

FARM-MARKET ROAD RELATION WILL BE TOPIC

Asphalt Conference to Open Monday at West Baden Springs.

WEST BADEN SPRINGS, Ind., Oct. 26.—Farm organization officials and others nationally prominent in advancing farm relief, as well as officials speaking for the motoring public, will be in session here five days beginning Monday, with road-building officials, engineers and contractors, to devise plans for speeding up improvement of the nation's highway system as a measure of farm relief and the alleviation of traffic congestion on trunk line highways near great centers of population. Paving of the farm-to-market roads with low cost surfaces will be the keynote of the conference.

The meeting, known as the eighth annual asphalt paving conference, will be held under the auspices of the Asphalt Association, New York, and the American Association of Asphalt Paving Technologists. The latter is composed of engineers, chemists and other asphalt technical men largely in the employ of states, cities and counties in the United States and Canada.

Among the speakers at the conference will be Governor Harry G. Leslie or his representative; Samuel H. Thompson, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation; R. W. Crum, Washington, D. C., director Highway Advisory Board, National Research Council; John J. Brown, director, Indiana highway commission, and A. H. Hinkle, maintenance engineer for the commission. Numerous government, state and county highway officials of the United States and Canada will discuss the latest methods evolved for construction of low-cost, dustless, mudless pavements on the secondary, tributary and farm-to-market highways. Leaders in the automobile industry and officials of national automobile associations will discuss plans for paving back-country roads so as to relieve traffic congestion on the main highways, especially on holidays and weekends.

Farm organization officials declare bad condition of farm service roads, which the majority of farmers must use in getting to and from their farms to paved highways, has become a serious matter. By discounting the value of the highways connecting the cities, farm organizations feel it is high time an effective movement were started for paving these roads.

While the farmers of the United States are paying 7 per cent of the taxes for state and local highways, less than 3 per cent of the farms are reached by paved roads. Today, approximately 5,000,000 farmers are still living on poor roads and there are still, in the United States, 2,484,822 miles of unimproved highways, it is declared.

Much Highway Unimproved

Of the 3,959,000 miles of highways in the country, only 187,000 miles have high-type surfaces such as asphalt, brick and concrete. Economists declare that if all the 24,000,000 automobiles in service today one time, each car would have only 13.7 years in which to operate. The 40,000 miles of new roads annually constructed are not much more than sufficient to provide parking space for the annual increase in new cars and trucks.

Paving and landing-field treatment with asphalt at airports will be discussed by airport engineers and aviation officials, led by Chief Engineer R. H. Simpson, who directed the paving at Port Columbus, O., said to possess the highest type of the runways and landing fields.

An entertainment program will include a special "county fair" evening, banquet, dance, bridge-tournament, golf and automobile tour on the final day. Automobile tours and airplane flights are planned. Governors and state highway engineers, farm and motor association officials are expected to attend to the number of two thousand or more.

Several delegates will fly to the meeting from Chicago and New York, and points in Texas, by airplane, the planes used being the property of the individuals themselves or of companies with which they are connected.

Just Another 'Dry' Case

ANDERSON, Ind., Oct. 26.—Glendon Layton has filed suit in Madison circuit court against Charles Dearwester, well driller, to recover $91.40 advanced to Dearwester while he was engaged in drilling on a lot owned by Layton. The complaint alleges the two men entered into an oral agreement by which Dearwester was to be paid at the rate of $1.25 a foot if he located water and nothing if he failed. The defendant was unsuccessful in his attempt to find water and abandoned operations owing Layton, the plaintiff asserts.

Rensselaer Bank Robber Defendant to Face Trial on Nov. 4.

KENTLAND, Ind., Oct. 26.—Henry T. Davidson, charged with complicity in the robbery of the State bank of Rensselaer, Sept. 7, 1928, is preparing for another bout with the law—his trial in Newton circuit court here, which is scheduled to open Monday, Nov. 4.

After one of the most bitter extradition contests in Indiana's history, Davidson was returned from Oklahoma to Rensselaer several months ago. A change of venue was taken to the court here from Jasper circuit court at Rensselaer, and bond set at $15,000. During most of the time since being returned to Indiana, Davidson has been held at his present place of confinement, the Lake county jail at Crown Point. It was deemed safer than the jail here, as authorities feared there might be an effort to free the prisoner by persons alleged to have taken part in the bank robbery.

Arrested in Oklahoma on a tip provided by a man who said he disposed of bonds taken from the bank at the direction of Davidson, the accused man tried in almost every way to prevent return to Indiana for trial. However, Jasper county authorities, aided by an assistant in the office of Oklahoma's attorney-general, finally defeated him and he waived his right to carry his case to the Oklahoma court of appeals after he lost in a habeas corpus proceeding.

Jesse Schlarbaum, Chicago, alleged to have had some of the stolen bonds in his possession, has escaped clutches of the law at least temporarily. Arrested in Chicago, he provided $5,000 bond and fled. The bond was forfeited. No trace of Schlarbaum has been found since.

A third defendant, John A. Dunlap, convicted in the court here, has filed a motion for a new trial on which a ruling is likely within ten days.

MORAL SIDE OF ABOLISHING WAR GIVEN EMPHASIS

Philosophy Instructor at Notre Dame Writes New Book.

NOTRE DAME, Ind., Oct. 26.—Moral responsibility among nations must be the basis of world peace, according to Dr. William Francis Roemer, Ph. D., a teacher of philosophy at the University of Notre Dame, in his new book, "The Ethical Basis of International Law."

