

HOOVER DRIVE IS CENTERED ON AL STRONGHOLD

Campaign Starts With Rush in New York Sector; Favorable Reports.

BY RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON, July 9. — The campaign for Herbert Hoover has started with a rush in the New York sector, where the decisive engagement of the presidential battle may be fought.

Encouraging reports of conditions in Al Smith's home territory have been made to Under Secretary Ogden L. Mills, one of the outstanding Hoover leaders in the east, and he has presented a preliminary report to both Hoover and Secretary Work, Republican national chairman.

Mills has attended several ratification meetings held by New York G. O. P. organizations which were among the groups that held out to the last against Hoover's nomination.

Interests Swing to Hoover
Informal canvasses have indicated that many elements which usually support Smith in State contests may desert him in the national election. It also is reported that some of the large downtown interests opposing Hoover during the pre-convention campaign now have swung to him.

Another large group of voters usually found in the Smith camp, but now reported friendly to the Republican nominee, are the foreign-born and their children. Smith always has rolled up a tremendous vote in their districts, but they are said to look favorably on Hoover because of his relief work during and after the war.

Mills also expects the Republican business groups which have voted for Smith in his gubernatorial struggles to stand by the national ticket.

If these elements forsake Smith in the city, and Hoover captures the normal Republican vote in up-State territory, the Empire State may not be so safe for the Democratic nominee as his managers believe.

Battle Plans Drawn Up
Battle plans for New York and other eastern States were considered at Saturday's meeting between Hoover and political leaders from New England, New York and Pennsylvania. The nominee wants the machinery for this territory fairly well set up before he leaves for the West.

Besides Work, Senator Moses and James W. Good set in while plans for the eastern battle are outlined. Moses is slated for eastern manager, with headquarters in New York, while Good has accepted the western post, with Chicago as his base of operations.

CITY'S POLICE SHORTAGE POINTED OUT IN REPORT

Worley's Survey Shows Indianapolis
Below Smaller Cities.

Although smaller in population, Indianapolis has larger area in square miles than Milwaukee or Buffalo, with far fewer policemen to patrol it, according to figures compiled by Police Chief Claude M. Worley, and presented to the safety board, in support of his 1928 budget request, which would increase the size of the local police force.

The chart, prepared by the chief, shows that Milwaukee, with thirty-seven square miles to cover has 982 officers, and Buffalo with forty-two square miles, has 1,165.

This city with fifty-six square miles, has a total force of 539. Milwaukee's population is 580,000, Buffalo 540,000, and Indianapolis 398,000, according to the Worley figures.

Other cities listed are Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland, St. Louis, Cincinnati, Minneapolis and Louisville. All have more police for the amount of area covered, the chart shows.
