

FAMED ROUNDUP WILL ATTRACT SADDLE STARS

Best Riders of West to Display Their Skill at Pendleton, Ore.

BY WILLIAM TURNBOW
United Press Staff Correspondent

PENDELTON, Ore., Sept. 10.—One of the greatest and most colorful dramas of the west, the Pendleton Roundup, will be presented here Sept. 18, 19, 20 and 21.

The roundup, with its Indians, attired in native dress, cowboys, steers, wild horses, bronco busters, bulldoggers and what not, serves as a monument in pageantry to the gallantry of the pioneers who made possible the winning of the west.

During the evenings of the roundup a pageant, depicting the coming of the white man to the west, called the Happy Canyon show, will be presented. More than five hundred Indians, full-blooded members of Northwest tribes, will participate.

Use Native Dress

The old warriors will wear long flowing head dress, the squaws will don robes, some of which are literally covered with elk teeth.

After the pageant, Happy Canyon will take the appearance of an old frontier town, the crowds assembling in an old western dance hall, where numerous gambling games of the old west are provided.

Some fifty steers, purchased down by the Rio Grande, are grazing on a ranch near here, waiting for the opening of the show. They are wary and full of vigor and will show the cowboys, who will take them into the arena, for bulldogging and roping, plenty of action.

Buckers Are Provided

In an adjacent pasture are some thirty or forty bucking horses, taking life easy, for within a few days they will be drawn into the arena for the bucking contests.

They'll call some of them by name. Among them are Bill McCaugh, Cal Coolidge, Winnemucca, Rawlings Gray, Satan, Tom Thumb and Big Munn.

Such figures as Charles Irwin and Eddie McCarty, known over the rodeo world, will be seen at the roundup. They will bring with them crack riders, ropers, bulldoggers and relay riders.

Rodeo Stars to Perform

Bob Crosby, three-time champion cowboy of the world and winner of the Theodore Roosevelt trophy; Hugh and Mabel Strickland, Dona Cowen, Norman Cowan, Mike Hastings, Mike Shelton, Rulon Slaughter and others, all stars of the rodeo world, will be present.

More than 1,500 Indians, members of the Walla Walla, Cayuse, Umatilla, Nez Perce, Bannock and Yakima tribes, will pitch their tepees near the roundup grounds in a few days.

SCHOOL BOY AT FATHER'S SIDE KILLED BY AUTO

Jimmie Moore, 6, Dies Under Bus Wheels on Trip to Get Crayons.

Automobile traffic, ever a menace to school children, waited less than a day to exact its toll as 60,000 Indianapolis children returned to their classes and textbooks.

It snatched the life of 6-year-old Jimmie Moore, Jr. Berwick, carried him across Washington street at Tibbs avenue early Monday night.

An Indianapolis Street Railway Company bus, which stopped at the intersection to discharge passengers, started suddenly forward at Moore walked in front of it, police were told.

A rear wheel passed over the child, breaking his neck. A front wheel crushed the father's foot.

The boy and his father were returning from a neighborhood store where the father had purchased the crayons and books the boy's teacher told him to bring to school today.

Kenneth Sett, 23, of 1060 West Thirty-second street, bus driver, told police his vision was obscured by mist on the windshield. He was held on manslaughter charges.

John P. Donnelly of Technical high school commercial department will teach classes in speed writing, typing, business English, spelling and penmanship at the Y. M. C. A. night school, which opens Sept. 13.

TRAPPED HIKERS RESCUED WITH AID OF PLANE

Marooned for 24 Hours on Narrow Ledge on Mt. Shasta.

By United Press
MCLOUD, Cal., Sept. 10.—Trapped for twenty-four hours on a narrow ledge on the treacherous slopes of Mt. Shasta, a hiking party of two men and three women was rescued today by a party of fifty lumbermen, directed by an airplane scout.

The hikers were Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Bedwell, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Bryson and Miss Rhoda Henry. They had set out Saturday to climb the peak. The group separated Monday, the women becoming lost.

Bedwell, acquainted with the mountain, through various trips for selected woods which he used in making violins, found the women on a narrow ledge, but when the party was united they found themselves lost again and in too dangerous a position to attempt to find their way out unaided.

Bedwell had left notes when the party separated and it was through his notes that a searching party first located their trail. John Willebanks sighted the party from an airplane, returned and dropped food and then directed the men on the ground to the ledge.

The rescue was carried out in the darkness. Lanterns and torches guided the lumbermen. Locating the party, the lumbermen secured them with rope lines and led them to safety.

All were near exhaustion.

Bedwell explained that the three women had slipped down to the ledge and that after he and Bryson had slid down to help them, they found they were unable to get back up without aid.

The five returned to their homes suffering only fatigue and nervous strain.
