'SEA MURDER'

Signed Stories of Survivors
Lash Captain, Crew for Disaster.

By United Press
NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—New York newspapers, without exception, "played up" the criticism of the ship's crew and the bitterness of passengers in their accounts today of the Vestris disaster.

Headlines in huge black type, bore the words "Sea Murder," "Criminal Negligence" and "Cowardice."

The more sensational papers carried the luridness to the greatest extent allowable.

But even the conservative New York Times, with the exception of one Washington dispatch about President-Elect Hoover, devoted its first fifteen pages entirely to the shipwreck story.

Typical excerpts from the stories of the reporters themselves follow: "The sea, consecrated to the tradition of high heroism, gave up a dreadful tale of craven cowardice, imbecile blundering and ruthless inhumanity unique in history yesterday."—Daily News (tabloid).

"Survivors, on the verge of breakdowns because of their ghastly experiences in shark-infested waters, were outspoken in laying the blame for the tragedy at the door of the dead captain and his officers..."—Daily News (tabloid).

"It was 'women and children first'—first to die—aboard the S. S. Vestris when the leaky old tub rolled over and sank..."—Daily News (tabloid).

"Captain Carey virtually committed suicide by jumping into the sea without a life preserver."—Mirror (tabloid).

Michael Foley
Nominated for Bar President

Minchael E. Foley, attorney, was the only candidate nominated for president of the Indianapolis Bar Association at the monthly dinner at the Columbia Club Wednesday night.

Other nominees: Russell Wilson and Theodore Locke, vice-president; Donald S. Morris, treasurer; Earl Cox and Sidney Miller, executive committee members and John K. Ruckelshaus, B. H. Coughran and Harvey Grall, members of the admission committee.

Election of officers will be held at the December meeting.

Simplification of legal procedures in criminal courts was suggested by Judge Evan H. Evans of the circuit court of appeals at Chicago in an address on the Sacco-Vanzetti case.

MRS. HOOVER
GOING ALONG TO SOUTH AMERICA

President-Elect to Remove
All 'High Hat' in Good
Will Tour.

BY THOMAS L. STOKES
United Press Staff Correspondent
PALM ALTO, Cal., Nov. 15.—President-elect Hoover hopes to establish through his Latin-American tour the neighborly custom of an exchange of visits between the heads of those countries and the United States.

To that end, he will invite officials in the various central and South American countries he visits to come to the United States as the guests of the nation during his administration as President, it was learned today.

Removes All "High Hat"
These invitations will be extended personally, and thus will carry the cordiality added by the personal touch.

Hoover wants to remove all "high hat" atmosphere from his visit. He has requested the state department that he go as a private citizen instead of as official representative of the United States. He has decided to take Mrs. Hoover along with him.

Mrs. Hoover will be accompanied by her private secretary, Miss Ruth Fessler, of Duluth, Minn., who like the President-elect and Mrs. Hoover, is a graduate of Stanford university.

These will be the only women aboard the battleship Maryland. Their presence will be contrary to established custom in the American navy, but exceptions have been made.

Plans Nicaragua Visit
Hoover's idea in inviting officials of Latin American nations to visit the United States while he is President goes beyond his own administration in purpose. He would like to see it a permanent custom for heads of the various countries in the western hemisphere to visit one another, a custom of European nations for centuries.

Hoover has broadened the scope of his tour to include a visit to Nicaragua, as it was indicated several days ago by the United Press, with his visit to Mexico.

'DEAR SENATOR' IS
FRUIT OF THE TREE

McCready Huston Uses a Very Modern Rotten Political Background for His Latest Novel.

BY WALTER D. HICKMAN
SENATOR DAN MEREDITH, classified as "Empire's leading Harding man," was the fruit of the modern rotten political tree.

You will meet Dan Meredith, who posed as "Honest Dan" to the voters, in McCready Huston's novel, "Dear Senator," recently published by the Bobbs-Merrill Company.

