

SCHOOL FUND TRANSFER MAY BE PROTESTED

C. of C. to Fight Alleged Move to Take Care of Illegal Deal.

Proposed appropriation of $34,915 by the school board from the special fund to the Shortridge high school building fund, to legalize alleged illegal transfer of the money without an appropriation several months ago, may be protested to the state tax board by the Chamber of Commerce civic affairs committee, it was learned today.

The sum to be transferred, it is reported, represents an alleged illegal payment to Freyn Brothers, contractors who installed the C. C. Shipp direct-indirect heating and ventilating system in the school.

C. C. York, school business director, has set public hearing on the appropriation for Nov. 12.

More Paid Out

In connection with the alleged illegal transaction, William H. Book, chamber civic affairs director, pointed out that, according to figures of Frank L. Reissner, school secretary, a total of $1,304,355 has been paid out for the new Shortridge building, whereas the bond issue for the building was only $1,200,000.

It was asserted that a large part of the $1,304,355 above the bond issue may have been paid out of the special fund in the same alleged illegal manner.

Sterling R. Holt, city controller, has notified school officials that he will not honor any more school vouchers without evidence of a formal transfer having been made.

Of the $1,304,355 expended thus far for Shortridge, $103,500, or a total of 8.6 per cent, represents architect's fees, Book said.

Voted for Discard

In May, 1926, the school board voted to discard Shortridge plans, costing $43,775, which the previous board had approved and had sought and received construction bids, "because plans called for a $1,200,000 building, whereas it could be constructed with the same number of rooms for $1,000,000."

The original plans, drawn by Kopf & Wooling, now Kopf & Deery, did not contain specifications for the C. C. Shipp direct-indirect heating and ventilating system, and the same firm was employed to prepare new plans specifying this system.

School board members, in commenting on the $34,915 alleged illegal transfer, pointed out it was an oversight resulting from the fact that total bids for the building exceeded proceeds from the bond issue.

Instead of cutting out part of the work, it was decided to authorize contractors to go ahead with the work and pay the difference from the special fund, it was declared.

INDIANA'S GIFTS TO CIVILIZATION CITED

Invention of Auto, Movies, Airplane,
Credited by Ogden.

Hoosier contributions to American civilization were outlined to members of the Altrusa Club at the Columbia Club Friday by Attorney-General James M. Ogden.

Automobiles, movies and airplanes were invented in Indiana he said. The automobile by Elwood Haynes of Kokomo; movies by Francis Jenkins of Richmond, and the airplane by the Wright brothers of Newcastle.

"Indiana university has produced fifty-three college presidents," Ogden asserted. "This is more than any other state."

FLOOR BOARDS STRONG

Woman Motorist Breaks Leg in Pressing on Brakes.

By United Press
KELSO, Wash., Nov. 2.—Mrs. L. L. Albert, Bucoda, Wash., stepped so hard on the brakes of an automobile she was driving that she broke her leg.

The machine, which could not be stopped as it was about to hit a concrete guard rail because of the injury received by Mrs. Albert, careened, struck the railing and caused serious injury to her husband.

Gone, but Not Forgotten

Automobiles reported to police as stolen belong to:

Duke T. Brock, 2958 Paris avenue, Chrysler sedan, 63-859, from Georgia and Meridian street.

Graham Paige Company, 1030 North Meridian street, Graham Paige sedan, M-1080, from Delaware and Pratt streets.

Percy Gipe, Terrace Beach, R. R. 1, 331 B. Buick master sedan, 61-138, from Court and Delaware streets.

Saunders heater Mitchell Company, Terre Haute, Ind., De Soto sedan, 164-944, from Terre Haute, Ind.

Jesse Schmid, 2111 North Pennsylvania street, Ford sedan, 21-559, from Ohio and New Jersey streets.

Stanley Thurnell, R. R. 16, Box 259, Ford sedan, 267-591, from Capitol avenue and Market streets.

BACK HOME AGAIN

Stolen automobiles recovered by police belong to:

Shaner Brothers, 1024 Lewis street, Ford sedan, found at South-eastern avenue and Pennsylvania railroad tracks.

Sam Gillespie, 3535 East Vermont street, Stutz coupe, found at 619 South Delaware street.

Lawrence Eckhardt, Anderson, Ind., Buick sedan, found at Tenth street and Oakland avenue.

Ford coupe, 774-275, found at 1400 Union street.

Alva E. Tuttle, 1043 North Berville avenue, Ford sedan, found at Troy avenue and Meridian street.

Unhampered and Unpledged—

"I accepted this nomination without pledges, promises or commitments. I am not bound by any political faction, group or factor which has a political or social significance. It is thus I shall enter office or not at all. I propose, when elected, to close my business desk and devote my full time to the business of the city."

ALFRED M. GLOSSBRENNER.

IF we fail to make this man our Mayor let's never again talk about a "Business Administration" for Indianapolis

A Work Record of a Civic Leader

Whenever and wherever there is a BIG job to be done for the public good, Indianapolis has a habit of calling on Alfred M. Glossbrenner.

Here are just a few of the tasks for which he has been drafted:

When Liberty Loan subscriptions lagged, it was Glossbrenner who was drafted as the chairman, organized, systematized, breathed new confidence and enthusiasm into the workers, turned failure into an over-subscription.

And again, when Indianapolis wanted the greatest home-coming in history to honor her gallant soldiers, it was Glossbrenner who was drafted to the lead and planned a celebration that will be long remembered.

