

SUPREME COURT BUILDING WILL COST $9,740,000

Congress Will Be Asked to Expedite Work on Structure.

BY HERBERT LITTLE
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—One of the first items of business to be placed before the regular session of congress opening Dec. 2, is a project to start work on the supreme court building, planned as one of the most monumental and beautiful government structures in the world.

Chairman Keyes of the senate public buildings committee expects that this work can be started in the spring, now that the property on the two-block site facing the Capitol has been obtained by purchase and condemnation at a cost of nearly $2,000,000. Private buildings on the site must be razed.

Cost to Be Heavy

The first appropriation may be a small one, but the entire great stone building will cost $9,740,000, under the congressional authorization which may be increased later.

Plans, prepared by Cass Gilbert, architect, reveal the building as a massive, Corinthian structure, in harmony architecturally with the Capitol. The exterior design is of the classic type, and embodies carefully studied proportions and simple masses.

The building will have a maximum height of four stories, and the supreme courtroom will be placed in the middle of the rectangular structure. Rooms for the justices, court officials and lawyers, are to be grouped around four great courtyards within the structure.

Huge Law Libraries

The second and third floors will contain huge law libraries, a total of 526,760 volumes being provided for in the plans.

"It is not intended to finish the interior of the building with elaborate and expensive marble work and excessive decoration," Architect Gilbert said in submitting the plan which was accepted, said a recent announcement, "but to rely rather upon fine proportions with a sparing use of appropriate decoration for the monumental effect which is desired."

The building will be strictly fire-proof, and acoustics "must be as perfect as modern science can make them," Gilbert said.

The Twenty-third Psalm

THE Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want. He maketh me to lie down in green pastures: He leadeth me beside the still waters. He restoreth my soul: He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for His name's sake. Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil: for Thou art with me: Thy rod and Thy staff they comfort me. Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies: Thou anointest my head with oil: my cup runneth over. Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life: and I shall dwell in the house of the Lord forever.

EATING LESS EXPENSIVE

Stocks Crash Put Crimp in Buying Caviare, Artichokes.

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—Since the recent stock market crash, more Americans are eating "old-fashioned bread and butter" instead of "caviare and artichokes," Henry Stude, president of the board of governors of the American Bakers' Association, told fellow members at their annual meeting here.

Stude said bakers can tell what people eat these days because housewives have quit cooking and buy everything they eat from the bake shops.
