

Miss Henkle, Bride-Elect Entertained

Miss Dorothy Henkle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Henkle, whose marriage to George R. Toye, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Toye, will take place Sept. 15, was the honor guest at a luncheon bridge and linen shower given today at the home of Miss Louise Karle, 3115 Bellefontaine St.

The rooms were decorated with baskets of fall flowers. At serving time the table was arranged with flower plaques in the bridal colors, pastel rainbow shades.

A treasure hunt was arranged to present the gifts to the bride. Guests with Miss Henkle were Mrs. F. G. Henkle, her mother; Mrs. Robert Toye, mother of the bridegroom; Mesdames Mina Justus, Gertrude Montgomery, Florence Brydon, Ruth Koehler, Bernice Mitchell Young and Lillian Klingner; Misses Edna Meyers, Marie Tudor, Genevieve Hussey, Ruth Ehlers, Geraldine Shaw, Bruce Ridge, Helen Lieper, Gretchen Drake, Loretta Galm and Lucille Young.

The hostess was assisted by her mother, Mrs. C. J. Karle, and her sister, Josephine Karle.

Woman's Day

BY ALLENE SUMNER
For years the old green and yellow hammock has been our family's most treasured possession, excepting, perhaps, Primrose, the canary. The hammock must have swung under the cherry tree for nearly ten years, but never until of late has it shown symptoms of a decline. But something happened the other night which made us decide the old hammock must have a decent burial. The something that happened was that somebody fell through—thank goodness, it was not I!

So shopping I went in the city for a hammock this noon. I went to no less than six stores and I learned that such mundane things as old-fashioned hammocks are as dead as the proverbial dodo. You should have seen the arched penciled brows when I inquired for them.

"We haven't carried hammocks for years," they informed me, "nobody wants them any more. But we have a lovely line of couch gliders and porch swings." So I was led away and shown the orange and green and scarlet splendors of bedizened members of the swing family which could no more take the place of our old green and yellow hammock than sparrow could replace Primrose!

"But why don't people want hammocks any more?" I asked, to which I drew various answers. "There are so many better types of swing on the market!" was the most frequent answer drawn. "Hammocks were never really comfortable, you know. Now we have these mattress, upholstered, cretonne gliders as soft as a bed, and so reasonable—only $55."

But that was an insult I wouldn't stand. Hammocks not comfortable? How I longed to turn on these salespersons and say: "Did you ever in all your life come home after a hot, sticky day, divest yourself of most of your vestiture, prepare a pitcher of lemonade with a sprig of mint in it, take said pitcher in one hand, two cushions and a new magazine in the other, betake yourself to your hammock under a cherry tree, and slip to heaven while the pink of twilight slipped into the mauve and sunset star of an early evening? Because if you have, you'd never stand there and tell me that hammocks were never really comfortable!"

Seriously, my discovery saddened me and frightened me a little. People won't buy $3.98 green and yellow hammocks any more because you can get "such perfectly marvelous couch hammocks for only $55!" It's the same old story of our insistence upon the best that the market affords while tossing away the old that has proven a friend indeed.

I weep for hammocks that are no more, and toss a salute to their gallant career! As for me, I've turned carpenter and have made a most satisfactory hammock with some green canvas and barrel staves. I'll show the march of progress!

Garden Roast

Two pounds stewing beef, ¼ cup sliced onion, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ cup cabbage, 1½ cups turnips, 2 cups water, 1 carrot, 4 tablespoons flour, pepper to taste.

Sear beef in a very hot pan until well browned and then put into a casserole or covered kettle. Brown the onion in pan and add two cups water, pour over beef and add other vegetables which have been diced. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Cover and bake in a moderate oven. Thicken the liquid with flour for gravy. This serves eight.

Women of Three States Attend Party

Business and professional women from Michigan, Ohio and Indiana will be present at a house party to be given at Pokagon State park in Steuben county over the week end and through Labor day.

Mrs. Bernice M. Harrison, Angola lawyer, and president of the Steuben county club, has estimated that several will attend. There are fifty-four clubs in Indiana which will send representatives.

A program of sports, entertainment and social events have been planned for the guests. Among the State leaders and also national workers to attend are Miss Jennie Rae Hersch, Portland, president of the Indiana federation; Miss Marie Tudor, Indianapolis, second vice president and conference chairman; Miss Marian Inghram, Ft. Wayne, retiring State president.

A souvenir dinner will be held at noon Sunday at Potawatomi Inn, followed by an auto tour of the hundred lakes of the region.

There are approximately 150 business and professional women's clubs in the three States and Steuben county members are assured that each club will send one or more representatives to the largest house party that any club has ever held in Indiana.

