DYING WOMAN KILLS HER SLEEPING HUSBAND
Shoots Mate So He Will Not Grieve When She Passes On.

By United Press
PARIS, July 20.—A new form of "mercy murder" was recognized today when police released without bail Mme. Albert Copitet, 56, who shot her sleeping husband because she did not want him to grieve for her when she died.

Mme. Copitet is doomed by physicians as a hopeless sufferer from cancer. She shot her husband at their home at Chalons-sur-Marne.

"I loved him," Mme. Copitet told police. "I know I am dying and I did not want him to survive me. I did not have the courage to kill myself after I had killed him."

Police decided that prosecution was useless in view of Mme. Copitet's condition.

DRYS SEEK TO WEDGE SOUTH, SMITH APART

Bishop James Cannon Opens Democratic Offices to Aid Hoover.

BY HERBERT LITTLE
United Press Staff Correspondent
(Copyright, 1928, by United Press)

SALISBURY, N. C., July 20.—A hardy little fighting man, Bishop James Cannon of Richmond, southern Methodist leader who directed the fight for the Eighteenth Amendment, told the United Press today he would open immediately "southern dry anti-Smith Democrat" headquarters in Richmond, Va.

Cannon said he was confident the campaign would break the solid South and elect Herbert Hoover. Although in ill health from the effects of an attack of African fever—he is bishop of Africa—Cannon said, "I would be a traitor if I did not do all I could to smash Tammany now."

He suffered from an attack on the train here Thursday night en route from Asheville, N. C., where he and Dr. A. J. Barton directed the organization of the campaign. The bishop took some medicine and changed trains, and will reach Richmond late today or Saturday.

Outlining the campaign, he said pamphlets, the secular press and speakers would be widely used. He said most of the labor of the campaign would be by volunteers. A life-long Democrat, Bishop Cannon said, "If we could defeat Smith any other way than by electing Hoover, we would do it." Cannon said the battle was practically won.

"The revolt against Smith in the South is so great that there is no question that when the facts are laid before the voters they will know they should follow the traditions of the Democratic party by voting against Smith," he said.

Cannon, a man of independent means, has been fighting liquor for forty years. At the same time he has headed colleges, edited a newspaper and carried on extensive church duties. He has never received a cent of salary from the Anti-Saloon League, according to league officials, although he is one of its two important Southern leaders at the present time.

He said the Richmond headquarters would be maintained with as small a staff as possible to receive large quantities of money in small contributions, the campaign chest having been started Thursday in Asheville by pledges and gifts totaling several thousand dollars.

The fourteen different State Anti-

Smith Democrat organizations were started today with the return of the delegates from Asheville. Each State will select two members to a national executive committee, to work with Cannon and Dr. A. J. Barton, Atlanta Baptist leader, the national executives of this movement.

The State organizations will coordinate the effort of numerous Anti-Saloon League branches, Women's Christian Temperance Unions, and ministers and other church workers, who join in the campaign. Each two will be divided and apportioned among the various volunteers for canvassing. If the response for workers is as large as expected
