

Spanish Castle—High on Man-Made Cliff—City Folks' Dream True

WHILE it is the birthright of every girl to build beautiful dreams of turreted castles with towers rearing skyward over the brink of dancing blue waters, it has remained for an Indianapolis woman to make her dream come true.

On the secluded shores of Lake Maxinkuckee up in Marshall county speeding motor boats and fleet sailing craft swirl through the waters before a Spanish castle set high on a cliff over the very shore edge.

It is a building that brings a gasp of admiration when one runs across it suddenly hidden in a bower of trees. But it is more than a building. It is the dreams, molded in rock, and old woods and heavy tapestries, of Mrs. Norman Perry, wife of the president of the Indianapolis Light and Power Company.

"For years, Mrs. Perry said, as she opened the door to her journalistic guest, 'I dreamed of a home—a Spanish castle—that would incorporate all of my ideas. When Mr. Perry and I decided to build here, we tried to do it completely. This is the result.'

The result is something to be proud of. The first difficulty that the Perry encountered was a lack of cliffs. Central Indiana is sadly deficient in cliffs. A five-foot boulder in the gradually rolling country is an object of interest. So a cliff had to be built. Whoever heard of a castle without one?

SHALE and rocks were piled in a great mass along the shore line until the effect of a great solid wall was produced. On this the castle was erected and then the whole was surrounded with an arrangement of terraces. It is as Spanish as the Alhambra.

Stepping into the spacious hall-way one is impressed with the beauty of old Spanish details. Simplicity is the guiding motif, but it is a simplicity that springs into being in such perfect details as a twisting iron handrail losing itself in the shadows, or a twisted column reminiscent of the Hall of Lions.

Don Quixote, born in the mind of Cervantes, comes to life on the floor of the center room. Every alternating square foot of the tiled floor is illuminated with a scene from the great Spanish epic, giving the full interpretation.

A SPANISH fireplace dominates the south wall in the small parlor. It was transported from a true castle in Spain and the intricate beauty of elaborate carvings testify to the day when the Spanish artisans took pride in their everyday masterpieces.

The dignity of ancient breathers from every corner of this medieval castle. Ceremonial robes used in the religious service of the middle ages hang on the walls.

The heavy gold threads are dimmed by the centuries but still retain a deep luster. Each tiny stitch in them was interwoven with the prayers of countless nuns as they tailed in the calm cloisters so long ago.

A monastery bell that tolled to the monks as they toiled in the fields, hangs in the hallway. In an adjoining room a modern Chickering piano remains in harmony through the polished surfaces of its special Spanish case.

Bright hues, so favored in the old country, predominate in the upholstery.

THE second floor is given over to bedrooms, each overlooking the lake. Each has a balcony. Spanish furniture is to be found in each of the bedrooms, with bright colors woven into traditional figures on the counterpane.

The room in the tower is a room that appeals to men. Here the Moorish influence makes itself felt. A dancing senorita is captured on the canvas above the fireplace.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry have no love for publicity. Their home is theirs to enjoy to themselves as much as were the dreams from which it sprang.

Nearly they have provided a modern airport for their five-passenger cabin plane.

Woman's Day

A group of kids in a district school near Sayre, Pa., kept a cache of rainjack in the woods near the schoolhouse. At recess they slipped out and imbibed. Teacher told the parents, and the kids were given what is known in the vernacular as "a sound whaling."

Now the parents can complacently sit back (with much more comfort than their chastised progeny) and reflect that they've done their duty, and if the kids come to no good end, it's not their fault.

The actions of our juveniles are always and invariably merely a ditto mark to the actions of their elders. When kids are making and drinking mash it is because they're living in a society of elders doing the same thing.

Waited for Him

Here's a Robert Service poem from life. Fifty-five years ago Mary Louise Jukes and John Joseph Hill were married in London. A few months later they sailed to America, in quest of fortune. In 1903 Hill joined the gold rush to Alaska, promising that he would soon send for his wife and children.

For more than a quarter century, so Mrs. Hill told a Chicago judge, when she filed her divorce petition on a charge of desertion, she answered every door bell and watched every mail, believing that she would hear from her wanderer. It took twenty-five years to make her give up the long waiting.

Most women are like that. To their own undoing, say mental and emotional scientists.

