

CITY MANAGER BAN TO BRING CANDIDATE RUSH

Ewbank, Sullivan, Jewett
Probable Lineup for Mayorality Race.

BY BEN STERN
"If" was the big word today in political conversation on the eve of a possible decision by the supreme court on the constitutionality of the city manager law.
"If" the law is found unconstitutional, Indianapolis may have three mayorality candidates in November. These are: Reginald Sullivan, declared Democratic candidate and city manager election commissioner; Louis B. Ewbank, former supreme court judge, who may be George V. Coffin's choice, and Charles Jewett, former mayor, as the anti-Coffin candidate.
"If" the law is upheld, the city manager ticket will be without opposition from the Democrats and probably face a strong Coffin slate.

No Chance for Winkler
It is practically certain that Coffin will not put forward Sheriff George Winkler as the mayorality candidate. Although Winkler's name was placed at the head of the ticket when Democrats and Republicans filed slates in the spring in order to protect themselves if the city manager law should be "thumbed down," Coffin probably used him as a stalking horse while he selected a stronger candidate.

Ewbank is a logical choice, it is pointed out. The former supreme court judge pleaded the statute of limitations for Coffin when he was tried with former Governor Ed Jackson and Robert L. Marsh for offering a bribe to former Governor Warren McCray.

He presided over the city convention last May, when ouster attempts were halted and Coffin again was elected city chairman. Ewbank has long associated with the "boss."

Standing Excellent
Coffin has promised he will nominate a mayor "who will have an excellent standing in the community." Ewbank is a logical choice. Winkler is a good vote-getter, but he is tarred too heavily with the Coffin brush, it was said.

Jewett protests that he will not be a candidate, and if the city manager law is upheld he will work to elect a ticket which will assure the city "excellent government." But if the law is thrown out, his dislike for Coffin and Coffin politics may prevail upon the former mayor to make the race. He is a strong candidate potentially because of his large anti-Coffin following.

Sullivan will remain in the race, according to E. Kirk McKinney, Democratic city chairman.

Sees Chance to Win

"If Coffin and Jewett oppose each other, we will have an excellent opportunity to win," McKinney said. "Although there is much pressure brought to bear upon me to name a city manager slate, I feel that if the Democrats do so, they will divide the vote so that a Coffin ticket will edge in," he said.
Coffin, it is said, has announced that he will not name a city manager slate, but will back any state Republican business men put in the field.

At the same time, there are persistent rumors that E. M. Holmes, attorney long linked with Coffin, is considering filing for city commissioner.

NEW YORK AT POLLS AFTER BITTER BATTLE

Start of Primary Voting Is Marked by Many Factional Fights.

By United Press
NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Factional fights among both Democrats and Republicans gave promise of bitterly-contested battles as voters went to the polls in today's city primary elections.

While the contest between Representative Fiorella H. La Guardia, regular Republican, and William M. Bennett, avowed dry, for the Republican nomination for mayor, interested New York as a whole, political excitement centered in Queens, where the fight for borough office nominations had reached marked intensity.

Bennett's prediction he would win by about 30,000 majority caused little concern in La Guardia's ranks. The congressman's supporters went ahead with plans for the formal notification of the nomination as though he had won the primary.

In Queens there are sixty Democratic and Republican candidates for twenty-four nominations. The five candidates for borough president are George U. Harvey, present incumbent, and former State Senator John L. Karle, Republican, and County Clerk Edward W. Cox, State Representative William F. Brunner and former borough President Bernard M. Patten, Democrats.

M'NAB MAY GET JOB LEFT BY WILLEBRANDT

California Friend of Hoover May Be Dry Prosecutor.

By Scripps-Howard Newspaper Alliance
WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—John L. McNab, San Francisco attorney, who nominated Herbert Hoover for the presidency at Kansas City, may be appointed assistant attorney general to fill the post vacated by Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt.

The department of justice, it has been learned, recently sent inquiries to a number of California judges as to McNab's record in prohibition cases. If answers have been received, nothing has leaked out as to their nature.

McNab has a large practice in San Francisco and occupies a prominent position there. In the past he has said he did not wish public office. He is, however, a close friend of President Hoover and might consent to take the difficult position if he were asked on personal grounds, it is believed.

$900 STOLEN IN JAIL

Search of Prisoners Fruitless in Recovering Roll.

By United Press
ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., Sept. 17.—Mike Russell, 30, Wheeling, W. Va., in jail here charged with interfering with an officer, learned that the hoosegow is no place to carry money—at least not $900 in bills.

When jailed Russell neglected to turn over his valuables to jailor McConaughy. After spending a half hour at the mercy of "bull pen" prisoners, he announced that his roll, consisting of one $500 bill and four $100 bills, had disappeared. Search of the seventy prisoners, and the bed clothing in the "bull pen" brought no trace of the money.

WATER FRONT BLAZE TAKES $500,000 TOLL

Fire Threatens Maine City for Five Hours; Nine Are Overcome.

By United Press
PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 17.—A $500,000 water front fire which for five hours threatened the business section of Portland, was under control early today, and city and state officials began an investigation to determine whether a careless smoker was responsible.

Nine persons, including seven firemen, were overcome and thirty-eight crew members of the collier Plymouth of Boston jumped into the water to escape the flames. A pall of smoke hung over the city, and at times all of Portland was in darkness as power was cut off.

Originating beneath the Portland Terminal Company's wharf late Monday, the blaze scorched the Plymouth and the four-masted schooner Elizabeth Bandi, unloading coal and lumber, respectively. The Plymouth loss was set at $50,000.

The fire spread to and destroyed several coal pockets of the Boston & Maine central railroad, containing 75,000 tons of coal. A sulphur warehouse, containing 23,000 tons of crude brimstone, was next to go, and the fumes from the sulphur drove firemen back.

Blazing embers carried by a strong wind set fire to the roofs of houses for more than a quarter mile from the docks, causing considerable damage.

Firemen from cities within a radius of thirty miles aided Portland's department in fighting the flames, which for a time threatened railroad freight sheds, containing many thousands of dollars in merchandise.

UP ONE DAY AND DOWN THE NEXT

Texas Lady Says Pains Stopped Coming After She Had Taken Cardui.

"I was run-down and nervous, and for several months my health had not been good," says Mrs. Louis Wieland, of Terrell, Texas. "I was up one day and down the next. I never felt like doing anything. 'I worried all the time, and could not sleep well at night. 'Periodically I would suffer from pains in my back and sides. I would have awful headaches, and would feel dull and dizzy. 'My sister had taken Cardui, and she persuaded me to try it. She said to me one day: 'If you will only try it, you will see for yourself how much good it will do you. So I got a bottle of Cardui and began to take it. It was not long until I felt fine. I got stronger, and my nerves did not bother me any more. 'The pains stopped coming in my back and I could do my work without any trouble. I think Cardui is a fine medicine."

Cardui is a reconstructive tonic, extracted from herbs of long-known medicinal value. Get a bottle, today.
