Operators of Poolroom Pay Fines of $125 Each

Brothers Are Found Guilty on Three Charges in Mint Vendor Case.

Joseph W. and Paul Talbert, poolroom operators at 16 West Maryland street, stood convicted of three gaming charges growing out of a raid recently by police and deputy prosecutors.

Convicted of pool selling and operating a gaming device when tried Thursday, they were convicted of a third charge of keeping a gaming house today by Special Criminal Judge Harvey Grabbil. Grabbil fined each of the defendants $50 and costs on the latter charge.

Fines, one of $25 and costs on the pool selling charge, and another of $50 and costs with a suspended jail sentence of sixty days, were assessed against each of the men at their trial Thursday. Three mint vending machines held as evidence against them were declared by Grabbil to be gaming devices.

Grabbil, however, declined "to make an example of the men" by imposing heavy jail sentences, as urged by Prosecutor Judson L. Stark.

Deputy Prosecutors William R. Ring and George Eggleston, who with Stark have waged against mint machines, testified Thursday they won and lost money when they "played" the machine prior to a police raid.

Several cases involving defendants who are alleged to have operated mint machines for gaming purposes are pending in criminal court.

WOMEN'S CIVIC BODIES MERGE

Mrs. Olsen Heads Newly Elected Officers.

Mrs. Elsa Huebner Olsen, women's organizer of the city manager and citizens school committee movements, today headed a group of women organized as an outgrowth of the two citizen's movements.

Mrs. Olsen is chairman of the women's division of the citizens committee of Indianapolis. Other officers elected Thursday at the Lincoln are: Mrs. Susanna Rossell, vice-chairman, Mrs. J. W. Moore, secretary-treasurer and Miss America Hoagland, chairman of the plans committee.

A men's division of the citizen's group is to be formed. Leaders in the city manager movement and citizens school committee campaigns desire to perpetuate the awakened civic interest and not permit the organization to "go to the four winds," according to Mrs. Olsen.

Another meeting will be held in January to discuss plans. The committee intends to study the Constitution convention movement and co-operate with the city manager leaders in an effort to bring about amendment of the Indiana Constitution to permit the city manager government which was blocked by the state supreme court decision holding the law unconstitutional.