What Spells Success

Thirteen-year-old Virginia Hogan of Omaha, Neb., is hailed as the nation's champion speller. One wonders how much if anything that will mean to Virginia now or later.

Despite all the strides which femininity has made since the day

ENTERTAIN GUESTS AT LUNCHEON

A one o'clock luncheon was given this afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. R. Kennedy, 4456 Central avenue, by Mrs. Kennedy, Mrs. J. W. Yakey, and Miss Helen Dailey.

Covers were laid for Mrs. Kennedy, Mrs. Yakey, Miss Dailey, Mrs. J. C. Dale, Mrs. E. E. Thornburgh, Mrs. Harriet Stegner, Mrs. G. T. Kerr, Mrs. Emmett F. Branch, Mrs. Myrtle Woody, Mrs. K. I. Nutter, Mrs. Clyde Schmidt, Mrs. Ira Eubank, Mrs. Scottie Schuck, Mrs. Frank Eubank, Mrs. John Nutter, Miss Ella Harrison, Miss Virginia Harrison and Miss Mary Bain, all of Martinsville; Mrs. Walter Edwards, Mooreville; Mrs. John Landers, Miss Katherine Dailey and Miss Dorothy Cunningham.

BRIDE OF DETROIT MAN

Miss Josephine Harman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Harman, 2221 North Meridian street, became the bride of Frederick Gallagher, Detroit, Mich., at a beautiful home ceremony performed Saturday, June 22, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gallagher will be at home in Detroit.

INTERPRETS the MODE

Tiny Slight Is Married Life Peril

BY MARTHA LEE

The little things, so small, so seemingly inconsequential that keep piling up in our hearts and minds are the material that sometimes build insurmountable walls between husbands and wives.

A real honest-to-goodness fight, out in the open, is much more safe than these little cankerous sores that come from a tiny scratch on the sensitiveness of husband and wife, made by the unthinking hand of one or the other.

A barrage of harsh words can be answered back with words as harsh and cutting. It can be tit for tat that way. The words were meant to be harsh. They were meant to hurt and cut and bruise. And so it is fair to hand back the same sort of treatment.

Slight Causes Pain

But take a slight, a forgotten anniversary, a trifling thoughtless remark, or more often no remark at all where one has been expected. Those are the things a husband and his wife can not combat. Simply because they are so utterly unintentional. That is one of the things that irks most about the whole affair. That these things are unintentional.

Here is a letter from a woman whose husband would probably be struck dumb if his wife were to unburden her heart to him as she has in this letter.

Dear Miss Lee—I have been married seven years and have been, for the most part, very fortunate. My husband has been a wonderful provider, a kind man, a faithful one, but Miss Lee, I am utterly miserable. I suppose I am just another one of those foolish women.

He is so thoughtless about the things that count so much with a woman. For instance, he never remembers our anniversary day. I should love to have it mean that much to him that he would at least remember to mention it to me. It isn't that I want a gift. I just want him to feel as I do about it, that it is a very special day.

Then about myself. He never mentions that I look old. Not that I want him always giving me compliments, but it does a woman's heart good to know that her husband still thinks her attractive and beautiful.

I sometimes wonder if other wives suffer for a bit of praise, a thoughtful remark or a glimpse of the little niceties men gave them before they were wives? It is these little things that make a woman happy. Miss Lee, I would willingly do without things to have my husband give me one of these of his own accord.

My dear, men must work and women must weep—for a little attention, it seems.

Try Shaming Him

Men soon become oblivious to sentimentality. It isn't in line with the day's work for bread and butter.

The men, who always are flattering their wives, usually do so because they can give them nothing more substantial. Think that over. Your husband, as far as I can see, is a great fellow. He is thoughtful, but since he doesn't, you might shame him a little by remembering it yourself, and planning a celebration in his honor.

He is much more apt to do something about it the next time than if you were to pout and act hurt about his not having remembered it.

Hand out a few compliments once in a while yourself, and before long he will follow suit of his own accord.

Urges Balanced Science Courses in Grade Schools

"The time is coming when every elementary teacher will be teaching science," declared Dr. Gerald S. Craig, professor of natural science from Columbia university, in a lecture at Teachers College of Indianapolis Monday.

