

LINDY RETURNS TO DESK AFTER WEDDING TRIP

Colonel Poses With Wife,
Avoids Honeymoon
in Interview.

By United Press
MITCHELL FIELD, L. I., June 19.—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh returned from his honeymoon to business today, posed with the new "we"—his bride, the former Anne Morrow, and an airplane—and gave the first newspaper interview since his marriage, May 27.

He talked nothing but aviation and steered clear of comment on the trip he and his wife took along the coast in their honeymoon yacht, the Mouette. He gave no hint of his plans for a residence. Hatless and in a suit of blue, he motored to Mitchell Field with Mrs. Lindbergh, also dressed in blue, and posed solemnly beside a plane for the benefit of cameramen.

Later, seated at a desk in the office of the Guggenheim fund for the promotion of aeronautics, he talked, with a trace of his old smile, about the Guggenheim efforts to make aviation safe for the novice.

He discussed the airplane safety competition which opened at this field today, with the Guggenheim fund offering $100,000 to the plane least dependent on a trained pilot's skill in an emergency.

The prime purpose of the competition, he said, was to encourage the development of planes anybody could fly—to the end that airplanes might become as common as automobiles.

"Commercial aviation, in charge experienced operators, is entirely practical today on a commercial basis," he said. "The next step is to perfect planes and equipment that can be flown by inexperienced per-

Quicker!

Flit kills all household insects. When Flit is used as directed on the can, not one fly, mosquito, roach, ant, bed bug or moth will be left alive in your home. There is greater killing power in Flit, and the manufacturer backs up this fact with a money-back guarantee if Flit does not kill every insect.

Always use Flit. It is harmless to people. And Flit vapor does not stain. Sold everywhere. More for the money in the quart size. For best results use Flit in the new improved Flit sprayer.

"Before that sort of flying is universal, planes will have to be more nearly foolproof and generally safer than they are today, even in the hands of inexperienced pilots."

He declared the day of personal planes was still in the future. He agreed that nearly all planes might be termed "everyday planes," but added, "not in the sense that a novice can always fly them safely."

He smiled broadly when asked if all planes were not "pretty much alike."

"Generally that is probably so," he said. "But there are two auto-gyro machines—one from Europe and one from the United States—entered in this competition. The idea is to test out the revolutionary as well as the evolutionary with the idea of eventually getting the fool-proof machine."

WORK RUSHED ON FIRE TOWER

Drill Building to Be Ready
Next Week.

The drill tower for firemen will be completed within a week. Fire Chief Harry E. Voshell announced today.

The five-story tower is being erected at Engine House 30, South and New Jersey streets, at an approximate cost of $1,700. The tower will be modern in every respect, providing all the facilities for instructing the city's fire fighters. Battalion Chief John J. O'Brien will direct the instruction activities.

A smoke room where firemen can become accustomed to using a gas mask and learn to string lines under handicap will be a part of the equipment.

Voshell said work is progressing on the new fire department shops, which have been moved to Sanders and Sherby streets, in connection with the old Shelby street mule barn. The building is 120x120 feet, providing ample space for the shop and housing of emergency equipment. The department keeps two trucks, three pumper and a hose wagon in reserve.

Frank Braun, master mechanic, is in charge of the repair shop. Voshell plans to install a new heating system, using the old boiler which formerly heated the fire headquarters.

'BRAVE' SKIPPER FINALLY TAKEN FROM STEAMER

Changes Mind About Perishing With Ship Wrecked on Rocks.

By United Press
NORTH HEAD, Wash., June 19.—Captain Louis Johnson of the wrecked steamer Laurel, who refused to leave his ship when the crew was rescued, was taken from the derelict today by a coast guard crew. The crew, which observers could not identify, started with the skipper to Cape Disappointment.

A white flag dropped from the bridge of the steamer this morning gave mute testimony that Captain Louis Johnson had changed his mind about going down with his ship.

A sixty-six-mile gale which threatened to overwhelm what was left of the vessel was thought to have brought the skipper's decision.

Monday Captain Johnson refused to go ashore when the last six men of his crew were taken from the stern of the Laurel, which broke in two on rocks half a mile off shore.

That night and Tuesday one of the worst gales in the north Pacific coast history raged along the mouth of the Columbia river and sent waves pouring over the bridge.
