

part in the deliberations of the League of Nations, believing that it is a beautiful ideal which is hamstrung by its own cumbersome constitution.

"She doesn't hope much from it, and she'll not be disappointed if the results do not bear out the optimistic hopes of the idealists.

"For that reason, it seems to me, that the peace of the world lies not in the wellspring of Geneva but in the continued and continuously growing good will of the United States and Great Britain.

"Geta great big waste basket and throw into it all the editorials that have been written on the subject of Great Britain's intentions to subjugate the world with her fleet.

"Get it into your minds that Great Britain will be occupied for the next century in the development of that vast empire which takes all her time and absorbs all her plans—that vast empire of self-governing states, bound together more firmly by an ideal of mutual interest than any treaty that could ever be devised.

"On the other hand, fling into that same waste basket all the preconceived misconceptions in Great Britain—and there are just as many—as to the political aspirations of the United States. There are none.

"In other words, let's get together. Let's shake hands and have mutual confidence one in the other. Let's write as few treaties as possible. Let's stop talking about the unthinkable of war between the two countries. Parenthetically speaking, when you talk about a thing being unthinkable, you produce the thought.

"But let's be firmly resolved that as we are partners in this business, not to have any violent quarrels ourselves, although we may have differences, as we should have.

"The mere fact that these two powerful nations are standing on the top of the world together will make it very difficult for any bully among the nations to butt in. That to my view is the real League of Nations."

CURTIS ON WAY TO OPEN DRIVE IN OHIO TODAY

Prohibition Not Issue, Says Vice-President Nominee.

By United Press
COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 25.—Senator Charles Curtis, the Republican vice-presidential nominee, stopped here briefly this morning en route to Coshocton, O., where this afternoon he will formally open his Ohio campaign.

Upon his arrival in Coshocton Senator Curtis will be requested to answer two questions propounded by the Ohio independent agricultural league. The questions deal with the Salt Creek oil case and the McNary-Haugen farm bill.

The Republican vice-presidential nominee will continue his barnstorming tour of Ohio Friday with addresses at Columbus, Clifton and Mt. Vernon. His last Ohio speech will be at Cleveland Saturday before he goes to Detroit for a speech that night.

In a talk with newspaper men at Rochester, N. Y., Curtis said: "I do not consider prohibition an issue; the only issue in this campaign is the continued prosperity of the American people."

Robinson Optimistic

By United Press
WILLMAR, Minn., Oct. 25.—Senator Joseph T. Robinson, Democratic nominee for Vice-President, swung through the corn and wheat country today with renewed vigor, on the theory that Herbert Hoover's speech in New York City had placed the farm states definitely in the Democratic column.

He pounded on Hoover's declaration that the farm relief program is "state socialism." Robinson has found, he believed, intense resentment among the farmers against what they consider a slur on their political beliefs.

"Hoover has branded them Socialists," Robinson said.

When his train stopped here en route from Sioux Falls, S. D., for Fargo, N. D., there was a large crowd at the station. He discussed farm relief, Smith's labor record and tolerance.

'Looks' for Vote Victory

Miss Emily Marx of New York City may or may not win a seat in the state legislature Nov. 6, but in victory or defeat she will be the prettiest of all candidates, say her friends. She is a Republican, a lawyer, an alumnus of Barnard and Yale Law School, and is bent on a political career. She wears an American Red Cross medal for life saving.

SUNDAY SKINS DRY LAW FOES

Billy Sunday, the evangelist, ripped off his coat, vest and necktie and, in turn, verbally skinned the foes of prohibition in a "one night stand" at Cadle tabernacle before an audience of more than 8,000 Wednesday.

He picked Al Smith as the central target.

"I'd see Al Smith in Hell before I'd see him in the White House," he shouted.

He listed the following reasons for believing Smith will not be elected:

1. He is a Catholic in a Protestant country. He then told the faith of all former presidents, listing Jefferson as an Episcopalian. Historians show Jefferson had no religious affiliations.)
2. He is a wet in a dry country.
3. He is a Tammanyite in an honest country.

OPTIMISM NOTE AT MEETING OF FUND WORKERS

200 Members of Women's Army Attend 'Pep' Luncheon Today.

With a spirit of optimism never exceeded in any group of Community Fund workers, the women's army of the fund organization is certain to repeat last year's success, asserted Mrs. Brandt C. Downey, general chairman, at the meeting this noon held at the Claypool.

