

BRIAND MAY BE PREMIER AGAIN, DESPITE DEFEAT

France's Political Wizard Expected to Be Given Leadership.

BY RALPH HEINZEN
United Press Staff Correspondent
PARIS, Oct. 23.—Although once more ousted from the premiership, Aristide Briand, political wizard of France, appeared today to be the only man capable of forming a government that could conciliate the conflicting party elements, which brought about the fall of his cabinet Tuesday.

Others will be invited to take the helm, particularly those critics of Briand who caused his fall. But not one of these leaders definitely is prepared to assume the responsibility of organizing a cabinet that might function for any length of time.

The present crisis is expected to last from eight to ten days, but when the bitterness of battle will have subsided, Briand, according to all present indications, again will be offered the premiership.

President Gaston Doumergue began conferences today with party leaders in the hope of arriving at a speedy solution of the cabinet crisis. Within a hour after the fall of the government, Doumergue had drafted a list of politically prominent persons with whom he could consult on the organization of a new ministry.

Edouard Daladier, president of the radicals, who have the largest single bloc in parliament, will be invited to form a cabinet, but with the radical congress at Reims scheduled to begin Thursday, Daladier almost is certain to refuse.

Leaders who helped overthrow Briand in Tuesday's battle in the chamber, the Centrist, Louis Marin, and the Radical-Socialist, Jean Montigny, will be summoned to the Elysee to discuss the situation with Doumergue. Neither of these men is expected to offer a solution.

If Briand, who remains temporarily at the head of the government until the new cabinet is formed, again accepts the premiership, he undoubtedly will admit into his new cabinet more members of the Radical and Radical-Socialist parties.

Pool Shows Profit

ANDERSON, Ind., Oct. 23.—A profit of $1,357.91 was earned by the municipal swimming pool at Athletic park this season, a report made to the board of works by Fred G. Webb, superintendent of parks, shows. Receipts for the season just ended are $200 less than for 1928, but this year's report was regarded entirely satisfactory because of the difference in weather conditions. There were only thirty-one good swimming days this year.

Times Safety Movie Goes Over Big This Week on Screen at the Lyric

Children Given Valuable Lesson and Get Fun Out of Filming.

BY WALTER D. HICKMAN

The children of Hollywood haven't anything on the children of Indianapolis when it comes to being movie stars.

The proof of this is the way that The Indianapolis Times Golden Rule Safety Club movie, "Forward Pass," is going over this week at the Lyric.

This entirely Indianapolis-made movie, showing child life in the city, and urging greater safety on the streets for children, is getting a wonderful reception.

Hundreds of Indianapolis parents are seeing their children take part in this movie. About thirty-five school children took leading roles after making tests for the parts in the ballroom of the Lyric.

Hundreds of children took part in the scenes of the football game between the Bearcats and the Panthers at the ball park. The game was so up-to-date that it was broadcast in make-believe.

Many mothers took pride in seeing the initial of Bearcat or Panther on the sweaters of their sons.

As one proud father of one member of the Bearcat team told me the day the scenes were being shot at the ball park, "My son has had one of the happiest days of his life making this movie. He started in at 7 a. m. and now it is nearly 5 and he is still happy and busy. This is a fine thing for the children of the city."

KANSAS WET AS EVER, CHARGES NOTED WRITER

Liquor Laws Are Flouted by Best People, Says Jay House.

By Times Special

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—"Liquor still flows in Topeka. Prohibition never has been enforced in Kansas. It isn't enforced there now."

These are the salient charges made by Jay E. House, twice mayor of Topeka, now a New York and Philadelphia newspaper columnist, in the magazine article whose suppression was urged recently by Governor Clyde M. Reed of Kansas in a telegram to the editor of The North American Review. The article appeared today in the November issue of that monthly together with an editorial note explaining that Governor Reed has been invited to write for the magazine his own views of the dry law enforcement situation in his state.

Liquor in Homes

Mr. House recently caused an official inquiry and ensuing controversy when he stated publicly, after a trip to Kansas, that he had been offered liquor in the majority of homes he visited while in Topeka.

"I take time here to explode the great Kansas myth," he says in The North American Review article. "The myth is the one to the effect that prohibitory laws are enforced in Kansas. It has been reiterated and retold so often that it has come to have a general acceptance, particularly in the urban sections of the country. Prohibition never has been enforced in Kansas. It isn't enforced now. Drinking is as widespread and general there as it is throughout the rest of the country."

Relates Experiences

The greater part of Mr. House's article is devoted to his own experience in attempting to enforce prohibition as mayor of Topeka from 1915 to 1919 under the Kansas state dry laws. Although not a believer in the efficacy of prohibitory laws, he declares that he "set up what was, perhaps, the most dogged and persistent local attempt to enforce prohibition ever made in this country," removing obstructionists police officers, conducting incessant raids and aiming at the important figures rather than the small dealers in the Topeka liquor traffic.

"Every year we made hundreds of arrests and obtained hundreds of convictions," he says. "We put bootleggers in jail by the dozen. We put them to tremendous expense and an enormous amount of inconvenience. I think I left office with the reputation of having done the most effective work in behalf of prohibition the town had known. Everybody knows I tried; a great many still believe I succeeded. I know better. Nothing I did or tried to do amounted to shucks."
