

Michigan City Man Weds Miss Dorothy Moore in Lawn Rite at River View

AN unusual early fall wedding was solemnized at 4 o'clock this afternoon at River View, the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Moore, 3111 Broadway, when their daughter, Miss Dorothy became the bride of Gerald Raymond Redding, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Redding, Michigan City.

The service, which was read by the Rev. John W. McFall, was performed before an improvised altar banked with palms and ferns, interspersed with garden flowers, on the lawn.

Miss Lois Redding, sister of the bridegroom was bridesmaid. She wore a gown of pale yellow taffeta made with a basque waist and long full skirt and a pale yellow horsehair braid picture hat trimmed with maline. Her arm bouquet was composed of early fall flowers in the shades of yellow.

Given by Father

Miss Florence Moore, sister of the bride, maid of honor, wore pink taffeta made with a tight fitted waist and a huge blue bow, arranged bustle-effect. Her hat was pink horsehair braid and her flowers were in shades of rose and pink with delphinium.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was dressed in a gown of white taffeta, made with a basque waist and long full skirt, square scalloped at the bottom and edged with maline. Her white horsehair braid hat was trimmed with maline. Her shower bouquet was made up of bride's roses and valley lilies.

Sherwood Blue, Indianapolis, was best man.

A reception was held at the house following the wedding, the table being centered with a tiered wedding cake on a mound of roses, orchids and delphinium and lighted with white tapers.

Bridal Dinner at Marott

The bridal dinner was served at the Marott. Mr. and Mrs. Redding left for Chicago, the bride traveling in a blue satin dress, with shoes, hat, traveling coat and accessories to match. They will go from Chicago to Grand Fork, N. D., where they will make their home.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Frank Redding and Lois and John Redding, Mr. and Mrs. Milo Redding, all of Michigan City; Misses Leah Peters and Margaret Rose, Ft. Wayne Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Crooke and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Crooke, Leesburg; Mrs. R. B. Moore, grandmother of the bride, and Miss Lena Moore, Dayton, Ky., Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Moore and son, Donald; Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Bennett and son, Stanley, Ft. Thomas, Ky.

Mr. Redding attended Indiana University where she was a member of Delta Gamma Sorority. Redding was graduated from Indiana University and was a member of Theta Pi Fraternity.

Yes, the price we pay for modern civilization sometimes seems dear.

The city dweller will never again know the heavenly taste of fresh fried chicken. Though we decorate our ancient specimens with parsley and dress them up in paper pants, to one who has been privileged to know the real thing no camouflage will ever make them appear other than they are, a poor masquerading imitation of a bygone delicacy.

Chicken Beats Nickel Stogie in These Days

BY MRS. WALTER FERGUSON

The country does not need a good 5 cent cigar half so much as it needs some good fried chicken.

It was no real surprise to read that in New York City alone, the health commissioner who had examined poultry between April 1 and 21 reported that 42 per cent was diseased or partly decomposed.

Chickens that leave the egg in the far West and are slaughtered for market along about the middle of February and that later grace the tables of eastern opulence around the first of June, are bound to have lost much of their fine flavor.

Most of the birds we get nowadays taste a good deal like boiled chips. There is not the strong flavor of old age and decay, the one detects only the sauce with which the bird has been disguised and which sometimes may deceive an inexperienced palate.

There is none of that succulent, rich and exquisite flavor that can be found nowhere save in a platter of real fried chicken.

When you happen to be overcome with sympathy for the downtrodden farmer, take a sober second thought. For the farmer alone in these degenerate days savors gustatory delights. He alone knows the piquant juice crackle of young radishes fresh from the soil, the rich taste of new potatoes from the odorous earth, the succulence of tender beans newly gathered. He, that fortunate of mortals, is still acquainted with the delicacy of young fryers who proudly walked at dawn and the same evening lie sizzling in the frying pan, bathed in such a gravy as the gods might have mistaken for nectar on Olympus.

Yes, the price we pay for modern civilization sometimes seems dear.

The city dweller will never again know the heavenly taste of fresh fried chicken. Though we decorate our ancient specimens with parsley and dress them up in paper pants, to one who has been privileged to know the real thing no camouflage will ever make them appear other than they are, a poor masquerading imitation of a bygone delicacy.