More than two hundred members of the women's army attended the luncheon as the guests of Community Fund directors. Mrs. John W. Kern, Mrs. E. C. Rumpel and Walter C. Marmion, campaign chairman, in short addresses, emphasized the importance of the forthcoming campaign and the part to be played in it by the women of Indianapolis.

May Advance Canvass

Friday morning the women's army begins its advance solicitations in order thoroughly to canvass the city before the campaign closes Nov. 19. Mrs. Downey announced that only a few appointments to neighborhood teams yet were to be made, and that the women's army never has been better organized than it is this year.

Mrs. James Wolverton Stockton, soloist, accompanied by Mrs. William M. Fleming Jr. and a trio from the Metropolitan School of Music gave a musical program during the luncheon. The trio consisted of Miss Georgia Baumann, violin; Miss Virginia Luanberger, cello, and Miss Anita Wandell, piano.

Hands Out Warning to Burglar Who Escaped

"If the detectives don't get that burglar, I'll get him myself. I never was so provoked in my life."

This was the declaration of war issued today by Mrs. Charles L. Hisey, 2429 Broadway, against a Negro she caught trying to steal stored hardware out of her husband's barn Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Hisey, reared in the west, and taught to shoot from childhood still was reproaching herself today because the burglar got away after she had held him at the point of a 22-caliber rifle loaded with buckshot, for fifteen minutes. She caught him in the barn. She turned her head just a moment to speak to a neighbor and the Negro started a mad dash up Broadway.

Mrs. Hisey fired. The Negro leaped high in the air and kept on running. Mrs. Hisey fired again, but the burglar escaped.

"I'll haunt that boy," vowed Mrs. Hisey, "and the next time I won't miss. Why, I was raised with a gun in my hand. I ought to be ashamed of myself. I do a lot of driving about and I'll find that fellow sooner or later. If the detectives don't. And when I do, he'll not get away."

MRS. PRINCE FREED

Divorce Granted Widow of Captain English.

After six months of marriage, Mrs. Helen English Prince, widow of the late Captain William E. English and sole holder of the large English estate, obtained a divorce in Scottsburg Monday afternoon from Frank J. Prince, former newspaper man.

Prince and Mrs. English were married last April and lived at the Hotel English.

Cruelty and incompatibility were alleged in the complaint against Prince. The divorce was granted by Judge John R. Carney at a special court session.

They were married April 11 in Baltimore, when Prince was director of the national publicity campaign for Senator James A. Reed, then a candidate for the presidency.

SMITH REBUKED BY HUGHES IN CHICAGO SPEECH

Delivers Third Address for Hoover Candidacy at Buffalo Tonight.

By United Press
CHICAGO, Oct. 25.—After receiving the heartiest demonstration of any Republican speaker here in the present campaign, Charles Evans Hughes today was on his way to Buffalo to deliver the third of his addresses in behalf of Hoover and Curtis.

Some 10,000 persons crowded into Arcadia hall Wednesday night and heard the former chief justice rebuke Governor Alfred E. Smith "for reckless campaign assertions."

Rebuked to Smith

"Such outbursts reflect more on Smith than the Republican party," Hughes said, referring to Smith's description of the G. O. P. as "Bourbons who never learn anything."

"Governor Smith's declaration that government should be progressive and not reactionary are familiar words, the words of Bryan and his fantastic political remedies," Hughes said.

Hughes opened his speech with the rebukes and wound up with glowing tributes to Herbert Hoover, as laudatory as his criticisms of the Democratic nominee had been scathing.

After the demonstrations for Smith here last week, the Republicans had their inning with the speech of Hughes.

Praises Lower Taxes

"Nothing in this campaign has been more discreditable than the attempt to belie the successful efforts of President Coolidge to establish economy and promote prosperity," Hughes said in taking a pot shot at Democratic anti-prosperity speeches.

