

NEW FABRICS WEAVE SUBTLE CHARM INTO SPRING GARB

Harmony of Hues Marks Costumes

BY HENRI BENDEL

Written for NEA Service

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—Feminine imagination will receive pleasant stimulus in the fabric surprises of the spring season. Many and delightful are the novelties in new materials and the manner of their use.

When the last word has been said, the true value of any fabric rests upon its ability to enhance feminine charm. Weaves and color combinations this spring offer the couturier wide range.

Since sartorial enchantments depend upon symmetry of line, harmony of color and the use of materials appropriate to the cut of gowns, the more diversified styling of materials is an incentive to greater originality in design.

Combine Body and Suppleness

Fabrics this spring combine body and suppleness. Satins of considerable weight and great elegance, some of them richly brocaded, some of soft, luscious crepe satin, proclaim the new era of formality.

Flat crepes, so richly soft and taking on new dignity, chiffons have more body, and laces of real worth, such as Alençon and Chantilly, supplant the sheerer and less impressive ones.

Tulle, nets, and even horsehair braid add their originality to materials for evening and the brocaded chiffons and laces are sumptuous in their feeling and beautiful in design and color.

Imported Sophistication

An import from Lelong illustrates smartly the utilization of horsehair braid for evening gowns. It is an ultra-sophisticated gown, entirely of the horsehair braid, and the gleaming sheer blackness of its material gives it tremendous chic.

The entire gown is formed of horsehair braid of varying widths, commencing with narrow braid which fashions the smart bolero that flares slightly over the molded body lines of the gown.

Spiraling around the body to a line well below the hips, the braid is molded to the figure, giving the chic tubular line.

From below the hips, wider braid makes a full skirt which billows like an irregular umbrella, swooping to the floor in the back.

Lace Has Chic Roles

The very character of the fabric insures its unusual flare and furnishes its own trimming. The black is unrelieved by any color and the gown represents one of the smartest creations I have brought from Paris for spring.

For ultra-femininity, Alençon lace has no superior for an effective and extremely serviceable evening gown. For the lace gown finds itself perfectly at home on the most formal occasions and on those where less formality holds reign.

One has a delicate egg-shell tone, and its birthright to chic lies in its unusual decolletage with revers, its four-tiered skirt and its charmingly correct casualness.

Follows Body Line

The lace follows the body line, with slight draping over the hips to one side where a soft bow ties. The decolletage is outlined with revers of lace which tie in another bow in the center of the back.

The tiers are graduated in width and are posed below the hips, on the new long tubular foundation which enables even a tiered gown to achieve the slender line of youth that women crave and men admire.

Another gown which capitalizes the new fabrics is one fashioned of exquisite brocaded satin, in which roses shading from pale pink to magenta and sprays of violets effectively figure a slightly pink off-white background.

GEORGE SOMNES TO TALK TO CLUB

Propylæum Club will present George Somnes Tuesday, Feb. 25, at 2:30. He will speak on "The Choosing of a Cast."

Mrs. Mary Rose Himler will speak at the same time on "The Choosing of a Book." Members are entitled to one guest each.

Wrong Time of Month

To some women the calendar is a tyrant, with certain days set aside for pain. Such martyrdom is needless. Midol—acting directly on the organs affected—disposes of every bit of pain at such a time.

Midol is not a narcotic. It does nothing to interfere with the natural and necessary process, but it eases the organs in five to seven minutes in even the most severe cases. Furthermore, the woman who takes a tiny tablet of Midol in time will experience no suffering at all.

For your own sake, investigate Midol and see how reliable and complete is its relief—no matter how hard a time you've always had. At every drug store in trim aluminum case for fifty cents.—Advertisement.

REGAL FABRICS ARE USED IN GOWNS

The age of elegance is epitomized in the regal and varied fabrics that fashion stunning gowns for parties after the lights are lit.

Left to Right—An import from Lelong is a gleaming black gown made of horsehair braid in graduated widths. It features a bolero and a novel flared effect below a tight hipline.

