

CAPONE FOES AND FRIENDS WAIT AT JAIL

Plot to 'Get' Underworld
Czar, If He Wins Prison
Release, Rumored.

By United Press
PHILADELPHIA, June 24.—Now that attorneys have said they will attempt to obtain the release of Alphonse (Scarface) Capone from Holmesburg prison, where he is serving a year's sentence for carrying concealed weapons, his friends and enemies have begun to gather here.

Detectives, it was reported today, had found that a number of Capone's followers were here to give him a hearty welcome when, and if, he is released.

Enemies on Hand

To match his followers, his enemies have sent their best gunmen, it was reported, to "get" Capone the day he is released, if he is freed before the ten months of his sentence, with time off for good behavior, expires.

A Chicago attorney was reported en route here to aid Congressman Benjamin Golder and Bernard L. Lemisch, Capone's lawyers, in their attempt to have the Chicago gang leader and his bodyguard, Frank Cline, released.

Lemuel B. Schofield, director of public safety, said he would oppose the release of Capone and Cline, and that his policemen had been told to guard against any conflict between the rival representatives of the Chicago underworld.

Court Move Rumored

Rumors were that Capone's attorneys would attempt to have their client brought into court on a writ of habeas corpus, and then they would argue for a reconsideration of the year sentence for the two men.

Capone and his bodyguard were arrested as they left a moving picture theater May 17, and within sixteen hours they had been held under $35,000 bail, which they did not raise, indicted for carrying concealed deadly weapons, placed on trial, pleaded guilty, sentenced and on their way to prison.

RARE MOVE BY SLAYER SEEKING •SECOND TRIAL

Coram Nobis Writ Asked in Behalf of Terre Haute
Ax Killer.

By Times Special
TERRE HAUTE, Ind., June 24.—Counsel for George Sulser, 36, serving a two-to-twenty-one year term in the Indiana state prison for manslaughter, today is seeking a writ of coram nobis before Circuit Judge John P. Jeffries.

This is a rare action and came into notice recently when resorted to by D. C. Stephenson, former Indiana Klan leader, in an effort to gain release from the state prison where he is serving a life term for murder. Its purpose is to permit admission of evidence not available at a first trial in a case where the time limit for appeal or other steps has expired.

Offers Self Defense Theory

Attorney George Hazleton is making the plea for the writ in behalf of Sulser, convicted of the ax slaying, July 4, 1924, of Jess Voris. The attorney is presenting evidence to show that Sulser acted in self defense.

According to the attorney, this evidence was not available at the time of the trial because the witness, Albert Pierce, was held in jail and could not be released as he was unable to give bond.

Sulser, who at the time of the slaying, said he was a solicitor of funds for the Salvation Army, asserted he struck Voris on the head with the ax after being threatened with a razor in Voris's hand.

Razor Is Issue

During the trial the state scored heavily because the razor, with blade closed in handle, was found on Voris's body. However, Hazleton asserts, Pierce will testify he saw Voris enter a house, scene of the tragedy, with the razor, opened in his hand.

Sulser, a roomer at the home of Mrs. Bertha Dixon, invited a Mrs. Liggett, who called in Mrs. Dixon's absence, to partake of a meal he had prepared. Voris, according to Sulser, entered the house and began abusing Mrs. Liggett, and turned on Sulser when he remonstrated.

of Manslaughter.

Criminal Judge James A. Collins today freed Gus Sansone, 21, of 616 Stevens street, of a charge of involuntary manslaughter in connection with the death of Frank J. Forth, 52, on June 14, 1927.

Sansone went free, despite the declaration of Deputy Prosecutor Paul Rhoadarmer that he was driving with "willful disregard for the law" when his car struck and killed Forth at Twenty-second street and Central avenue.

At Sansone's trial several weeks ago, witnesses testified that he narrowly missed a laundry truck and then turned and laughed at the truck before striking Forth. Judge Collins withheld judgment until today, then freed Sansone because of insufficient evidence.

CHURCH URGED TO VIEW SIN

Too Many Overlook Corruption, Says Pastor.

"The Christian's relation to the world is to combat through the saving influence of the gospel the corruption which is gnawing at the vitals of humanity," declared the Rev. L. C. E. Fackler at St. Matthew Lutheran church Sunday morning.

"Only a passing glance at the world, and by that I mean our city and its society, reveals that it is in need of that vital force, the doctrine of the gospel, to counteract corruption that is eating on the very vitals," he said.

"Note the foulness of sin, the immorality, vice, shame and crime which are of the manifest works of the flesh. Can a Christian note this corruption and say that it is nothing to me? Is a Christian doing his duty when he tries to throw white canvases over it, like a mangled body, and never expect the stench to come forth?"

"There is too much of covering up and shielding the wicked—a trying to justify the wicked or a looking in the opposite direction when approaching some rottenness."
