

Members of Club Feted at Luncheon

Elza Rogers, Lebanon, addressed the luncheon meeting of the Seventh District Woman's Republican Club Thursday at the Columbia Club.

Mr. Rogers, Republican state chairman, urged the women to vote in the primary election. "It is not an 'off year,'" he said, "because it is not a presidential election, but very important as state senators and representatives are to be elected, the men who make the laws."

He advised them to choose their tickets with care and not let personalities enter in their choice.

Miss Genevieve Brown, reporter for the supreme and appellate courts, talked on "Women in Politics."

Indiana D.A.R. Activities

Plans for the fourth annual state convention of the Children of the American Revolution have been announced in letters to the state presidents of Indiana G. A. R. societies. Convention will be held at the Caroline Scott Harrison chapter house, Indianapolis, beginning at 9:30 Saturday morning, May 17. Luncheon will be served at the Indianapolis Athletic Club at 12:30, followed by the afternoon session. It is planned to adjourn the afternoon program at 3:30 to attend the reception which Mrs. Harry G. Leslie will give for delegates at the Governor's mansion. All societies are asked to send delegates, with reports of the year's work. Societies unable to report their work in person, are requested to file reports in advance with the state director, Mrs. A. P. Poorman. Reservations for luncheon may be made with Miss Jessie C. Watson, Crawfordville, until May 14. Miss Margaret Joan Crankshaw, a member of the Ruth Hunt society, Ft. Wayne, will be one of the guests.

New officers of General James Cox chapter, Kokomo, are: Mrs. Paul Gerhard, regent; Miss Margaret Sage, first vice-regent; Mrs. J. F. Meinzer, second vice-regent; Miss Kathleen Cooper, recording secretary; Mrs. Glenn Hills, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Emory Brooking, registrar; Mrs. Fred Jessup, treasurer; Mrs. H. J. Meek, historian; Mrs. A. C. Davis, chaplain; Mrs. Lena Price, librarian; and Mrs. G. W. Ross, genealogist.

Mrs. Harriet Vaughn Rigdon, Wabash, treasurer general of the national D. A. R., announced at the continental congress that eight real Daughters of the American Revolution and eleven Spanish War nurses are receiving pensions from the D. A. R. through the interest of its Liberty Loan fund.

Mrs. Kate Miller Rabb, member of Cornelia Cole Fairbanks chapter, Indianapolis, will speak before members of the General Francis Marion chapter, Marion, at the guest meeting May 23. Mrs. Walter Reardon will be hostess. The meeting will be held at the National Military home. Mrs. Rabb will talk on "Handmade Coverlets."

Oulbach chapter, Attica, will meet Tuesday. Responses to roll call will be made with "Foreign Units of Exchange." Mrs. J. Shannon Nave will read the chapter's by-laws. Mrs. Floyd Poston will discuss "Coins of the Realm." Musical numbers will be given by Louis L. Johnson. This will be the last meeting of the year.

Blanks for names and addresses of chapter officers have been mailed to each chapter regent in Indiana. These blanks should be filled out immediately after annual election. One copy should be sent to the organizing secretary general, Mrs. William A. Backer, Memorial Continental hall, Washington, and the other returned to Mrs. Roy A. Mayse, 5545 Guilford avenue, Indianapolis, state recording secretary. This is to provide information from which the annual state roster is compiled.

Winchester chapter held a meeting Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. B. E. Hinshaw. Mrs. O. O. Frazee, regent, presided. Miss Edna Engle, chaplain, led devotions. Mrs. Martha Clark, Randolph county probate officer, and Mrs. G. E. Leggett, county attendance officer, gave talks. Miss Mary Ethel Engle was re-elected regent.

Mrs. Clarence M. Brown was elected regent of the Richmond chapter Saturday. Other new officers are: Mrs. Robert Hudson, vice-regent; Mrs. Wallace Simmons, registrar; Miss Mary Anna Stubbs, corresponding secretary; and Miss Laura Hill, historian. Re-elections were: Mrs. George Davis, recording secretary; Mrs. Harry Engelbrecht, treasurer; Mrs. Florence Dickson, chaplain; Mrs. Engelbrecht, custodian; Mrs. Frances Connor, memory book editor; and Mrs. George Christman, parliamentarian.

