

Banquet as Club's First Fete of Year

Full calendar for the young business and professional women's department for the next week marks the formal opening of that department of the Young Women's Christian Association. The second year of activities will open with a banquet Tuesday night in social hall, it was announced by Miss Marie D. Larsh, chairman of the committee.

Thursday at noon the annual luncheon for student business girls will be tendered girls from Sanderson and Linn Business colleges as well as Indiana Central. Monday, as a result of numerous requests, will be the first of a series of forum talks on "Etiquette" following the fellowship supper, open to any interested business girl.

Wednesday night, Oct. 10, the Young Business and Professional Women's Club of the south side branch will have its opening banquet for guests at the branch. Nurses' night will be observed Oct. 11 for the first time this year, welcoming all nurses of the city.

At the opening banquet, the Rev. R. Johnson of the Downey Avenue Christian Church will be the principal speaker, talking on "The Business Woman Finds Herself." Miss Pearl B. Forsyth, general secretary will give the invocation. Miss Eleanor G. Hoagland, executive secretary of the young business and professional women's department, will greet the old and new members.

Miss Verna Nash of the health education department will give a solo and Miss Mary Dolk will sing a group of songs.

Reception After Dinner
Following the dinner an informal dance will be held. Misses Julia Smith, Ann Carpenter and Mary Smith will compose the committee in charge of general arrangements.

Among the special guests will be Misses L. P. Robinson, Thomas Burke and Grace Lyons; Misses Edna D. Larsh and Blessing Fisher.

The "Cinderella luncheon" on Thursday is for student business girls and is rigidly confined to the hour of 12 to 12:30 p. m. so that girls may be back at school on time. It has always been the custom to invite the girls to luncheon to introduce them to the Y. W. C. A., but until last year, with the arrival of the new secretary, Miss Hoagland, there was an established luncheon club.

Mrs. L. P. Robinson is chairman of the committee in charge of the luncheon and announces that arrangements are being made for 300 girls. Volunteer help is needed to service the luncheon.

Covers Many Topics
The Monday night forum talks the outgrowth of many demands such an evening when girls may learn from work for supper, stay for a discussion covering a wide scope of topics relating to etiquette, science and other vital interests.

Miss Hoagland of the Home Economics department of Emmerich annual training will give the first of the talks on "Etiquette in the Home." Later, there will be talks on etiquette in public, business, conversation, dress and travel.

After eight weeks on this subject there will be a course in psychology, then science in Everyday Living by university professors of evolution, religion and geology.

Following the forum talks are the games and interest groups meeting that night, such as Spanish, clubs in singing, handicraft, self-expression, swimming and clog dancing.

The South Side Club, opening Oct. 2 with a guest dinner, is under the direction of Miss Hazel Morris, advisor. Assisting her are Misses Velma Runyon and Marjorie Shuttler, membership chairmen.

Membership in the club is open to any girls living or working on the South Side.

Recreations of all sorts and frolics of the central building are provided to the nurses of the city on Thursday nights, beginning Oct. 11. Discussions and parties will be conducted by Mrs. Samuel Selka.

Saturdays are the international friendship luncheon days. Members of the department meet at different foreign restaurants to eat the foreign foods and hear talks on representative of the corresponding country establishing a knowledge of countries.

YOUR CHILD Give Teacher Some Help

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON
"Why are you so late, Buddy?" "I was kept in."

"Again! What for?" "And so," said Buddy's mother to his father that night, "because the child can't spell he has to stay in school six hours a day instead of five and a half. Indeed, today he had to stay in a whole hour. It's a high price to pay for something he can't help."

Behind Buddy's incarceration was, of course, the teacher. But behind the teacher? Let us see if we may not find the real reason.

At the end of each month the children are given a test. At the end of each term, another. If a certain percentage of children do not make certain marks the teacher's report book looks very bad. She is required to give a very good explanation of her failure.

We are a great people to spell success with an "R"—namely, results.

No other educational system ever has been found to keep up the standard of efficiency like the one of giving examinations, it seems. They extend all the way from 1B of the primary grade to the B. A. of college, and they extend impartially to all schools all over the land.

But millions of Buddys are paying millions of extra hours after school to this great god of marks, so there must be a hitch somewhere.

Teachers don't like to "keep in" children. Remember, they are keeping themselves in, too. But they must see that the Buddys get their spelling, or their arithmetic, or geography, somehow, somehow, sometime.

But a school scheduled be dismissed at 4 should be dismissed at 4. Children need to get out into the open air and so do teachers.

Parents may say, "We can't help Buddy. If the teacher can't teach him, why should we?" And I am afraid some of them go so far as to say, "It's what she is paid for."

Well, it is only a suggestion, but they might bother just enough to save Buddy, and the teacher, too, that extra half hour.

Miss Ann Allen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Allen, Sullivan, whose marriage to Russell W. Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Miller, will take place Oct. 12, was the honor guest Thursday evening at a bridge party and hosiery shower given by Mrs. Harold L. Bartholomew, 5249 College Ave.

Guests with Miss Allen were Mesdames James E. Hobart, H. G. Litteral, R. D. Robinson and Thera Gray Burns; Misses Marjorie Mason, N. L. Allen, Ruth Smith, Dorothy Harrison, Lucile Nicholson and Gladys Shadle.

Misses Shadle and Nicholson will entertain Tuesday evening for Miss Allen.
