

BRUNETTE AND BLONDE BATTLE SPLITS SCHOOL

Chicago U. Is Aroused Over Proper Measure of Beauty.

BY W. F. SULLIVAN
United Press Staff Correspondent
CHICAGO, June 13.—Classroom discussions over the fourth dimension and other difficult scientific problems took second place in student interest at the University of Chicago today when the campus was divided in opposing groups over the proper dimensions of beauty as concerns blondes and brunettes.

The discussion even threatened to involve Robert Maynard Hutchins, youthful president-elect, who only recently came here to take up a more serious task of directing the institution.

Everything would have been calm and serene had the students accepted the compromise decision of beauty experts, who recently said that two blondes were the prettiest coeds on the campus. Even the experts could not decide between the two as each was equally beautiful.

Twins Win First Award
Helen and Lois Dodd, twins, won the award of the committee, which was composed of John Barrymore, Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr. and F. Scott Fitzgerald.

College newspapers and magazines have a penchant for stirring up trouble among the student body and the "Phoenix," a monthly comic, was no exception in such publications.

It seemed to feel that the beauty experts, in failing to decide which blonde twin was prettier, had failed in deciding this year's queen of pulchritude and a second contest was staged.

Whether the unkind reception the "Phoenix" had given the award of the experts had any influence is not for an outsider to say, but it might be recorded truthfully that the blonde, Dods did not even come close to receiving the verdict of the students.

President May Rule
In their stead, Eleanor Eastwood, a decided brunette, was chosen by the popular votes. The Dodd twins were far down in the list although they had many supporters. The announcement of the vote caused a row that shook the mid-way with a lively discussion on the subject of beauty that probably never will be settled.

"The blonde twins jointly hold the title," friends of the Dodd girls contended. "The experts chose them and they know what beauty is."

This time there could be no compromise, no joint title, unless perhaps the claimants agree for an arbitration.

In Mother's Footsteps

Ethel Barrymore, 18 and pretty, was graduated from Notre Dame academy, at Boylston, Pa., the other day. It was the same school from which her mother, Ethel Barrymore, and her grandmother, Mrs. George Drew Barrymore, had been graduated before her. Miss Colt is shown above in her graduation gown with her famous actress mother, who returned to the academy after an absence of thirty-six years. They refused to confirm rumors that the girl graduate, who won the highest music honors at her school, will go on the stage.

CITY MEN ON HOOVER BOARD

Drs. Barnard and King to Conduct Health Survey.

"Public health in its broadest interpretation, meaning whatever is best for the commonwealth, will be the outstanding feature of the Hoover administration," Dr. William F. King, secretary of the state board of health, predicted today in announcing his acceptance of membership on a survey commission appointed by the President.

The commission, a semi-official body composed of twelve members, is headed by Dr. Harry E. Barnard, Indianapolis, close personal friend of Hoover. He will have his office in Washington, but retains his residence here, Dr. Barnard announced.

Business of the body will be to conduct a complete survey of public health and child welfare throughout the United States.

"The commission will work under Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, secretary of the interior and former president of Leland Stanford university," Dr. King declared.

Other members of the commission are William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor; Miss Grace Abbott, chief of the United States children's bureau; Hugh S. Cumming, surgeon-general of the United States; Dr. S. J. Crumrine, New York, general secretary of the American Child Health Association, which is headed by Hoover; Judge Frank Pickering Cabot, justice of the Boston juvenile court, and Henry Breckinridge, New York, former assistant secretary of war.

By United Press
MOSCOW, June 13.—The supreme court passed the death sentence on a young monarchist, Uri Kanski, who greatly hindered his own defense by defying the judges.

"As a nobleman and a monarchist, I refuse to answer," the youth said when questioned regarding monarchist activities. He admitted counter revolutionary work against the soviet government. He was formally charged with espionage.

He was arrested in October, 1927, while crossing the Estonian frontier.

Aged Rolling Pins Fight for Antiquity Honors

Times Story Began Battle, 90-Year-Old Stick Enters Contest.

With crossed rolling-pins for the battle insignia another "war of the century" is on.

Up and down neighborhoods, in old cupboards, the call to arms has been sounded, "Who has the oldest rolling-pin in Indiana?"

For, shades of unrolled pie dough, the warfare started with a story printed in The Indianapolis Times on June 5, crediting Mrs. Grace Meek, of 306 Harris avenue, and her 41-year-old dough bruise with carrying off the antiquity honors in the kitchen boudoir.

And now comes the most bewhiskered wrestler on a biscuit mat, the 90-year-old rolling pin of Mrs. Martha Friddle, 84, of 1925 Dexter avenue, to steal the gold-plated flour bin award from the Meek pin that had never cracked a husband's dome.

The Friddle hickory limb has frapped, fretted and fumed for ninety years and has "rolled the dough till the bakerman comes" and it's still being handed down from daughter to daughter.

Mrs. Friddle got it from her mother, who received it as a gift from her husband shortly after their marriage in 1840. Mrs. Friddle used the rolling pin up to 1880 when she turned it over to her daughter at the time of her marriage.

The daughter, Mrs. Friddle, who lives with her, plans to give it to her daughter, Mrs. F. M. Rudi, 242 Randolph street, upon her death and in turn Mrs. Rudi will will the ever-rolling rolling pin to her daughter.

RIVER SHARING STRIKES SNAGS

Debate Two Weeks on Division of Colorado Waters.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—Worn from two weeks of wrestling with the problem of dividing the waters of the Colorado river equitably between them, commissioners from Arizona, California and Nevada rested today while Colonel William J. Donovan, government referee, were in New York on private business.

They were anticipating with some hope, however, a new proposal for settlement of their problem which Donovan has promised to present Friday.

It was described by him as an effort to reduce the Colorado river problem to "its simplest terms."

The commissioners are concentrating on three prime factors which any settlement must take into account.

1. Protection of Arizona's claim to the Gila river as "private property" which can not be included in the total of water to be divided.

2. Assurance of sufficient water for California to make feasible the building of the all-American canal.

3. Assurance of adequate water for the California coastal cities, including Los Angeles.
