

HOOVER TO PICK VETERANS IN U. S. POSTS FOR CABINET

NO 'SURPRISES' ARE EXPECTED BY OBSERVERS

Each Man Chosen Must Have First-Hand Acquaintance With His Job.

BAN PUT ON 'WOMEN'

Mellon Appears Certain to Keep Job; Donovan Has Inside Track.

BY THOMAS L. STOKES
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Herbert Hoover's cabinet will be one of "insiders," that is, men either veterans in government service or of direct, first-hand acquaintance with the particular problems of the departments to which they are appointed.

Most of the cabinet will be men long in the public eye as officials, it is learned from a survey of those being considered for the various posts. There will be no "surprises" in the sense that those appointed will be unknown. It will be a cabinet of experienced blood.

There will be no women in Hoover's cabinet, despite the contribution women made to Hoover's election.

The ban on women grows from Hoover's intention to select cabinet members largely from those experienced in federal government matters, and this leaves a rather thin field of selection. It is not a question of ability, but of proven ability in the particular work which must be done.

The President-elect has several reasons for the test of tried government service.

Wants Practical Cabinet
In the first place, he wants a practical cabinet. This desire emanates from his business experience and his own view that the United States government is the biggest business in the world, and must be conducted as a business.

While the cabinet constitutes a sort of board of directors, that board must operate through congress.

Hoover, therefore, wants men in his cabinet who have had experience in dealing with congress. Excellent legislative ideas of government officials frequently have been lost in congress because of the way they were presented.

If possible, Hoover wants to avoid mistakes, often magnified into very unfortunate incidents, which in the past have been made by men of good intention but lacking in ability to see the natural reaction.

Group of Lieutenants
Hoover's view of a cabinet is a group of lieutenants, not a super-council. He intends to be the big boss, himself. He will seek information; therefore, will want men well-informed.

Hoover will have no "kitchen cabinet," that little group of advisers behind the scenes in many administrations. The cabinet will act in that capacity for him, though it will be much more than that. Recent developments have proven that Secretary of the Treasury Mellon will be retained for a time and it virtually is certain the youthful assistant attorney-general, William J. Donovan, will get a cabinet post. Both are tried in the government service.

So is Ogden L. Mills, undersecretary of the treasury, who will remain in the department with the general expectation he will be elevated when Mellon retires. Mills was regarded as an authority on finance, tariff and taxation as a member of congress, and led the fight there for the Mellon tax plans.

Senator Charles McNary of Oregon, veteran legislator and chairman of the senate agriculture committee, is receiving serious consideration for secretary of agriculture, it is learned. McNary has directed battles for agricultural legislation from the inside and knows the temper of congress.

Hunts Secretary of State
Louis S. Cates of Salt Lake City, well-known mining engineer and friend of Hoover, is receiving wide endorsement in the west for secretary of interior. He has come into contact with problems with which that department deals.

Likewise, Hoover undoubtedly will appoint a man close to organized labor, if not from its ranks, for secretary of labor. Several such are under consideration.

In picking a secretary of state he will not draw upon outsiders alone though they be, but will select some one who has been connected intimately with foreign affairs. It is the general view he will be his own secretary of state, and will select a man who can administer the department capably.

Attack on Mellon

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—The first real attack on Herbert Hoover's incoming administration is being built around Andrew Mellon, secretary of the treasury, who is expected to be reappointed to the new cabinet.

Democrats in congress are acting on this expectation and almost daily they are now speaking in one house or the other in criticism of Mellon. This attack is based upon two points, Mellon's alleged ineffective enforcement of prohibition and his alleged overgenerosity in granting large tax refunds to corporations.

The Democratic speakers themselves do not hook up their attacks with Mellon's expected reappointment, but everywhere in Washington this is assumed to be the real object of the opposition.

There has been no particular tie binding Hoover and Mellon in the past. Hoover was somewhat resentful when Mellon failed to assist him in the hard fight for the presidential nomination.

Land Blaze Spells Ocean Liner's Doom

In drydock at Marseilles, France, safe from the perils of the ocean lanes, the liner "Paul Lecat" succumbed to a fierce blaze that originated on land. This striking picture shows the fire as it gained headway, completely destroying the liner which was the pride of the passenger service between Europe and the Far East. The ship had been in drydock for overhauling and was nearly ready to put to sea again when the fire broke out.

CREAM OF UNIVERSE

Man Chief Pebble, Says Savant

By United Press
LONDON, Jan. 18.—Belief that the earth is not the only inhabited planet in the universe, but that the earth's inhabitants make up the supreme race, is expressed by Professor A. S. Eddington, distinguished astronomer, in his new book, "The Nature of the Physical World."

"I do not think," the professor wrote, "that the whole purpose of the creation has been staked on the one planet where we live; and in the long run we can make ourselves the only race that has been or will be gifted with the mystery of consciousness."

