

OFFER PRIZES TO FIND MOST NORMAL FOOT

Chiropodists, Times Sponsor Test Open to All, Starting Soon.

How many normal feet in Indiana?

Checking up on the normal feet of women and children will be one of the features of the seventeenth annual convention of the National Association of Chiropodists, at the Lincoln, Aug. 7-10.

Under the auspices of the association and sponsored by The Times a normal foot contest will open ten days previous to the convention. All kinds of feet may be entered into the contest, which is limited to women and children.

The owners of the nearest to normal feet will be judged winners. A gold medal will be considered along with loving cups, shoes and other valuable prizes.

Photograph Free
The normal foot is not necessarily a small foot, it is explained by the chiropodists, and so a special prize will be presented to the owner of the smallest feet.

To enter the contest it is necessary to get a photograph of the contestant's feet to the editor of the Normal Foot Contest at The Times. Where such photographs are not available arrangements may be made for such pictures. Such photographs may be arranged for without cost.

A board of judges composed of some of the most prominent chiropodists and podiatrists in the country will pick the winners. On the board also will be a local shoe retailer and a member of The Times staff.

This contest is being held in connection with the scientific research of the association. Similar contests have been conducted in other cities of the United States. Later, the winners in the combined contests will be judged for the most normal foot in the country.

Shoes Affect Health

The association is sponsoring extensive educational work in the interest of foot health. They urge care in fitting shoes and advise strongly against wearing runover and impaired shoes. Such practice, they declare, often proves very poor economy, resulting in injury to the feet, often causing pains in other parts of the body, sometimes attributed to other causes.

All those interested in the foot contests are urged to watch The Times for announcements.

Final judging of contestants will take place Aug. 10 before movie and news cameras.

MARK FISH BY TATTOO

LA JOLLA, Cal., July 20.—Tattooing spots under the scales of fish instead of fastening tags on them, is a new method of keeping track of aquarium specimens described by Ansel B. Keys of the Scripps Institution of Oceanography in the forthcoming issue of Science.

Keys marks fish too small for the ordinary tagging method by just barely puncturing the outer skin with a hypodermic needle loaded with India ink. He reports that his scalped pets suffer no ill effects from the spotting operation, and that the marks last for several weeks.