Mr. Glossbrenner founded the Vocational School of Printing in the Winona Technical Institute at the United States Arsenal Grounds in Indianapolis in 1908 and obtained money for its operation. When the Institute failed, he continued the School of Printing, part of the time at his own expense, and thus held the grant from the Government for use of the grounds for a technical school until money was raised, partly by popular subscription, for the purchase of the grounds by the Indianapolis School City.

Had it not been for the action of Mr. Glossbrenner this magnificent property, now Technical High School, would have been lost to the city.

Mr. Glossbrenner has served with distinction as president of the Indianapolis Board of Trade; as executive committeeman of the Indiana Manufacturers Association; is a member of the board of governors of the Indiana State Chamber of Commerce, and is a guiding influence in business and public affairs.

Starting as a newsboy, Alfred M. Glossbrenner has climbed steadily step by step to the presidency of the Loeber Printing Company, an outstanding Indianapolis institution. Within his industry he has served the United Typothetae of America as a treasurer, as vice-president and as president.

With Mrs. Glossbrenner he has reared a family of three sons, all now associated with him in business. Each was educated in the Indianapolis public schools.

In the forty-seven years that he has lived and worked in Indianapolis, Mr. Glossbrenner has never sat on the side-lines when there was work to be done.

It is this man whom YOU now are privileged to make YOUR mayor—by your vote November 3.

Pledged to Cooperate

REPUBLICAN COUNCILMANIC TICKET

DR. ROY EGBERT, physician, First District

MAURICE E. TENNANT, attorney, Second District

FRED C. GARDNER, business man, Third District

CLIFFORD E. KEANE, contractor, Fourth District

GEORGE A. HENRY, attorney, Fifth District

HARRY C. DENKER, merchant, Sixth District.

FOR CITY CLERK

WAYNE EMMELMAN, secretary, National Amateur Basketball Associations.

The biggest job in Indianapolis has reached out after one of the biggest men in Indiana. Endorsed by business leaders, and urged by a strong sense of Civic duty, Alfred M. Glossbrenner has been drafted a candidate for the office of Mayor of Indianapolis.

Here is an able, independent, fearless man who bears no price tag. His record stands for ALL to read. Struggling from humble beginnings, Glossbrenner has risen to a position of high standing in Indianapolis. He has made name and record right here in Hoosier capital. He knows Indianapolis. Knows its perplexing problems. Knows its glorious possibilities.

Here is the answer to our plea for "a business administration." Alfred M. Glossbrenner has demonstrated his ability to manage men, and to conduct a big business soundly and successfully. Now he accepts an opportunity for greater service—to give that ability to the city government.

Let's look at it this way: If, in the coming election we fail to make Alfred M. Glossbrenner our mayor, is it probable that we can, within the next decade, induce an equally able, intelligent and unhampered business man to risk the ridicule and humiliation of becoming a candidate?

Did we really mean it when we asked for a business administration? Does Indianapolis truly seek an assurance of able government and strictly non-partisan law-enforcement; an insurance against "racketeering" and the kindred ills of lawlessness? The answer will be written in the records on the second Tuesday in November. Vote. Vote early. Cast your vote for unfettered business management—Glossbrenner.

These men, standing for much in this community, were among many who petitioned Mr. Glossbrenner to accept the Republican nomination. Read:

IRVING W. LEMAUX, President Security Trust Company
ORIE J. SMITH, O. J. Smith Realty Company
CHESTER ALBRIGHT, Baird & Albright, Insurance
FRED C. GARDNER, Vice-President E. C. Atkins Company
ELMER STOUT, President Fletcher American National Bank
WILLIAM L. TAYLOR, Attorney
HENRY C. ATKINS, President E. C. Atkins Company
ARTHUR R. BAXTER, Keyless Lock Company
CHARLES B. SOMMERS, D. Sommers & Co.
ROY E. ADAMS, J. D. Adams Manufacturing Company
BLAINE H. MILLER, President Excelsior Laundry Company
WILLIAM C. ATKINS, E. C. Atkins Company
FREDERIC M. AYRES, President L. S. Ayres & Co.
H. P. BURNETT, Burnett-Lewis Lumber Company
EUGENE WHITEHILL, The Banner Furniture Company
NORMAN PERRY, President Indianapolis Power & Light Company
FRANK A. BUTLER, President C. B. Cones & Sons

WALTER C. MARMON, Indianapolis Power & Light Company
GUY WAINWRIGHT, Vice-President Diamond Chain Manufacturing Company
A. M. ROSENTHAL, President E. K. Fischer Company
A. KIEFER MAYER, Vice-President Kiefer-Stewart Company
A. L. BLOCK, President L. Strauss Company
WALTER B. HARDING, G. & J. Tire Company
E. W. HARRIS, Hamilton-Harris Company
O. B. ILES, President International Tool Company
HOMER McKEE, President Homer McKee Company
Q. J. NOBLITT, President Noblitt-Sparks Company
WARREN D. OAKES, President Oakes-Swenson Company
WALTER C. PITTSFORD, President Pittsford Purity Pie Company
GEORGE ROCKWOOD, President Rockwood Manufacturing Company
GUS A. SCHNILL, President Schnill & Co.
HOWARD T. GRIFFITH, President Udell Works
FRANK H. SPARKS, Sparks-Noblitt Company
LOUIS J. BORENSTEIN, President A. Borenstein
J. EDWARD STILZ, Kiefer-Stewart Company
GEORGE FORREY JR., Fletcher-American Company
FRANK G. LAIRD, President F. G. Laird Association
MARSHAL D. LUPTON, President Indianapolis Club Federation

GLOSSBRENNER

The Ideal City Manager

(PAID POLITICAL ADVERTISEMENT)