Exquisitely feminine is a dainty tiered frock of real Alençon lace, made with a novel decolletage that features rear revers that tie in a bow in the center.

Richly brocaded satin, with gorgeous suppleness, makes a formal, dignified gown of semi-princess cut, with unusual side belt arrangement and graceful fullness. The fabric has roses shading from pale pink to magenta and clusters of violets woven into its pale pink off-whiteness.

Higgins-Sibel Marriage Rites Solemnized at City Church

Miss Virginia Sibel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Sibel, 625 East Thirty-second street, became the bride of Donald M. Higgins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy E. Higgins, 523 West Fortieth street, at noon today in the McKee chapel of the Tabernacle Presbyterian church.

The service was read by the Rev. J. Ambrose Dunkel before the altar, which was banked with palms and ferns. Miss Ina Lawrence, organist, played "Indian Love Call," "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life," "Sigma Nu Girl," and, during the ceremony, "Omega Toast," a Delta Gamma song.

Miss Ruth Fahud, the bride's only attendant, wore a rose-colored suit and carried Rapture roses. Kenneth Higgins, brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

The bride wore a suit of green covert cloth, with a sand colored silk blouse and shoes and hat in matching shades of green. She carried white roses and lilies of the valley.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Mrs. Sibel wore a dahlia georgette with a corsage of orchid sweet peas and roses. Mrs. Higgins wore brown crepe with a corsage of sweet peas and roses.

The bridal table was decorated with pink sweet peas and smilax and lighted with tall white tapers in silver holders, tied with white tulle bows.

Mr. and Mrs. Higgins have gone to Hastings, Mich., where they will make their home. Both were graduated from Butler university. The bride is a member of Delta Gamma sorority and Mr. Higgins is a Sigma Nu.

A PRACTICAL STYLE

6721. This portrays a new style of smock, or utility frock, made with fitted waist portions, to which circular skirt portions are attached. These have inserted pockets. The waist fronts are double-breasted below revers facings that meet a rolled collar in notches. The sleeve is gathered to a band cuff. A small vestee squares the deep "V" of the neck. This model is suitable for wash materials and for woolen goods in linen or madras, cretonne or pongee it makes a smart smock. Tweed, fine serge or jersey weaves are suggested for this style if made as a dress for general daytime wear.

Cut in four sizes: Small, 34-36; medium, 38-40; large, 42-44; extra large, 46-48 inches bust measure. A medium size requires 4 1/2 yards of 39-inch material. For contrasting material 3/4 yard is required 36 inches wide. The width of the smock at the lower edge with fullness extended is 2 1/2 yards. Price 15 cents.

Send 12 cents in silver or stamps for our up-to-date spring and summer book of fashions.

PARIS, Feb. 17.

NO, sir, I refuse to get agitated about "hair of awkward length." For there is a way to avoid this.

To spare yourself, not to mention others, the sight of a growing-out bob, it is so simple to have a sort of back piece made to exactly match one's own hair!

It pins on from behind one ear to the other, and one just wears it the two or three necessary months until one's own hair is long enough to make a chignon.

The same idea applies to the bobbed head that wants to be a coiffure at night.

Proud Mother!

Little Thelma Carter, 1950 Park avenue, Indianapolis, is the picture of health. No wonder her mother says: "I'm proud as can be of my little girl. She's always bright, active, robust."

"I give California Fig Syrup a lot of credit for her wonderful condition. I have used it with her for every little upset or cold. It always has her back to normal in a few hours."

When a child shows, by bad breath, coated tongue, biliousness or feverishness, that the little bowels are clogged, you know the system needs a prompt cleansing.

California Fig Syrup does the work quickly and gently. In addition, it helps tone and strengthen weak bowels and stomach. So it gives lasting help.

The word California marks the genuine; the pure vegetable product loved by children and pronounced safe and effective by doctors.—Advertisement.
