

WORLD LEAGUE MAY SPONSOR NAVAL PARLEY

Anglo-U. S. Conversations
Merely Preliminaries,
Say British Reports.

By United Press
LONDON, July 12.—Discussions between Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald and Charles G. Daves, United States ambassador, regarding an Anglo-American naval agreement have taken a turn which pointed today towards an international attempt to solve naval problems, sponsored by the League of Nations.

The Anglo-American agreement, which was presaged by Daves' trip to Forres, Scotland, and his conference with MacDonald shortly after arriving here last month, faded in importance as the whole matter became more inclusive in its scope.

The international flavor was given naval disarmament when Daves and a high British authority issued statements almost simultaneously, but not intentionally so, which, frankly suggested that the MacDonald-Daves conversations merely were an interlude in the disarmament work conducted by the League of Nations during the past ten years.

Daves' statement, issued at his weekly conference with newspaper correspondents Thursday, said that the preparatory disarmament commission of the league adjourned last May to give time for discussions between governments regarding naval problems.

"These exchanges at present are progressing," the statement said.

The statement from an authority in the British government said that the Anglo-American conversations were preliminary to calling in the three other naval powers—France, Italy and Japan—after which the work would be handed over to the preparatory disarmament commission.

AUTOS TRIMMED WITH MACHINE GUNS ILLEGAL

Gangsters Convicted on Charge of Carrying "Concealed" Arms.

By United Press
PHILADELPHIA, July 12.—Automobiles trimmed with machine guns and sawed-off shotguns were declared illegal in a decision handed down in Judge MacNell's quarter sessions court today.

Despite their unique defense, William and Leo Lanzetti, well known gangsters and racketeers, were convicted on charges of carrying concealed deadly weapons and pointed for a quick meeting with Al Capone, who is summing in a local jail.

Counsel for the Lanzetti brothers contended that the state law insists that a gun must be concealed on a person when arrested, whereas the Lanzetti guns, if any, were in plain sight.

The jury returned a verdict as soon as they could stop laughing.
