

BANDITS GET $1,000 IN RAIDS DURING NIGHT

Yeggs, Holdup Men Are Busy: Watchman Is Slugged.

Police today were investigating robbery and holdup reports in which bandits and yeggs collected $1,000 Wednesday night.

When Robert Bender, 70, 38 North Hazel avenue, watchman at the banquet ice cream company, 1214-S Southeastern avenue, admitted two young men he thought were customers Wednesday night, he was lugged, bound, and thrown into a jail closet while they cracked the company safe and took $450.

As the yeggs left the building, Bender staggered to his feet and went to the home of Charles McNeerney, 1215 East Washington street, another employee of the company. McNeerney unbound him and called police. After treatment at city hospital Bender was taken to his home.

'Taken for Ride'

Roy Owens, 5111 Hoyt avenue, life insurance company collector, told police today that he was "taken for a ride" Wednesday night by a white man and a Negro who took $88 of his collections, and forced him to drive them near Rushville, Ind., where they got out of the automobile. They overlooked $65, Owens said.

Charles W. Adams, 27, of 2838 Bellefontaine street, attendant at a Sinclair filling station at Forty-ninth street and College avenue, looked up from filling a gasoline can Wednesday night into the muzzle of a revolver held by his customer. Adams grabbed at the gun and the bandit fled.

Three other attendants were less fortunate. They were A. J. Besenbach, 30, of 1910 South Delaware street, attendant at a Great Western Oil Refining Company station, Fall Creek boulevard and Illinois street, robbed of $70; Earl Thayer, 510 Pleasant Run boulevard, attendant at a Standard Oil station, Emerson avenue and Brookville road, from whom $12 was taken; and Lloyd Taylor, 148 Dewey avenue, attendant at a Standard Oil station at East Washington street and Hawthorn lane, robbed of $35.

A pickpocket took $50 from the pockets of C. F. Jenkins, Crawfordsville, Ind., in the Union Traction terminal station Wednesday, he reported to police.

Car Searched on Road

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Dyer, Columbus, O., were stopped near Monroe, Ind., en route to Denver, Colo., Wednesday, by two men in a sedan bearing an Indianapolis dealer's license plate, and their car was searched, they told police. The men, whom police believe were hijackers, claimed they were deputy sheriffs.

When Carl Barr, Fairview, W. Va., was arrested almost a month ago on a charge of failure to stop after an automobile accident, he left a trunk with clothing in his machine when police stored it in a garage. Wednesday he was released from city prison here and found $100 of clothing missing from the trunk.

Robberies reported to police were: Ring, valued at $115, from Ernest Owens, 409 Muskingum street; silverware, linens and clothing valued at $70, from Barney Ustunov, 4636 College avenue, and a quantity of fireworks from a store at 8 West Twenty-second street.

HOLDUP NETS $44 AT FILLING STATION

Attempt at Same Hour at Noblesville by Drunken Man.

NOBLESVILLE, Ind., July 4.—An unmasked bandit, apparently about 35, held up the filling station of the Standard Oil Company here Wednesday night and after taking $44 from Ted Michalski, the attendant, escaped in an automobile.

About the same hour a stranger walked into the filling station of Byers & McConnell while John Burris, an attendant, was counting the day's receipts.

"Never mind about counting that money, but just give it all to me," the stranger said to Burris, as he seized him by the collar. Burris struck the man several blows in the face and the stranger retaliated, jerked away and ran from the place. Later he was captured and found to be intoxicated. He had no weapon of any kind. He gave the name of Samuel Hill, of Tipton. He was fined a small sum by Mayor Joseph for being drunk.

Chase Man From Home to House Where Brew Is Found.

Anthony Delatore, 2017 Shelby street, was under arrest today charged with operating a blind tiger and sale of liquor. When Police Sergeant John Eisenhut and federal agents went to his home at 2017 Shelby street with search warrants Wednesday night, Delatore ran out the back way, it is said.

Officers followed him to 2023 Shelby street, where they arrested him and said they found 111 quarts of home brew and thirty-two gallons brewing.

