heretofore offered. We believe the confusion arose over the designation of a number of trailers of the same general type, but of substantial construction differences, as XC166 trailers," the letter said.

A. H. Moore, city engineer, and B. J. T. Jeup, board members, said they were convinced the Highway bid was in keeping with the quality of the product.

POWER TO RULE ON TECH BONDS LOST BY STATE

Tax Board Fails to Rule on Issue Within Time Limit Set by Law.

The State tax board lost its power to say anything about the $215,000 bond issue for the Technical High School auditorium when it failed to act before last Saturday, it was disclosed today.

In consequence, the Indianapolis school board, which has been in controversy with the tax board for many months, gleefully went about preparations to issue the bonds and award contracts.

President Theodore Vonnegut of the school board announced the board probably will go ahead at a special meeting Friday.

Word From Tax Board

First word that the tax board, which has carefully scrutinized the Technical issue because of difficulties with the local board on other occasions, had lost its power to act came from the tax body itself.

Tax Commissioner Philip Zoercher pointed out the section of the 1925 tax law which, he said, convinced him the school board could go ahead without further word from the tax board.

This section provides that after the tax board directs a taxing unit to receive bids on the contracts and bond issue for a given improvement the bids shall be submitted to the tax board within five days after they are received. The school board did this on June 14.

The law further says the tax board shall either approve, reject or reduce the amount of the bond issue or rate of interest within fifteen days thereafter. This apparently escaped the tax board for the fifteen-day period ended June 30, last Saturday.

No Shipp Equipment

Zoercher indicated the tax board would do nothing further.

The bids we received on the construction were so low that we will only need to issue bonds for $200,000," said School President Vonnegut. "That will give us about $2,000 to cover contingencies."

"The tax board might as well have gone ahead and acted like men, when they could find nothing wrong with the plans we submitted. There is no Shipp equipment in this contract."

The tax board has been inquiring into the extensive use of C. C. Shipp ventilating devices in Indianapolis schools.