Let me first state that I consider "Dear Senator" not political history of the accurate type of Indiana, although you get the impression that rotten politics in this state inspired the writing of this novel, but just a novel.

"Dear Senator" is told to you by a newspaper reporter who, as he tells you in his story, was employed to write pointless two or three-line comments on the editorial page of a small town paper whose policy was to straddle the fence on all political issues.

Huston has kept out of his story the influence of a single honest newspaper that could have exposed the facts to the public of which he writes. In other words, we are concerned with the "keep press" only in this story.

Using the words of Fordyce, one of the harmless editorial writers on the paper, we find the situation summed up by him when Jim, the editor of the paper, gets a chance to leave the paper to get a political job spilling cheap bunk throughout the state.

Fordyce says: "Sure, you'd be joining the gang. You'd belong to the organization. We're against it, you and I, even if we can't write anything. I remember better days; and I linger along hoping they'll return..."

These men upstairs in lots of newspaper offices are just like us, faithful to an idea while they are waiting until the owners quit being business men and decide to be journalists for a change."

The outstanding accomplishment of Huston in his new story is not the rotten political background, but the chief character, Dan Meredith. Huston has built a strong character study and our chief character is

PRIEST'S GUN
CAUSES DEATH

Franklin Man Victim of Hunting Accident.

By Times Special
FRANKLIN, Ind., Nov. 15.—Accidental discharge of a gun in the hands of his hunting companion, the Rev. Francis Mellen, Indianapolis, resulted in death for J. W. Hill, local business man and sportsman, near here late Wednesday.

In a statement to Dr. D. L. Phipps, Johnson county coroner, Mr. Mellen said the accident occurred when Mr. Hill was walking ahead of him when a covey of quail was flushed and he was told to release the safety on a shotgun and raise it to his shoulder.

As he did so, the gun was discharged, the load striking Mr. Hill in the back, severing the spinal column. It was the first hunting trip for the priest.

Mr. Mellen ran to a farm house for aid and returned with two men in an automobile. Some difficulty was experienced in finding the wounded man as the priest was not familiar with the locality. Mr. Hill was dead when a doctor arrived.

Mr. Hill was president of the J. W. Hill & Co. stockyards here and affiliated with the J. W. Hill & Co., Indianapolis livestock dealers.

Seventy Ill of Diphtheria
HAMMOND, Ind., Nov. 15.—Seventy cases of diphtheria are under quarantine in the Calumet district and two deaths have been recorded. The fatalities are Jack and David Dolin, 7 and 9, children of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Dolin. The father has been missing more than a week.

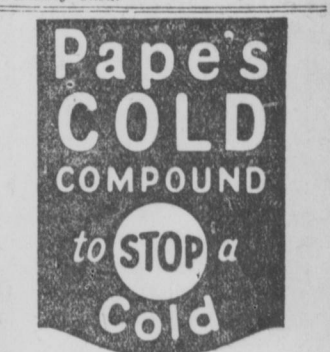

It is estimated that Hollywood screen stars receive in excess of $2,000,000 letters each year.

Snaps Out of Cold
In Record Time!

Did you ever hear of a five-hour remedy for colds? There is one, and it really does bring you out of it completely. Even if it's gripe, this method works only takes longer.

Prescribes Borer Remedy
GREENSBURG, Ind., Nov. 15.—Putting corn into a silo is the most effective method of fighting the corn borer, according to James Tumulty, of the Craig-Tumulty Company, who spoke at the Washington township farm bureau meeting here. The borer situation was the center of discussion by all who spoke. "Putting corn in a silo is 100 per cent effective against the corn borer," Tumulty said.

Plenty of people with a bad cold in the morning have been rid of it by night; and the secret is Pape's Cold Compound. You'll think it just luck the first time, but it always goes to the spot. Druggists have it for 35c.—Advertisement.

The Modern Woman
delights in color. In her quest for color she has turned to the semi-precious gems, where she finds all those lovely halftones. The soft greens, delicate blues and golden browns are just the shades desired for color harmony. Dyer wrought mountings emphasize these effects.