Jewels Add Luster to Beautiful Lupe Velez

IN this day of standardization when even feminine fashions demand that every woman be a copy of every other woman, the attainment of individuality is at times difficult.

Since fashion decrees that street dresses shall be short and evening dresses long; that hair, whether long or short, shall be arranged close and sleek, and that hats be close-fitting and of standard shapes, one's only hope in achieving distinction lies in a skillful use of ornaments—the "extras" of the costume which form the keynote of individuality.

"Jewelry, perfume, unusual shades of rouge and lipstick, distinctive eye make-up, the use of fans and handkerchiefs all add personality to one's appearance," says Lupe Velez, whose fiery temperament is complemented by her wise choice of accessories.

"I think a woman should select as she selects the color or style of her gown. Antique jewelry is charming on some women while others can wear heavy, modernistic bangles. But whatever her type, any woman can accent her costume with the right necklace, brooch or bracelet.

"One woman I know always wears a cluster of real flowers at her waist or shoulder, no matter what her costume is, whether sport, sports or formal evening. 'Sometimes she wears roses, at other times nasturtiums, orchids, verbenas or poppies, but the effect of all was one day when she wore a dark blue sports frock and at the shoulder was pinned three little red ornamental peppers with a green leaf.

"Fans and gay handkerchiefs are charming accessories, particularly if handled gracefully. There is an art to carrying either and it may be mastered by a little practice.

"Never had a handkerchief in the hand. Hold it only by one corner or in the middle, with the ends loose."

Sixty-three emergency runs were made, and 9,625 miles of road were patrolled.

MEMORIAL PLANNED FOR THOMAS TAGGART

Members of Citizens Committee to Meet Tuesday With Park Board.

Members of a citizens committee interested in erecting a memorial to the late Thomas Taggart at Riverside park will meet with members of the park board at luncheon Tuesday at the Marrott to discuss the plan.

The committee, headed by George Marrott, appeared before the park board Wednesday and extended the invitation.

They will make a tour of the park, following the luncheon, and discuss the project, which may be in the form of one or more ornamental entrances. Marrott pointed out that when mayor of Indianapolis, Mr. Taggart, made the park possible, despite criticism. This was a display of unusual foresight, for the park has since become one of the show places of the city, he said.

The board asked further investigation of the proposal to purchase the 452-acre Fletcher estate, north-east of the city.

TWO GET LIMIT TERMS

Bandits at Richmond Each Sentenced to 25 Years in Prison.

By Times Special

RICHMOND, Ind., July 3.—Charles Smith and Wilbur Cravens, two of three men captured by police here after a gun battle Friday, today were sentenced to twenty-five years each in the Indiana state prison.

Robert Carman, the third man, will be tried Friday morning. All three entered pleas of not guilty to an auto banditry charge when arraigned Saturday, but the two sentenced withdrew the pleas and admitted guilt.

Carman said he would stay by his original plea. The sentences given Smith and Cravens were pronounced by Judge G. H. Hoelsche of Wayne circuit court and were the maximum penalty permitted by law.

MACHINE AGE CUTS ARMY OF HARVEST HANDS

Number of Workers Now Third That of Days Before Combine.

By United Press

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 4.—The machine age has eliminated two-thirds of the colorful army of workers that every year invades the wheat fields of the west in battered flippers, but has resulted in a higher type and more skilled workers to reap the golden grain that feeds the nation.

Before the advent of combines—a machine which reaps, thrashes and sacks wheat in one operation—as many as 50,000 workers followed binders and headers through Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska and the Dakotas to finish their annual labors in the famous Red River valley of Minnesota.

Bronzed Workers Gather

This year perhaps 15,000 bronzed workers are now gathering the harvest in Kansas, about one man to a section of land in the 10,000,000 acres of wheat the state is gleaming from the bounty of nature.

From Kansas the peacetime army moves into Nebraska, a farm or county at a time.

In years gone by the legions of harvesters were recruited largely from the ranks of unemployed that inhabit the north end "dop houses" of Kansas City and went to the vast fields of grain in box cars and bivouacked under railroad trestles in the "jungles" of hobland.

