

HEAT BOOSTS INDIANA CROPS

Farmers Rejoice While City
Dwellers Suffer.

Heat, which during the past three days has sent city folks panting to every shady nook and has caused woe-begone head-shaking is bringing a smile to the Hoosier farmer and his family for "everything is corn and oats in Indiana."

"Mighty grand weather for the crops" is the watchword in the ninety-two counties of the State and the farmers who have experienced heavy losses because of winter-chilled wheat are jubilant.

The great heat will give the State a normal crop of about 90,000,000 bushels, James R. Moore, editor of The Hoosier Farmer said today.

Heavy rains caused weeds to flourish and within a few weeks the rank herbage was as tall as the corn.

Oats also were kept from growing. Winter chills without snow reduced the wheat crop to 25 per cent of the normal 20,000,000 bushels.

"Money Couldn't Buy the Health Konjola Gave Me"

Indianapolis Welfare Workers Strongly In-dorses This Celebrated Compound.

The highest praise ever given any medicine in the city of Indianapolis and probably the entire State of Indiana, was written in the form of a public endorsement by Mrs. Elizabeth Espenlaub, living at 606½ Division street, this city, describing the amazing work of Konjola and how this celebrated new medicine restored her health.

Mrs. Espenlaub is a member of the Christian Workers of America, Inc., and solicits aid for the poor of the city. She is widely known in every section of Indianapolis and has made a wonderful record in this work by her untiring efforts to serve those in need.

Her endorsement which strongly praises this remarkable medicine was given voluntarily to the Konjola Man at Hook's drug store, Illinois and Washington streets, Indianapolis, where he is personally explaining this surprising remedy to large crowds daily.

"I tell publicly about this remedy purely for the good it will bring others who are in need of such a medicine. With this thought in mind, I will describe what Konjola has done for me," said Mrs. Espenlaub.

"I often heard people talk about neuritis," continued Mrs. Espenlaub, "but never thought it could be as bad as I later found it to be. My whole left side from foot to finger tips was seriously affected and I thought I would not be able to stand the pain much longer, as it was so severe. Kidney trouble made my suffering all the worse. It was a common thing for me to rise as often as fifteen times in one night and severe pains would strike me across the small of my back. It seemed that I never slept more than a few minutes at a time and when I got up in the morning I felt tired and all worn out, before I ever started to do anything. My usual weight is about 180 pounds. I suffered something awful and during this sick spell I fell off until I was down to 144 pounds. My appetite was gone and I couldn't rest at night and it was torture for me to try to get around on my feet.

"So many reliable people were telling me about Konjola and advising me to give it a trial that I finally made up my mind to do so and promised that if it gave me relief that they said it would. I would praise it to others who suffer. Well, it has done everything claimed for it and today, after taking only four bottles of this remarkable medicine, all the money couldn't buy the health Konjola gave me. Neuritis is all gone and my kidneys are acting natural again. I never have to get up any more through the night and those frightful pains in my back have disappeared. I am also rid of the frightful headaches I used to suffer. My appetite has increased so much that I feel I could sit down to eat any time, and everything tastes good to me. Also, I have no trouble going to sleep at night and I don't wake up until the regular hour. Yes, Konjola is a real medicine and I will be glad to answer any questions regarding the good I have obtained from the use of it."

The Konjola Man is at Hook's drug store, Illinois and Washington streets, Indianapolis, where he is daily meeting the public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Konjola is now being sold in every Hook store in this section and by all the leading drugists throughout this vicinity.—Advertisement.