Dr. Roemer in the book has undertaken to discover the "soul of international law" which undoubtedly exists despite the fact that international treaties and agreements alone seem to limit the horizon of modern statesmen.

In his resurrection of the "soul of international law" Dr. Roemer discusses need for neo-scholastic philosophy to revive an interest in the rediscovery of man's human soul for the enlightenment of those modern psychologists who deny man's spiritual nature.

While the latter school of "behaviorists" prefer to profess an inability on the part of man's intelligence to penetrate beneath the surface of human behavior, scholastic philosophy retains its medieval conviction that every man really possesses an immortal soul, Dr. Roemer declares.

Going back to the Roman law, the canon law, and the early medieval codes in his study of the sources of international law, Dr. Roemer finds that since the treaty of Westphalia in 1628 it has become the fashion to obscure the conception of natural law with respect to relations between nations.

The book will be used in an elective philosophy course next year, dealing with international relations and their ethical basis. Dr. Roemer has received requests for copies of his work from nearly every university in the country, from the department of state and the World Court Library in Geneva. The author is chairman of the historical committee of the Catholic Association for International Peace, and a number of the executive council of the American Catholic Association.

DOCTOR, 73, TO FACE TRIAL IN DEATH OF BOY

Grand Jury Indicts for First Degree Murder at Kokomo.

KOKOMO, Ind., Oct. 26.—Dr. Josiah J. Shrock, 73, Greentown physician, faces a first degree murder charge as a result of the shooting of Darwin Curless, 11, at Greentown the night of Oct. 9. The boy died in a hospital here two days later. His body was riddled with shot.

Following return of the murder indictment here by the Hamilton county grand jury, Prosecutor Hills said he desired a trial as early as possible, and expressed a belief that the case may be handled during November.

In a death bed statement, the boy said he was not one of a group which had been throwing stones up a stairway leading to the doctor's office, but merely looked up the stairway, when a shotgun was fired. Dr. Shrock has admitted firing, declaring he intended "to hurt him just a little and had shot at the boy's feet." The aged doctor, a prisoner in the county jail here, remarked on being told the boy died: "Well, now, that's too bad."

The accused man is already under a suspended prison sentence of two to fourteen years, imposed in Howard circuit court, when he was charged about one year ago on a charge of performing an illegal operation on a 17-year-old girl. His advanced age saved him from serving the term.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 26.—Pansy Funk, 20-year-old La Paz girl, is on trial before a jury in St. Joseph circuit court here charged with the slaying of her married lover, Jesse Mater, father of two children.

Mater was shot down on a street near his home in the summer. The girl has never denied the slaying, declaring she acted because Mater turned her out of the house and out of his affections for another woman.

A technical plea of not guilty has been entered by the defense, which alleges temporary insanity. It is contended in the girl's behalf that she was crazed because Mater spurned her and by the fact that she is to become a mother.

After killing her lover, the girl turned a revolver on herself, and fired once, suffering a slight wound.

ELECTION BODY GETS INTO ROW

Use of Machines Starts Anderson Dispute.

ANDERSON, Ind., Oct. 26.—Interest in the Anderson city election is now centered on a controversy among members of the board of election commissioners.

Trouble started when Harry Bartlow, Democratic member of the board, requested two voting machines in the large precincts.

Sherman Harlan, Republican member, opposed the move, saying the heaviest vote in the history of the city was cast in the general election last November with one machine to a precinct and without one complaint being made of a voter being denied the right of suffrage because of congestion at polling places.

Ray Hall, third member of the board and a candidate for re-election as city clerk, has not expressed an opinion.

Harlan said the first year voting machines were used in Madison county two were set up in one precinct and resulted in confusion. Counters on the two machines showed more votes were cast than could be accounted for by the election clerks, Harlan asserted.

GRAVEL DEAL OFF

State Health Board Halts Brazil Plan.

BRAZIL, Ind., Oct. 26.—The city of Brazil has dropped its plan to go into the gravel business, due to disapproval by the state board of health.

It had been proposed that the city be paid on a royalty basis for gravel taken from a municipally owned tract at the water works plant, the City Sand and Gravel Company being the other party.

The state board in opposing the plan said the gravel acted as a filter for the city's water supply and removal would likely lead to pollution.

Witnesses said Brown stopped the car on approaching the tracks and that Scott, keeping time with a foot to the rhythm of a harmonica he was playing, accidentally pushed down the accelerator and sent the automobile forward on to the track. Vennett was eligible for retirement eight years ago, but wishes to continue his duties in mail cars for the Pennsylvania railroad so much that he was granted an extension. On the expiration of his first extension he applied successfully for three more.

Tragedy's End

Divorce Case to Be Finale to Slaying of Social Worker.

HAMMOND, Ind., Oct. 26.—When the divorce case of Mrs. Harriet Simpkins against Fred Simpkins is concluded in Judge V. S. Rister's court here Thursday, the final chapter in a tragedy which cost the life of Mrs. Lucille Meyers, social welfare worker, will have been written.

Simpkins, father of six children, shot Mrs. Meyers down when she called at his home in March, 1925, to seek reasons for the absence from school of the children. He fled and no definite trace of him has ever been found. The wife and mother had asked Mrs. Meyers to call, but at the time was a patient in a hospital.

Rumors have reached the wife that Simpkins committed suicide in Delaware and also that he had gone abroad.

An ironical angle developed in the tragedy when the Community Chest, in the same field of work as the slaying victim, provided a comfortable home for the mother, the oldest of whom is now 13.