Dr. Craig urged that the science program for children be a balanced program of many sciences and said that definite material from astronomy, chemistry and other fields be included. As author of "Outlines of Elementary Science" and "The Science Classroom."

Dr. Craig is one of the best known authorities on elementary science teaching in the United States. He will lecture at Teachers' college every morning this week except Thursday, at 9:30.

MRS. ADA FROST GIVEN BON VOYAGE PARTY

Mrs. Ada O. Frost, who will leave soon for a trip to Europe, was the honor guest at a farewell bridge party given Monday night by Mrs. J. S. Marlowe, at her home, 31 West Fall Creek boulevard.

Guests with Mrs. Frost were Mrs. A. B. Bailey, Logansport; Dr. Lillian B. Mueller, Mrs. Florence French, Mrs. Rudolph Roller, Mrs. Amelia Walsh, Miss Ethel Martindale, Miss Bess Morgan, Miss Fannie Paine, Miss Irene Dougherty and Miss Stella Doepfers.

WRITING LIKE WOMEN HELD LITERARY PERIL

Feminine Style Dominates Authors of Today, Says Editor.

NEW YORK, July 2.—Women writers are not only dominating the American literary field today, but the younger male authors are beginning to write like women.

Therein lies a menace which threatens to sap the virility of modern literature, warns Robert Herrick, veteran among authors and editors, expressed in the Bookman.

The man who writes like a woman, in Herrick's view, suggests instead of specifying, his ideas are evasive, nebulous and embroidered with pretty words in place of concrete thought.

"The penalty of changing sex in art as in nature is sterility and extinction," Mr. Herrick warns the young writer. "A feminized race is a feminized race. So too a feminized art."

City Couple Are Wedded at Church

The marriage of Miss Bernice Schmidt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Mardy Schmidt, 523 Cottage avenue, and Theodore A. Goebes, son of William Goebes, was celebrated this morning at Sacred Heart church, the Rev. John Joseph Berger officiating.

A program of organ music was played before and during the ceremony. The altar was banked with palms and ferns and lighted with cathedral candles.

Miss Hortense Mack, maid of honor, wore gown of orchid tulle; fashioned robe de style, with inserts of ecru chantilly lace. She wore a hairband hat to match and carried an arm bouquet of deep pink roses and baby breath tied with orchid tulle.

Mary Goebes flower girl, Miss Wilfrida Brandmaier and Miss Virginia Schmidt, sister of the bride, were bridesmaids. Miss Brandmaier wore rose and Miss Schmidt blue, fashioned robe de style. They wore hairband hats to match and carried roses and baby breath tied with tulle to match their gowns.

Little Mary Goebes, flower girl, wore green tulle and carried a basket of rose petals. Francis Schmidt was best man and Stephen Sullivan, groomsmen. The ushers were Bernard Weimer and Lawrence Eckstein.

Plan Trip to Northwest

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore ivory satin fashioned robe de style, with a yoke of tulle embroidered with pearls and crystals. Her veil was arranged there fashion with a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley, baby breath and white roses.

A breakfast for the bridal party and members of the immediate families was served at the home of the bride's parents following the ceremony. The bridal table was decorated with a large wedding cake on a mound of flowers. A reception will be held from 8 to 10 this evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Goebes will go on a trip through the northwest and will be at home after Aug. 1 in Indianapolis.

SINGER TO GO ON AIR

Miss Mildred Fowler, soprano, will sing a group of songs during the radio program to be broadcast at 6 o'clock Wednesday night over WKBF by members of the Indianapolis Indorsers of Photoplays, at which time Mrs. David Ross, state chairman of the organization, will talk on "The Indorsers' Safe and Sane Fourth of July Celebration." The program is being given in connection with the celebration being staged by the Indorsers.

Family Menu

BY SISTER MARY

NEA Service Writer
There is no time of the year when hearty salads are as welcome as during the summer months. On a hot noon we are decidedly grateful for the cooling freshness of both the looks and tastes of a salad that furnishes our needed calories as well as mineral salts and vitamins.

The cook will find it much easier to serve her main dish as a salad than in some other form. She can keep her kitchen cool during the heat of the day, since no fire is needed for prolonged cooking. The salad materials must all be prepared ready for mixing sometime before they will be needed, and since no salad should be mixed until ready to be served, she has no cause to worry over its "spilling" if the family is late in coming.