Robbery, sluggings and even murder were not infrequent when the itinerant workers received their pay for toiling ten hours under a broiling sun in the dust of a header barge.

Hobos are Eliminated

Advanced machinery, however, almost has eliminated the box car worker, who spent his winter in cities. Agricultural workers from the south—Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi and Kentucky—have taken the place of the casual worker.

Wheat farmers found the southerners strong, willing and, what is more important, immune to the heat.

A surplus of labor in the southern states first drove the workers to the harvest. Now they like it and follow the clicking combine like a trouper follows the big top.

SHUMAKER OPERATION STILL IS POSSIBILITY

Wife Says Continued Ill Health Delays Use of Knife.

Continued ill health and advice of his personal physician is the reason for the postponement of the proposed operation on the Rev. E. S. Shumaker, superintendent of the Indiana Anti-Saloon League, Mrs. Shumaker said today.

Dr. Shumaker has been a patient at a Battle Creek (Mich.) sanatorium for several weeks. Dispatches from that city Wednesday said that he was better and would not undergo the operation.

Mrs. Shumaker declared the report that his improvement was the cause for postponing the operation is erroneous.

COURT ORDER MAY BE ASKED ON DOG BETS

'Investment System' Fails to Start Wednesday as Announced.

Chances of investment betting at the Indiana Kennel Club, Ltd., dog racing track on the Allisonville road appeared to hinge today on the promoters' ability to obtain an injunction preventing interference by the police and sheriff's forces.

Predictions that the "investment system" of betting would start Wednesday night drew a crowd of about one thousand persons, who learned that inauguration of the system had been "deferred."

It was reported at the track that unavailing efforts had been made to obtain an injunction to prevent Police Chief Claude M. Worley and Sheriff George L. Winkler from interfering with the program.

May Seek Court Order

This idea has not been dropped by the promoters, who were to meet today as a "ways and means" committee to determine what action will be taken. The group may attempt to obtain a court order Friday, it was said.

Both Winkler and Worley showed up at the track Wednesday night before the first group of dogs kicked up the cinders in their pursuit of the elusive electric rabbit.

If the races had started at 8 p. m., as scheduled, instead of half an hour late, things might have been different.

Police, Sheriffs on Guard

Six deputy sheriffs and six uniformed police accompanied the law enforcement officials and took positions at the "investment system booths."

But the presence of police and deputy sheriffs did not prevent many spectators from gathering in groups and putting wagers on their personal selections.

Many fans took time between races to tear up identified strips of paper which were drawn from hats and which brought fair remuneration to the winners.

Art or Madness? Works of Lunatics Displayed

Scarcely distinguishable from the work of the most radical modern artists were some of the paintings in a Paris exhibition of the work of insane persons. The painting reproduced above, representing St. George on a white charger, received much attention from artists, who admired its design.

Novel Exhibition Attracts Great Attention in Paris.

PARIS, July 4.—Art or madness? Few of the visitors to the Max Bine gallery here were able to tell when they looked around the walls.

Many of the pictures were scarcely distinguishable from the most imaginative work of present-day artists, while others showed such removal from the ordinary laws of composition as to belong in a class by themselves.

It was an exhibition of the works of lunatics, inmates of various insane asylums.

Some of the exhibitors are classed as only mildly insane, while others at times reach the violent stage and have to be put in strait-jackets.

Their art is a pastime with them, and their mental state is not due to their art.

It was one of the most extraordinary exhibitions ever held here. It was called "Artistic manifestations of the brain-sick," and was organized by Dr. A. Marie, alien-ist, the Marquis de Ludre-Frolois and M. Bine.

Artists and art lovers took a keen interest in studying the works.

One of the most fascinating works of art, as shown by the catalogue, was withdrawn from the exhibition at the last moment.

It was an imaginative work of a three-toed mammal in a primeval forest swarming with life. Under the drawing the artist, now sane and holding an important position in public life, had written: "Where was I?—On what planet?"