"But I feel inclined to claim that at the present time our race is supreme; and not one of the profusion of stars in their myriad clusters looks down on scenes comparable to those which are passing beneath the rays of the sun."

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Jan. 20, Christ the World's Redeemer, Luke 15:3-7; Rom. 7:14-25.

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.
Editor of The Congregationalist
THE two great facts which have been studied in the two preceding lessons—the Fatherhood of God, and the fact of sin—find their meeting place in Jesus Christ, who came to incarnate the love of God in human life and to be the Savior of the world. Jesus came to save sinners. The salvation that he had for the world was not a salvation to be attained by the elimination of the unfit and by disregarding human sin. He did not come to establish a remote and exclusive kingdom for the saints. His purpose was to transform the sinful characters and lives of men through the power of God's grace and make them fit for the Kingdom of God.

This elemental purpose in the mission of Jesus is brought out strongly in the three parables in the fifteenth chapter of Luke, one of which constitutes the first portion of our lesson. The parable of the lost piece of silver is very similar to this of the lost sheep; and the third parable, the story of the prodigal son, is a longer illustration of the truth of the first two.

This parable of the lost sheep has been made very vivid to the modern world through the popularity of Sankey's song, "The Ninety and Nine." It was in many ways the deepest symbol of the Moody and Sankey revival movement of the last century; and, despite the rather hard theology underlying that movement, it gave to that great epoch of revivalism its essential character as a movement of great yearning for the souls of men and the desire to see the power of God manifested in the transformation of sinners into saints. When the church departs from that great elemental purpose it fails to realize the very thing for which Jesus came to earth and the most important product of his life has been entrusted to the church.

The efficacy of the power of Christ to redeem men through repentance has been amply shown wherever the gospel is preached in sincerity and truth. Modern science tends to be skeptical of the possibility of fundamental change in character. But the gospel is still vindicated in its results.

Paul understood thoroughly well the purpose of Christ. He laid great stress upon the power of the gospel in his own day to transform the lives of those who had been immoral and disregarded of the claims of God and of man. He emphasized the fact that Christ died for the ungodly, that it is the unworthy who may claim a share in his love. This work of Christ, he says, is a great work of reconciling men to God.

It is somewhat unfortunate that a misinterpretation of Paul's partial statement of the gospel truth has led to a great deal of false emphasis at this point. The work of Christ has been very commonly

SEEK REFERENDUM

Move for Constitutional Convention Begun.

Dissatisfaction with Indiana's seventy-eight-year-old constitution will prompt another effort in the current general assembly for a referendum on the question of a constitutional convention.

A bill authorizing the referendum is being prepared with the backing of representatives of farm organizations, organized labor, women's clubs and educational and temperance forces.

In 1914 a proposal for rewriting the document was turned down by the electorate. In 1927 the legislature enacted a law calling for a constitutional convention but the state supreme court held it unconstitutional because it did not provide for a referendum.

Two years ago Senator John S. Aldridge, of Anderson, introduced a bill calling for the referendum or constitutional revision but the bill died awaiting third reading in the senate.

State to Regulate Flying

By Times Special
SACRAMENTO, Jan. 19.—California is moving to regulate its air routes as it does its highways, and its airplanes as it does its other common carriers.

The present legislature doubtless will pass two measures. One will authorize the state department of motor vehicles to establish standard air routes, standardized service and airports, enforce safety rules, and otherwise regulate air traffic. Another will modify the law so that the state railroad commission may set passenger and other rates by declaring airplanes carrying passengers and freight common carriers.

California has 700 licensed private, commercial, and transport planes. The Boeing Air Transport, on April 15, added fifteen new trimotor twelve-passenger de luxe planes for its California-Chicago service.

In 1928 a total of 15,000 passengers "took to the air" in California, not counting some 10,000 more who flew from Los Angeles to Catalina island on the "flying boat." California has 2,500 miles of regular airplane routes.

Airmen Going East

A fairchild cabin monoplane piloted by M. G. Beard, which landed at Capitol Airport several days ago en route to Farmingdale, L. I., was to take off today for the east. Passengers included L. Dooley, D. E. Brexton and N. G. Southern of the Fairchild company.

POW WOVES TO PRISON

Incantations to 'Produce' Gold Costs Woman $8,000.

By United Press
MANILA, Jan. 18.—Alleged possession of supernatural powers on the part of Gabriel Valentin caused the mother-in-law of the dean of the College of Liberal Arts, University of the Philippines, to give Valentin $8,000 with which to produce gold after he had performed incantations.

By court decision, Valentin will now have five years, five months and eleven days in which to find out if supernatural means can get him out from behind prison bars.

A party at Vera Reynolds' discloses a wild game of charades. Jacqueline Logan goes in for fortune telling with Chinese Chi Chi sticks. The Gleasons, Lucille, James and their group, go in strongly for an innocent enough game that bears the fearsome name of "Murder."

