

RUSSIANS TAKE LEAD IN AID TO KELLOGG PACT

Separate Peace Document, Backing U. S. Proposal, Offered Neighbors.

By Times Special
WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—By turning the other cheek to the United States, which outlaws Russia, the Soviet government comes through as the first to try to put the Kellogg anti-war treaty into effect.

Cutting across the provision which makes the treaty ineffective until ratified by the fourteen original signatories, Russia has proposed to Poland and Lithuania separate protocols between themselves, making the Kellogg pact effective immediately.

As a further step toward reducing war danger in the explosive Baltic region, Russia states that she desires to extend similar protocols to Finland, Estonia, and Latvia, as soon as they adhere to the Kellogg treaty.

While the United States senate, after a month's delay, has resumed treaty debate, the Soviet union information bureau here released the text of the Moscow note to Poland.

Ready to Aid Pact

"The government of the Soviet union continues to consider that this (Kellogg) pact does not give those guarantees for the non-violation of peace which resulted from the pacts of nonaggression and non-participation in hostile combinations that were proposed by it (Russia)," says the note, in part.

"In so far, however, as the Soviet government has considered that the Paris agreement (Kellogg pact) imposes upon its participants certain obligations of a peaceful character, it has without delay adhered to it. Taking most seriously all its actions in the field of securing peace, it would like to see the agreement enter into force as soon as possible, in particular in the mutual relations of the Soviet union and its nearest neighboring states.

Urges Separate Accords
"Obviously, if the agreement is to be made effective earlier between separate governments, such governments must sign a separate, additional document.

"Considering that the securing of peace in eastern Europe is a matter of first-class importance, and that from among the western states bordering on the Soviet union the Paris pact is signed by Poland, the Soviet government has decided to apply to the Polish government with a proposal to sign the inclosed protocol, according to which the Paris pact for the renunciation of war would enter into force between the Soviet union and Poland immediately after its ratification by these two states, regardless of the condition provided for in Article III of the pact."

HONOR GRAND DUKE

Hundreds of Russian Royalists at Nicholas' Bier.

ANT—S. France, Jan. 8.—Hundreds of Russian royalists assembled here today to pay homage over the remains of their strongest hopes for a czarist restoration.

The body of Grand Duke Nicholas, cousin of the late czar of the Russians, lay in state in his villa here surrounded by regal splendor. His last command to his followers was to "gather your forces and with crosses in hand enter again the triumphant way to your glorious existence."

The grand duke will be buried Wednesday at Cannes, where he sought refuge when driven from his Crimean home by the Russian revolution.

EXPERT URGES MORE SPACE AT CITY HOSPITAL

Present Institution Badly Overcrowded, Says Consultant.

Improvements at city hospital which are needed to provide a "well rounded community hospital program and a thoroughly co-ordinated institution" were recommended to the city health board by Dr. Christopher W. Parnell, Rochester (N. Y.) hospital consultant.

Co-operative understanding with the Indiana University medical school and its hospitals for the benefit of medical teaching was urged by the consultant.

"Due to a number of conditions, but largely to inadequate space the service of the city hospital is out of balance in many respects. Owing to the necessity of abandoning the old buildings which were condemned, the present occupied space badly is overcrowded. There are two hundred more patients being cared for than the present quarters were designed to accommodate," declared Dr. Parnell. Present capacity is 585 beds.

"Under such conditions the hospital service at best is inadequate. There is nothing like adequate provision for the care of patients with communicable diseases. The out-patient quarters are inadequate and the accident wards are crowded and badly located. The power plant is so utterly undependable that provision must be made immediately to build a new one which can be relied

DO YOUR SHARE IN PREVENTING THE SPREAD OF INFLUENZA

The influenza epidemic, though not so virulent as in 1918, is claiming many victims. To assist in waging a successful campaign against it health officials of many centers have issued warnings and given out many common sense precautionary measures. Get plenty of sleep and as much fresh air as possible. Exercise regularly. Avoid crowds whenever possible. Eat only wholesome food. These are ways of building up bodily resistance to disease.

Many have found Vapex an invaluable aid in warding off influenza, grippe and colds of all kinds. It is extremely simple and pleasant to use. Get Vapex from your druggist, in the little square bottle and the package with the green triangle. Put a drop on your handkerchief. Breathe the vapor deeply through the nose. It keeps the head clear, prevents contagion, and will stop a cold at the start. Vapex may be used frequently, anywhere. The strength of one application lasts for an entire day. Vapex is recommended especially for all those who must mingle regularly with crowds.

on to carry the load and provide reasonable reserve.
"Unfortunately psychopathic patients are cared for in the basement of one of the Burdall units under conditions which are almost intolerable. In another of the Burdall units colored patients occupy beds that are crowded into ill lighted, ill ventilated rooms. In one ward there are six beds with only one window. The board of health would not tolerate such conditions in other hospitals."

Dr. Parnell urged larger fire-proof quarters for the clinical records and adequate administrative offices. "There is no chance to encourage scientific research because there is no space in which to pursue it," he stated.

Central location of the admitting department to provide ready transfer of patients to the wards and rooms was urged.

Immediate need of 200 additional beds to relieve "overcrowding now so painfully obvious," 100 beds for communicable diseases, and provisions for caring for children was cited.

"A thoroughly modern clinical laboratory providing for the routine work of the hospital and for such research as may be undertaken should be incorporated in the plans for the immediate future. A need almost as important as the care of the sick and injured in the hospital is that of prevention and early treatment of disease in the out-patient division. A well organized and properly served out-patient department will lessen the need for hospital beds. It is an essential adjunct to modern hospital service."

NEW'S ENERGY ALARMS BRITAIN

Lay Shipping War to Merchant Marine Speed.

By Times Special
WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—The present shipping war, involving British and American efforts to obtain additional mail and passenger service in the North Atlantic and Cuban services, grew out of the speed and success with which Postmaster-General New has carried out the merchant marine provisions of the White bill, in the opinion of members of congress in touch with the situation.

Though the bill was passed only last May, New has already negotiated twenty-four contracts that will result in the construction of that number of American ships. The measure permitted the post-office to let profitable, long-term, mail-carrying contracts provided the shipping companies agreed to build a vessel within three years. Thirty contracts will have been let within the next few months, which will mean the construction of $100,000,000 worth of ships. By this method it is hoped to create a merchant marine of fast and modern ships. The working of the plan is said to have given concern to the British, although that government has given mail subsidies for more than ninety years with the Cunard company as one of the chief beneficiaries.
