

BATS TO SERVE MAN

Sought to Rid Farms of Mosquitoes, Moths.

By Times Special
WASHINGTON, July 20.—Are bats, long social outcasts, about to become highly esteemed members of the community as sure death to mosquitoes and coddling moths?

Agricultural department experts say no. Their tests have failed to demonstrate that bats have a commendable appetite for either mosquitoes or coddling moths.

But many farmers, it is reported here, distracted by coddling moth destruction of their orchards are not convinced.

They are seeking to encourage bats to live in their communities, some even going so far as to establish bat "roosts."

And the owners of a few large bat caves are reported to be doing a substantial business in the sale of bats as mosquito and moth destroyers.

FIGHT SALVATION ARMY PROPOSAL FOR BUILDING

Michigan City Persons Object to Band Noise and Undesirables.

By Times Special
MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., July 20.—Noise of the Salvation Army's band and that its "A man may be down, but he is never out" policy will bring undesirable persons to the vicinity are reasons given for a fight by property owners to prevent the army from erecting a building on a recently purchased site.

A campaign is now under way by the army to raise $36,500 as a building fund.

Among objectors to the building plans are boards of the Clinic and Protestant Hospital Associations. Several home owners are also protesting.