Family Menus

BY SISTER MARY

BREAKFAST — Seedless white grapes, cereal, cream, crisp broiled bacon, creamed hash potatoes, round radishes, crisp toast, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON — Salmon salad whole wheat bread and butter sandwiches, blueberry bread pudding, milk, tea.

DINNER — Shoulder of veal braised with vegetables, tomato and cucumber salad, apple sauce with ginger bread, milk, coffee.

Almost any kind of fruit can be used in place of blueberries. Large fruits, such as peaches or apples, must be cut in small pieces, but berries can be substituted and used in exactly the same fashion.

Blueberry Bread Pudding

One quart berries, one cup sugar, one teaspoon cinnamon, one cup water, few grains salt, bread, butter.

Wash and pick over berries. Combine with sugar, salt, cinnamon and water. Mix well and cook ten minutes. Cut several slices of bread and remove crusts. Spread with butter and cut in half inch cubes. Put a layer of hot, berry mixture into a buttered mold. Fill with bread cubes. Press down until mold is half full and add more berry mixture. Fill again with buttered bread cubes and again press down.

The mold should be packed full of bread saturated with the berry mixture. Place in the refrigerator to become cold and firm. Turn out of mold and cut in slices to serve. Serve with hard sauce.

Honors Out-of-Town Guest

Mrs. L. T. Creswell, 3515 N. Pennsylvania St., was hostess Thursday afternoon at a bridge party honoring Miss Jane Pearce, house guest of Mrs. J. Donald Alford. With the honor guest were Mesdames Alford, Harry Ven Wiler, J. W. Smock, E. Montel Campbell, J. W. Beck, James S. McBride and F. J. Forscher.

YOUR CHILD

Can Be Too Considerate

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

There is nothing truer than that the world takes us at our own value. The child who always steps back and allows the others to elbow him out of place will react to his own behavior and keep sliding down in the scale of his self-esteem, and eventually the esteem of others.

He will feel in time, certainly and surely, that he was born to take a back seat in the world. He will obsequiously kow-tow to children who are his inferiors in mental and character make-up.

I have seen many well-bred children who were brought up to consider the feelings of others before themselves sidestep to allow some ruthless companion to shove himself into their place. I have come to the conclusion that one of the first things children should be taught is the gentle art of standing up for themselves.

Teaches Justice

The creed that I speak of need not interfere one whit with generosity. It deals more with a fine sense of justice and in showing a child that he has much right to his own consideration as others.

A certain boy got up a little summer club for hiking, swimming and things that boys love to do. Instantly, his close friend conceived the idea of organization and made himself president. The first boy did most of the work. The second boy got all the honors and "bossed" things. The first boy, loyal to a fault, allowed it to pass "because," as he explained to his parents, "Bob's smart and he can do things I can't do."

But his parents knew better. Jane's aunt took five little girls on a picnic in her car. The glory rather reflected on Jane, who was instrumental in getting it up. Her mother put up the lunch, provided robes and swimming suits and what-not for the children's comfort.

Second at Own Party

When it came time to get into the waiting sedan, Jane expected the seat of honor beside her aunt. But there was Betty, already en route. Betty pointed out all along the road. Betty knew this and knew that Betty did this and that and the other thing. It was Betty's party. Well-bred Jane never said a word.

But her aunt was not stupid. "That" sister she remarked to Jane's mother. "You have taught Jane everything to make other people happy, but left her out. It's high time you were giving her a lesson in spunk."

Lawn Fete in Honor of Bride-Elect

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen O. Sharp, 5224 Grandview Dr., entertained with a 6 o'clock dinner Thursday evening on the lawn of their home in honor of Miss Julia Flynn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Flynn, whose marriage to Emmett Thompson will take place Sept. 4 at the St. Matthew Episcopal church.

Guests were members of the Tuesday Chums club, and honor guests were Mr. and Mrs. Flynn and Mrs. E. E. Weiser, grandmother of the bride-elect.

The table was arranged with bowls of pink, lavender and white garden flowers. Miss Flynn was presented with a set of dishes by the guests and her grandmother gave her a hand-quilted comforter. Following dinner the evening was spent socially.

At dinner covers were laid for Miss Flynn, Mr. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Sharp, Mr. and Mrs. Flynn, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Tillson and Mr. and Mrs. William A. Owen; Mesdames E. E. Weiser, Glen Rhoades and George Baker; Miss Betty Thompson, Messrs. George Baker Jr. and Glen Rhoades Jr.

Job's Daughters Indiana Council in Session Here

The fifth annual Indiana Grand Council meeting of Job's Daughters was called to order at 10 a. m. Friday by Mrs. Ethel T. Warner, grand guardian, on the roof garden of the hotel Severin.

Mrs. Edythe K. Cordes, past grand guardian, was in charge of the opening ceremonies.