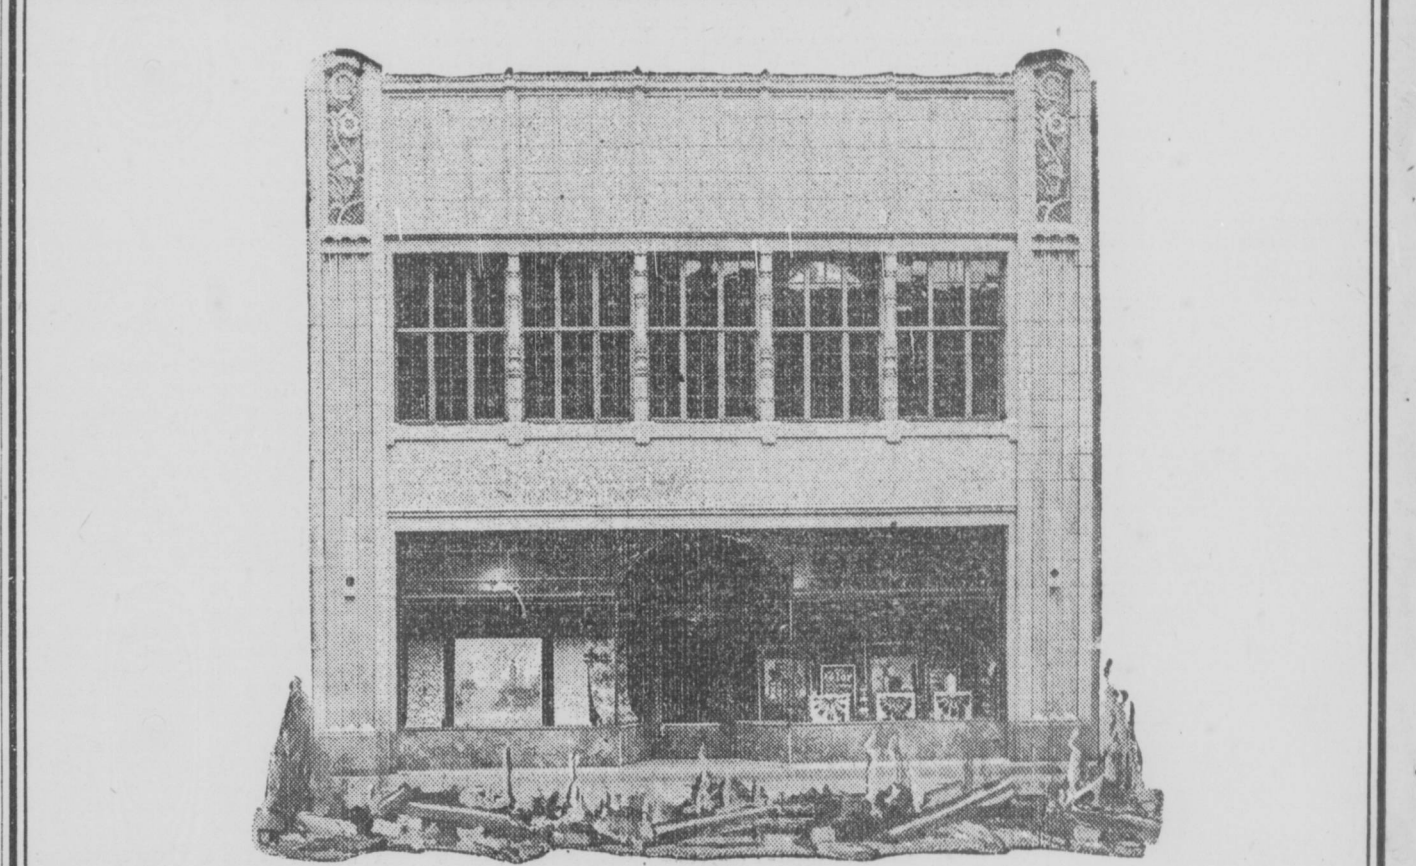

"I have not been able to find that Governor Smith has a record for economy. Taxes have been reduced, under the Republicans. The public debt has been lowered and expenses have been reduced. We want a continuation of that policy."

HOME BUILDERS MEET

Members of the Indianapolis Home Builders' Association Wednesday night launched a campaign to bring about a license law regulating the practices of home builders.

At a meeting in the 1928 model home, 4832 Graceland avenue, Everett N. Scofield and William Low Rice were named as a committee to draw up definite plans of procedure and lay a state-wide foundation for the promotion of the movement.

Members of the Indiana State Florists' Association, meeting Wednesday in Indianapolis, made an inspection tour of city greenhouses. E. G. Hill of Richmond, dean of American Rosarians, addressed the monthly dinner in the Elks Club Wednesday night.