If you never have used string beans in salad combinations you have overlooked one of the best vegetables for salads. They don't lose their shape and become "mushy" as some vegetables do, and they combine particularly well with meat.

The young, early varieties are most attractive used whole. They should be cooked until just tender in as little water as possible.

Match-like pieces of veal and carrots can be substituted for beans and tongue, suggested in the recipe.

Honor Visitors

Mrs. F. A. Linton Jr., entertained at her home, 4819 Guilford avenue, Monday night with a bridge party in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Merwyn Harris, San Francisco, Cal.

Hold Social Meeting

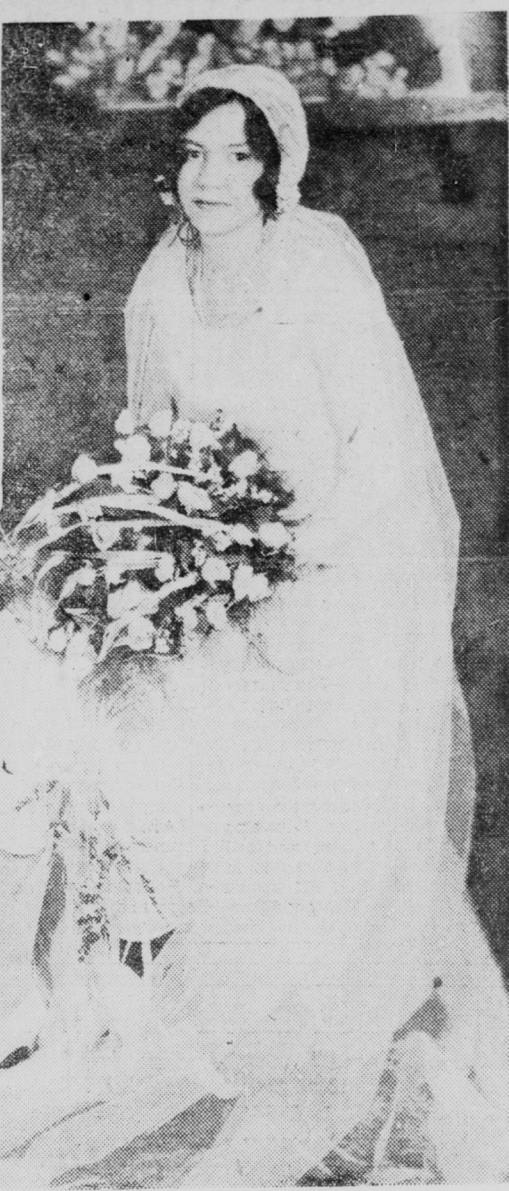

Mrs. Harvey Clark, 605 North Bradley avenue, entertained with a social meeting for members of Chi Beta Kappa sorority Monday night at her home. Miss Marie Bruhn entertained with a group of readings.

Mrs. Wilhite Leaves

Mrs. Mary E. Wilhite, teacher of piano and organ at the Metropolitan School of Music, will go to New York Thursday for the summer, where she will study pipe organ with Dr. Charles Doernsamm, dean of pipe organ at Columbia university.

ATTRACTIVE CITY BRIDE

Mrs. Joseph Jefferson Cripe was before her marriage, Saturday, June 22, Miss Marjorie Joan Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Brown, 5703 University avenue.

(Photo by Deschler)

Plan Benefit Party

Ladies of St. Mary's parish will entertain with cards and lotto at 3:30 Wednesday night at the school hall, 315 North New Jersey street for the benefit of the lawn fete. Mrs. Josephine Rosegarden and Mrs. William Betz are in charge of the affair.

Cincinnati Girl Becomes Bride of City Man

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Zekind, Cincinnati, O., announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Rose Zekind, to Thomas Harvie Barnard, son of Dr. and Mrs. H. E. Barnard, 3050 Pleasant Run parkway, which took place at Vernon Manor, Cincinnati, June 29.

Miss Marie E. Barnard, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor, and Harry M. Zekind, brother of the bride was best man. A wedding breakfast followed the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Barnard are on a motor trip through southern Indiana and Kentucky and will be at home after July 15 at 1512 North Pennsylvania street.