So play the merry villagers of Hollywood. These are the horrible revelations the Photoplay investigator brings out to show that, in spite of the frequent scandals that go sizzling over the newspaper wires, the film colony as a whole leads a life about as riotous as do the neighborhood folks of Grand Rapids, Norfolk or Little Rock.

Naturally, there is a wild element—there's one in every town. Hollywood is perhaps larger because young people are in the majority and money among the elect is plentiful.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICE ANNOUNCED

"Life" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday.

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "He sent His word, and healed them, and delivered them from their destructions. Oh that men would praise the Lord for His goodness, and for His wonderful works to the children of men" (Ps. 107:20, 21).

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "The enslavement of man is not legitimate. It will cease when man enters into his heritage of freedom, his God-given dominion over the material senses. Mortals will some day assert their freedom in the name of Almighty God. Then they will control their own bodies through the understanding of divine Science. Dropping their present beliefs, they will recognize harmony as the spiritual reality and discord as the material unreality."

GOVERNMENT TRIES TO SAVE ERRING SALMON

Screens Will Be Used to Block Fish From Ditches.

By United Press
WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—The problem of saving wayward salmon who stray from their home river waters to die in irrigation ditches and canals is perplexing the bureau of fisheries.

Even congress became so alarmed last session over the plight of these nomadic aquarists that it appropriated money for research by the bureau of fisheries to devise screens, stops, and divers to keep the salmon in their home waters.

A highly trained engineer, the bureau announced, has been employed studying thirty devices to be placed at entrances of canals and ditches.

BRITAIN PROPERTY HOLD

Press Flays Baldwin's Statement That It Can Not Be Released.

BERLIN, Jan. 18.—Prince Minister Baldwin's recent statement in the house of commons that the British government could not consider releasing privately owned German property seized during the war has brought protests from virtually every section of the German press.

The pessimistic reaction to the announcement was in striking contrast to the enthusiasm with which Germany welcomed the news that the United States government had agreed to restore to German nationals the goods and assets taken over by the American alien property custodian during the war.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy cheeks—sparkling eyes—most women can have. Dr. F. M. Edwards for 20 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave his patients a substitute for calomel made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. Know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system. If you have a pale face, yellow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—now and then to keep fit. 15c, 30c and 60c—Advertisement.

BILL PROPOSES EXTENDING CITY BOARD'S POWER

Three Measures Introduced in House of Interest to Indianapolis.

Three bills of particular interest to Indianapolis were introduced Friday by Marion county representatives.

Extension of power of the board of works in cities of the first class, meaning Indianapolis, so that the board may determine the kind of pavement to be used in widening or adding to a roadway and determine also the kind of resurfacing material is advocated in the bill sponsored by Representative John L. Benedict.

Broadening of the definition of terms in the existing laws governing drains and sewers to enable municipalities to construct and maintain sewage disposal plants as integral parts of their sewer system is proposed in the measure by Representative Frank J. Noll.

Suspends Rules to Pass Bill

Representative Lloyd D. Claycombe of Indianapolis was joined by Mrs. Bertha Zimmerman of Terre Haute in presenting a bill providing for an amendment to the zoning law providing for an appeal to appellate court from decision of the circuit or superior courts reversing orders of the board of zoning appeals and providing that the provisions of zoning ordinances may be enforced by injunction proceedings.

The house suspended the rules and passed a bill providing that members of the general assembly may have cases in which they appear postponed by judges upon filing of a petition showing that they must attend the general assembly. The bill is designed at this time specifically to aid Representative Fabius Gwin, attorney of Shoals who is retained in a case which has been reversed by the higher courts and must be retried.

The suit has been set for hearing next week.

The measure was introduced by Representative Thad S. Adams of Danville. Delph L. McKesson of Plymouth; George W. Freeman of Kokomo, and J. Glenn Harris of Gary.

A message from Governor Harry G. Leslie was read announcing that he had signed house bill No. 1, providing for a $150,000 appropriation to meet the salaries and expenses of the seventy-sixth session.

Invitation to Coolidge

The house received and passed the senate resolution inviting President Calvin Coolidge to attend the sesqui-centennial celebration Feb. 25 of the capture of Ft. Sackville at Vincennes by George Rogers Clark.

Changing of the Indiana time from central to eastern standard time is advocated by Representative Forrest Knepper of Ellettsburg in a bill introduced.

Knepper declared the measure was emergency legislation as the proposed change in time is to take place at midnight of March 31, 1929.

The house adjourned until 2 o'clock Monday afternoon.

NEW JOB FOR BARKEEP

By United Press
LONDON, Jan. 18.—A new word has been added to the dictionary, and a new way of earning a living has been found. It is "pro-shaker." "Pro-shaker" is one who goes to houses and mixes dozens of different cocktails at a moment's notice.

As yet there is very little competition in this new profession, for although the pay is good, the work is hard and difficult to learn. In fact, "pro-shakers" are very scarce. "An Englishman," declares a popular London hostess, "who can shake every known American, Continental and English cocktail, has yet to be found. He would earn enormous fees."