Negligees in Many Colors Are Offered

BY FRANCES PAGET

(Copyright, 1930, by Style Sources)

NEW YORK, May 3.—As a gift suggestion smart shops have played up lounging pajamas and negligees which are lovely enough to be among the "just-what-I-wanted" type of gifts.

Hostess or lounging pajamas run the gamut from ivory satin with lame or brocade velvet coats, to peach and other pastel crepe intricately with heavy laces of a rich dark tint.

This pajamas ensemble usually consists of three pieces, including knee-length coat, trousers of generous girth and either a surplice or tuck-in blouse. The more tailored versions usually employ either strong color contrast or two shades of one color (both being effective).

Two shades of green or violet seem particularly approved. Crepe satin, chiffon velvet, lame and panne velvet or transparent velvet are among the most desirable pajama materials from the holiday viewpoint.

The negligees shown follow dress lines in their tendency to sweep the floor and to acknowledge the waistline by either a bow, center front or off side, or by a flower or ornamental clasp.

The fur-bordered hostess gown is elegant in its suggestion, lapin, either white or dyed beige, or egg-shell being most often used.

Camp Fire Girls

Saturday morning at ten, girls from each registered Camp Fire group and also several guardians left for Hefflin's camp for their spring camp conference. There were conferences on outdoor handicrafts, outdoor cooking and nature games. Miss Ethelmae Miller was in charge of handicraft; Mary Marshall, programs; Margaret Marshall, city wide projects; Miss Nichols, firemaker's conference; Miss June Weir, Miss Louise Reiter and Miss Naomi Burton were in charge of dramatics; Mrs. Francis Heagy, business, and Miss Pauline Mohler, local and national honors. The girls learned outdoor cooking.

Leavassan group, Miss Hazel Smith, guardian, had their meeting Wednesday and two of the girls told about the Shutan party last Saturday.

Kataya group, Miss Pauline Mohler, guardian, opened their meeting with the hand-sign and Whoelo cheer. The Woodgatherers have learned the Woodgatherers' desire and are working on their thrift charts and honors.

Tayusa group has a nature study hike. They went to Whittier grove, at Riverside park, and Miss Marshall taught them how to build a fire. They also earned nature honors for identifying various birds.

Wawasai group, Mrs. Ralph Strattan, guardian, met at School 54 Friday. They made $15 on their food sale. The Wawasai, Novetomp and Ohitaya groups conducted the food sale together. They also discussed the mothers and daughters banquet June 1.

Neta group at Shortridge high school, Miss Louise Reiter, guardian, has a hike April 26. They hiked to Williams creek. They hunted wild flowers for nature honors. The following girls went on the hike: Hester Gruben, Helen Wilson, Marguerite Mitchell, Inez Barnett, Marian Sperry and their guardian, Miss Louise Reiter.

Cakenscho group, Mrs. Thelma Williams guardian, met Monday afternoon and decided which girls to send to the camp conference. They worked on sending telegrams and making applications.

C. D. A. NEWS

Indianapolis Junior Catholic Daughters of America, numbering 150, will attend St. John's church in a body Sunday, May 10, and receive holy communion at the 8 o'clock mass in honor of their mothers. On the same day and practically at the same time every junior in the organization will be performing the same act of respect and love toward her mother. The local juniors will be attired in their uniforms which consist of navy blue skirt, white middie blouse, green tie and green arm band. Mothers and counselors of the juniors also will attend St. John's church on that day.

Troop 2 met Thursday with Helen Hall, 1342 Grant street, for a social meeting. This troop will meet with Louise Hausome, 4700 East Tenth street, May 16, for a business meeting.

Betty Mansfield, 241 North Tacoma avenue, will be hostess for Troop 19 in two weeks.

On May 10 Troop 20 will hike to the home of Genevieve Looman, where they will gather leaves and pass their test.

A business meeting of Troop 1 will be held at the residence of Margaret Hall, 1342 Grant avenue, on May 12.

Althea Davis will entertain members of Troop 18, May 9. A social meeting will be held May 23 at the home of Patricia Daugherty. A hike is being planned by this troop on May 4, preparatory to passing tests. Eleanor Carlin has been transferred to Troop 18 from Troop 1. New candidates for this troop are Viola Bendu and Kathryn Feeney.

