

PUBLISH LAST WORK OF TIGER IN FEBRUARY

Clemenceau Finished Final
• Corrections Few Hours
Before End.

By United Press
PARIS, Nov. 27.—Georges Clemenceau's last journalistic contribution, a book defending his war leadership, probably will be published late in February.

The Tiger devoted the last weeks of his life to feverish night work completing the book. He made the final corrections only a few hours before he was stricken with colic seizures which resulted in his death early Sunday.

The Kindly Side

By United Press
ST. VINCENT SUR JARD, France, Nov. 27.—With the death of Georges Clemenceau, an impoverished mother, with seven children, in this village has lost the bounty, which helped to provide for her for several years.

Clemenceau, discovering her condition, had ordered that she be provided with two quarts of milk daily and meat twice a week at his expense. Now that he is gone, the contributions have ceased.

The act was a kindly side of the fierce old Tiger's character, which was better known to the villagers of his native Vendee than to his political contemporaries in Paris.

LEVIATHAN IN DOCK AFTER EVENTFUL TRIP

Nab Two Alleged Gem Thieves;
Sailor Washed Overboard to Death.

By United Press
CHERBOURG, Nov. 27.—The liner Leviathan docked here today after an eventful crossing of the Atlantic, which included the arrest of two alleged jewel thieves and the death of a member of the crew, who was washed overboard.

The rough crossing from New York had been made exciting enough for most of the passengers by the tossing of the waves, but more eventful things happened when the liner docked.

Sam Friedman and his daughter, Rose Friedman, were arrested after they had passed customs without declaring $30,000 worth of jewels, which were found hidden in lining of coats. They were placed in prison on a double charge of customs fraud and a jewel robbery in New York, for which their extradition was asked.

The sailor washed overboard was Thomas MacGuirk, 22, of Brooklyn. MacGuirk was washing the bridge and was attached by a rope, but the appliance failed to hold him when a heavy wave swept him over the bridge.

THEFTS CONFINED TO GROCERIES, POULTRY

$205 Worth of Thanksgiving Dinner
Taken in Two Raids on Family.

Thieves who were looking ahead to Thanksgiving dinner seem to have traveled far to collect the required supplies and yet to have confined the loss to one family.

The Louis Kaseff grocery, 803 North Senate avenue, was entered through a rear door in which a glass was broken and $150 worth of groceries were stolen at 3:15 o'clock this morning.

Two hours later, nine geese, seven ducks and ten chickens were stolen from coops in the rear of the home of Manuel Kaseff, 1101 Maple street, father of Louis Kaseff. The poultry was valued at $55.

Club to Dedicate Home

Officers of the Rumanian Progressive Club, whose new home at 636 West Washington street will be dedicated Thursday morning at 11:30, are pictured here.

bra, treasurer; Nick Oltean and Samuel Buhai, vice-presidents.

Open house will be held all afternoon, followed by dinner at 7 p. m.

The Rev. Glicherie Popa, pastor of the Rumanian Christian Orthodox church, will conduct the dedication exercises.

Speakers at the dinner will be Mayor L. E. Slack, Judge James A. Collins, Scott R. Brewer, Dr. V. A. Lapenta, Italian consul; Eben H. Wolcott and Wallace O. Lee.

Alic J. Lupcar will be chairman of the meeting and James M. O'Brien, attorney-general, toastmaster.

The clubhouse is a two-story structure and was built at an approximate cost of $50,000.

A man and woman operating the "bagger" game Tuesday night took $21 and an automobile from Paul Tyner, 32, Greenfield, and caused the arrest of their landlady early today on blind tiger charges.

Tyner was forced to drive to a lonely country road south of the city, where he was bound with ropes, robbed of the money and car and abandoned in a cornfield. He freed himself in two hours, walked a mile to a barbecue stand and telephoned deputy sheriffs.

He said he met the girl in the 400 block West Michigan street, took her to a theater and later went to her home at 315 West New York street for a drink. There the "husband" appeared with a gun, slugged Tyner and then forced him to drive away in his car.

Police visited the rooming house at that address and allege they found a small amount of liquor in the apartment. Mrs. Goldie Bentz, manager of the house, ex-wife of William Stafford, bank bandit, was arrested.

ASKS BID ON SERVICE

Board Announces Changes in Department Personnel.

The city's joint contract with the Market street garage and John Hohl to tow in wrecked automobiles for the police department will expire Dec. 31, Fred W. Connell, safety board president, declared today. The board will ask bids on this service before awarding another contract.

Resignation of Patrolman Peter Laika was accepted by the board Tuesday. Harley R. McKenzie and Henry D. Cornelius, Gamewell department employees, were appointed to the fire department and assigned to the electrical division.

RADIO EQUIPMENT DUE

The new police radio communication system is expected to be completed in about three weeks, according to Ira P. Haymaker, safety board member.

A corps of workmen has been busy for several weeks remodeling the WFBM broadcasting set in the K. of P. building. Receiving sets will be placed on the emergency car and nine patrol cars which cruise throughout the city, Haymaker said.

BURIAL RITES FRIDAY

Funeral Services for Paul Eitelborg to Be at Mortuary.

Funeral services will be held at 10 o'clock Friday morning at the Plummer & Buchanan mortuary for Paul F. Eitelborg, 24, of 713 North Delaware street, who died Tuesday morning. Burial will be at Crown Hill cemetery.

Pallbearers will be Wayne Geisel, Robert Greely, William Wilson, Charles Corum, Charles Hulsman, Hubert Woodsmall Jr., Robert Shumaker, and Allen Moorehead.

BOOZE WAR FATAL

Crusading Indian Preacher Is Killed by Bootleggers.

By United Press
WAGONER, Okla., Nov. 27.—A reign of terror among residents of the Hell's Bend region, near here, which culminated in the murder of Jack Batt, a crusading Indian preacher, had led to arrest of two men today while a posse continued search for a third.

Fred Connelly and J. H. Hadley were held in the Wagoner county jail in connection with the death of the minister, whose body was found in an automobile near the Hadley home. Dave Hadley, son of the man held, still was at large.

Officers here accused the three of bootlegging and said they frequently had gone on wild rampages through the region, intimidating citizens. Batt, a Cherokee, was said to have denounced bitterly Hell's Bend bootleggers.

Raids Boost Liquor Prices

By United Press
JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Nov. 27.—Thanksgiving liquor has jumped from $1.50 to $3 a point following raids by federal prohibition agents here and at Columbia, seat of the state university, which resulted in sixty-three arrests.