MISS JENNIE ADAMS WEDS DR. S. L. HESS

Miss Jennie Mae Adams and Dr. S. L. Hess, Chicago, were married Monday at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. George S. Oshio, 3536 North Meridian street. The Rev. J. Ambrose Dunkel read the service.

After a wedding trip at French Lick, Dr. and Mrs. Hess will go to Chicago, where they will be at home at 3009 Drexel boulevard.

McKee-Myers

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Jennifer Virginia McKee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. McKee, Bartlesville, Okla., to William Morris Myers Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Myers, Terre Haute. Miss McKee was graduated from the Junior college of Tudor hall. The date of the wedding has not been set.

Pavey-Zink Marriage Is Solemnized

Miss Gladys Pavey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Pavey, 114 West Thirty-second street, became the bride of O. Glenn Zink, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Zink, South Bend, at a simple ceremony performed at the home of the bride's parents at 8 o'clock Saturday night by the Rev. J. A. Long.

Miss Virginia Lawson, pianist, presented a group of bridal airs before and during the ceremony, which was read before an improvised altar. The fireplace was banked with palms and ferns, interspersed with baskets of daisies and white roses and lighted with two candelabra.

Miss Beatrice Pavey, sister of the bride, was her only attendant. She wore orchid chiffon made with tight bodice and long, full skirt and carried Aaron Ward roses. A reception at the home followed.

Mr. and Mrs. Zink have gone on a trip west and will be at home at 114 West Thirty-second street. Out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mrs. Robert Holt, Darlington; Benjamin Pavey, Crawfordsville, and Miss Evelyn Bowles, Argos.

Bride-Elect Is Honored With Party

Miss Agnes Welch, whose marriage to Dr. Paul B. Kernel will take place Thursday, was the guest in whose honor Miss Eileen Scanlon entertained Monday night at the Brown Betty terrace with a linen shower.

The bridal colors, pink and green, were carried out in the decorations and appointments. The hostess was assisted by her mother, Mrs. John H. Scanlon.

Guests included Mrs. Wallace Jones, Mrs. Jack Stevenson, Mrs. Howard Phillips, Mrs. Hugh O'Connell, Mrs. John Kelley, Mrs. Joseph Sexton, Mrs. Louis De Wald, Miss Mary Donahue, Miss Helen Markey, Miss Helen Hiesel, Miss Junonia Mann, Miss Raffaela Montani, Miss Virginia Mann, Miss Marie Gardiner, Miss Hazel Moore, Miss Margaret McCarthy, Miss Louise Culkins and Miss Ellen Dalton.

PERSONALS

Harry H. Fulmer, 3836 Broadway, has as his guest for a few days, his sister, Miss Harriet Fulmer, Los Angeles, Cal., who is on route to New York, from where she will sail July 13 for a summer abroad.

Mrs. Laura G. C. Stout, 3113 North Meridian street, has arrived in New York from Europe and will return to Indianapolis soon.

Miss Bess Garten, 3242 North Meridian street, has gone for a two months' visit in Los Angeles, Cal. She will tour the western coast during her absence.

Dr. and Mrs. E. B. Mumford, 34 West Forty-second street, have gone to Louisville, Ky., for the Fourth of July.

Mrs. J. T. Eastman, 3474 East Fall Creek boulevard, is in New York City for a short stay.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Peters and daughters Marian and Beulah, New York City, arrived in Indianapolis Monday to visit Mr. and Mrs. N. D. Deane, 406 North Gladstone avenue.

Mrs. Otto Hazard, Mrs. Frank Smith and Norman Coltrain, 21 North Oxford street, will motor to Los Angeles, Cal., with Dr. and Mrs. C. A. Porter, Cleveland, O., for a two months' visit.

Why Eat Hot Food When Ice Cream Freezers Are Only $1

With this Polaroid freezer you can prepare the most delicious frozen dainties within five minutes! Heavy galvanized tub with strong cast metal cap. With double action dasher and wood paddles which insure a smooth mixture. Two-quart capacity.

Others From 85c to $10.25

Thermal Jugs, $1.95

Gallon jugs for summer picnics. Keeps drinks either hot or cold.

Vacuum Bottles, $1.95

Convenient one-quart size.

—Ayres—Housewares—seventh floor.

L.S. AYRES & Co