Troop 9 will hold a business meeting Monday at 3:15, at the home of Roberta Reed, 814 Shepard street at which time members will endeavor to complete the requirements for the first test. Elizabeth Abel, Luella Barnhardt and Lillian Kurk have qualified for the first honor pins.

Jeannette Murray, 1612 West Morris street, will entertain members of Troop 10 at 3:15 Wednesday, May 7. Jean Kassenbrook and Mary Ann Patterson have fulfilled the requirements for the first honor pin.

A meeting of the junior nominating committee will be held at 3 Saturday at the Catholic community center. Each troop will be represented by one member.

BUSINESS WOMEN SESSION AID

The most important event for women next week-end will be the state convention of the Business and Professional Women's Clubs, to be held at the Claypool Saturday, Sunday and Monday. Mrs. Stella Colman is in charge of arrangements for several of the affairs.

INTERPRETS the MODE

Dinner hats have come back into the mode! And lovely and gracious are not even descriptive enough for them. (Dah-ray Designs.)

PARIS, May 3. At least we have the strength of mind to resist! Of course, opinions differ on this matter, but I personally always have contended that there are just certain things you can do with certain materials to make hats, and then hats do not take anywhere near the workmanship and art that shoes do, for instance.

Some do, to be sure, and those are the ones that clever women buy and try not to count the cost. But others, those little bonnet-like nothings that start at $50 francs ($20 well, they just take imagination and clever workmanship—AND very good materials.

What if a beautiful satin and chiffon rose costs $5 or $6, or a feather fancy costs $20 to $30? They give their touch of elegance to what otherwise would have to be a rather simple hat.

It is my advice, then, to buy the more expensive and difficult to make hats, and never count the cost, but practice and achieve results with less expensive and dressier ones.

In the interest of more and better hats we have been practicing and practicing lately—our studio has looked like a full-fledged modiste's for a week. All we were hoping was that charming Mme. Le Monnier would not accidentally drop in for tea—oh, no, we weren't copying any of her hats, nothing like it—but we were achieving some very interesting results in models that looked every bit as expensive as some of hers.

You don't have to start a hat department in your home, because if you just send a 2-cent stamp to the Dah-ray Design you'll receive the leaflet telling you how to make several of the season's smartest little dress and dinner hats all for two or three dollars apiece. Remember your smart little expensive felt hat will no longer do for every occasion!

YES, you've guessed it—some of the hats we achieved are those illustrated today. After you send for the leaflet, rummage around in the attic and see if you can't re-arrange some of mother's plumes and aigrets and feather pom-poms—they're going to be worn this summer and they are expensive.

Motherhood Can Be Too All-Exacting

BY MRS. WALTER FERGUSON

Motherhood is rich enough to fill the life of any woman, says a learned professional man, gesturing nobly.

That is not quite true. Motherhood, the highest of all feminine occupations, and indubitably the finest of womanly arts, can not fill entirely the life of the modern woman.

And the most successful mothers are those who have other interests aside from their children. She, who only is a mother and naught else, usually is a failure at her job. Why?

Because the actual business of being a mother occupies such a comparatively few years of life, in these days when it is economically impossible to have a very large family. While the children are little, it is a most absorbing occupation.

It's Great Treadmill

Life is a great treadmill revolving around the babies. But, by and by, and just at the prime of the average woman's life, suddenly the youngsters are gone. They have grown up and are off after their own pursuits. What to do then?

One can't go on mothering children who refuse to stay put. And that's exactly what the modern child refuses to do.

So in this very land, hundreds of thousands of saddened women find themselves facing—nothing. They who were all engrossed with motherhood, awake one day to find that their children need them no more, except at rare intervals. What disaster! What exquisite grief!

It spells the end of happiness unless one has been wise enough to arm oneself with some other interest. I know a splendid woman of 50 who is enormously happy studying bird lore. She strolls in the woods and classifies all feathered things. She knows each song and every tinted wing. And she never is weary of trying to find out something new.

Babies Will Grow Up When their children, all married, come home, they find her busy, alert, content. While they are with her, she feeds her heart for the empty days ahead. And in some lovely way, the little birds have become her children.

The cruellest thing about motherhood is that babies will grow up and want one no longer. We mothers have our delectable mountain tops, but the dark valleys, too, must be trod.

And they can be very lonely, if one has staked one's all upon a belief that motherhood is an all-time job.
