

SMITH MOVES ON BALTIMORE TO 'SEW UP' STATE VOTE

SPEAKS TONIGHT TO REPAIR ANY BROKEN FENCES

Polls Indicate Maryland Doubtful; Hopes to Clinch Victory.

CHEERED IN PHILLY

Raskob Jubilant-Over Warm Welcome; Al Clarifies Stand on Issues.

BY PAUL R. MALLON
United Press Staff Correspondent
CENTERVILLE, Md., Oct. 29.—Governor Alfred E. Smith picked his brown derby from the Raskob estate hat rack today and set out to mend whatever political fences his opponents have broken down in Maryland.

Armed with assurances from the unexpected welcome he received in Pennsylvania, the Democratic nominee, with a speech under his arm, motored to meet at Claymont, Del., arriving in Baltimore at 3 for what his advance agents say will be another boisterous reception.

Smith refused comment on the Norris bolt and the statements of other leaders. He will deliver his speech tonight in the largest Baltimore armory.

A twenty-mile motor parade through Baltimore has been arranged for this afternoon. The Governor will return to New York Tuesday.

His speech tonight will be broadcast over a national hookup.

Replies to Hughes

In the heart of Vane-Mellon Republicanism Smith, Saturday, in his address at Philadelphia charged the nabobs of the Republican party with attempting to becloud the issues of the campaign.

Reiterating his stand in his speech at Louisville, Ky., he declared that if the Democratic ticket was successful on Nov. 6, business, large or small, would have nothing to fear.

He hammered the statement of Charles E. Hughes, former secretary of state, who asserted in a talk that if Smith were elected the Democratic members of congress would not follow his tariff leadership, by announcing that he had received word from 80 per cent of the Democrats seeking re-election or election to congress that they would support his tariff stand.

Takes Up Prohibition

Turning the verbal faucet on the wet issue and Hughes' declaration that it was a "sham battle," he said: "Sham battle? What does Governor Hughes mean by that? This is a real fight upon the merits or demerits of the Eighteenth amendment."

He quoted former President Hadley of Yale, former Presidents Taft and Wilson as bearing out his view that morals cannot be legislated into the American people.

Then he cited Hoover's statement in 1918, while acting as food administrator, that if brewing was stopped the saloons still would be open on a whisky and gin basis.

"While there are no public saloons today, no person can deny that hard liquor can be procured in any part of this nation. Exactly what Hoover warned against ten years ago is taking place in the nation today," he said.

Scores Republican Waste

The Governor answered his critics on what he could do about the prohibition laws by averring that his election not only would intensify a demand for their change, but that he would add that intensify by bringing the dry laws directly to the people of the nation for a remedy.

He took up charges that he had misinformed the country in his Missouri address, regarding the finances of the country, by attacking Secretary Mellon's figures on the increased cost of government from 1924 to 1927. (Mellon averred governmental cost had increased $29,000,000 instead of $200,000,000 as charged by Governor Smith.)

Smith charged Mellon left out the cost of operation of the post-office department in making his estimate.

Cites Overlapping Bureaus

The Governor brought in charges of extravagance in the United States navy by citing phrases of Admiral Magruder, in a magazine article, attacking waste.

A multiplicity of overlapping governmental bureaus was named by the Governor as another source of waste.

"No progress has been made in the reorganization of the governments as advocated by the United States Chamber of Commerce at its sixteenth annual meeting in May of this year. The Republican platform carries no mention of reorganization in its 1928 platform," Smith asserted.

HERB WON'T VISIT CITY

Herbert Hoover, Republican presidential nominee, will not visit Indianapolis when he crosses Indiana en route to his home at Palo Alto, Cal., this week, it was announced today.

M. Bert Thurman, Republican national committeeman, received a telegram from George Akerson, assistant to Hoover at Washington, stating: "Sorry, but it will be impossible to route the Hoover train through Indianapolis. However, we are making short stops at Washington and Vincennes, Ind."

Indiana Republicans had tried to induce Hoover to make an appearance here before or after his speech in Louisville, Ky., Thursday night.

VETERANS CALL TRUCE IN FIGHT

Legion, V. F. W. to Confer on Gresham Memorial.

James Gresham was the first American soldier killed in the world war. He died Nov. 3, 1917, and now lies in a simple grave at Evansville, Ind.

Two opposing veterans organizations today called an armistice in their battle to erect a memorial shrine in his honor.

Arthur G. Gresham, Indianapolis, commander of the Arthur Q. Gresham post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, will meet Tuesday with Raymond J. Couderc, Evansville, commander of the Funkhouser post of the American Legion, to determine a course of action in the matter.

A few days ago the Evansville Legion announced plans for erecting a memorial to Gresham. They contend they have a paper signed by Gresham's mother giving them rights to the boy, and have been planning the memorial several years.

Arthur Gresham protests on the grounds that he is the nearest living relative of the dead soldier and that the V. F. W. have planned to build a huge granite shrine for five years at a cost of $5,000.

He has been pledged in Indianapolis for the $50,000 project, he says, and the state organization of the V. F. W. is backing the plan.

Arthur Gresham's father was the second cousin of James Gresham's father, it is said.

POLITICAL DIN TO ROCK STATE IN LAST WEEK

Spellbinders Will Cover Every Section of Indiana.

Republicans and Democrats today rolled out their heavy artillery for one last week of verbal bombardment before the voters trek to the polls Nov. 6, one week from tomorrow.

National candidates and party leaders are to lend a hand in the final drive for the Hoosier vote.

Senator Charles Curtis, Republican nominee for vice-president, rested at South Bend today in preparation for his speech there tonight. He was the guest of a Republican host and a Democratic hostess—A. R. Erskine, motor car manufacturer, a staunch Republican, and Mrs. Erskine, an active campaigner for Governor Alfred E. Smith.

Senator Arthur H. Robinson, seeking re-election, also will address the rally at South Bend. Curtis' speech will be broadcast over a national hookup.

Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas, Democratic vice-presidential nominee, also will invade the state this week, speaking at Evansville Wednesday night, Logansport Thursday afternoon and Ft. Wayne Thursday night.

Harry S. New, postmaster general, will boost the Republican cause with an address at Ft. Wayne, Tuesday. Democratic thunder will have the aid of Senator James A. Reed, fiery Missourian, at Gary tonight.

Frank C. Dailey, Democrat, and Harry G. Leslie, Republican, rival nominees for Governor, have busy itineraries ahead of them. The Dailey schedule: Monday, Goshen; Tuesday, Manchester and Wabash; Thursday, Crawfordsville, Covington and Rockville; Wednesday, Bloomington; Thursday, Lafayette; Friday, Knox and Gary, and Saturday, Indianapolis.

The Leslie schedule: Monday, St. Joseph county; Tuesday, Elkhart; Wednesday, Kosciusko county; Thursday, Noble county; Friday, Madison, Indianapolis, and Saturday, Indianapolis.

Other cities use boulevards for bus routes and I have no personal objection to the railway using Meridian at the present time."

Council probably will discuss the bus problem next Monday night.
