

REDS' INDUSTRIAL GROWTH IS THORN TO NEIGHBORS

EUROPE FEARS RUSSIANS MAY CORNER TRADE

Soviet Experiment Seen as Threat to Undersell Entire World.

BY WILLIAM PHILIP SIMMS
Scripps-Howard Foreign Editor

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—If Russia's "five-year plan"—which she now is moving heaven and earth to put through—succeeds, there is no reason why she should not undersell every other nation on earth, whether it is wheat she is selling, or automobiles.

Having reached this conclusion, Europe, if not America, is watching the unprecedented Soviet experiment with increasing uneasiness. Knowing that she is watched, Russia is convinced that, rather than let her succeed, the capitalists' powers are ready to unite to crush her.

Today the League of Nations, at Geneva, has before it the complaint of Rumania and Finland that Russia is dumping her agricultural products in those countries to the undoing of their farmers.

The United States and Canada are excited over alleged Russian short sales of wheat.

And so on.

Coal Mines Opened

But suppose everything works out in Russia as her leaders are planning for it to do, including the collectivization of farmers as well as industrial workers? European economists are asking: What is to prevent the Russians from underselling any and all other nations in the markets of the world, thus virtually monopolizing trade?

Under what is known as the "five-year plan," Soviet Russia expects to invest more than $10,000,000,000 to speed up industry and $11,000,000,000 more to put agriculture on a mass production basis. Russia is to be converted into one huge "factory," the great state farm being known as "grain factories."

Town and country are to be electrified with current obtained mainly from a chain of forty-two great water power stations. Upward of 100 new coal mines are to be opened and between twenty-five and thirty great blast furnaces.

Enormous electro-chemical-metalurgical "combinations" are in process of formation, and in process of going up. One of these is to turn out 100,000 automobiles a year to start with, a second is to turn out 40,000 tractors, and a third 50,000 annually.

Farms Are Merged

Some fifty-five oil-cracking plants are being set up, with pipe-lines, also a $100,000,000 locomotive works and a $25,000,000 plant for the manufacture of heavy machinery.

These figures afford the merest glimpse at the industrial picture. On the farms the preparations are no less grandiose. Two things are in process. First, the government is organizing a number of gigantic state plantations and, second, the peasants generally are being induced to collectivize, or pool, their holdings.

Those land holdings range from several hundred thousand to a million or more acres in extent. By 1932 it is planned to have at least 55,000,000 acres thus cultivated.

Farmers and their families are to live together in villages. These are to be lighted and heated in common and, whenever possible, there is to be a general dining room. Living quarters are allocated, so many cubic feet per person.

Tractors and other machinery for working the fields are to be pooled, and the peasants are to be organized into brigades, like an army, and move from farm to farm performing the job required in a jiffy.

Life already has been made a very simple matter in Russia. Clothes and such things are mere incidentals.

Wages lack the importance that they have in other lands and so, in European eyes, the Soviet Union soon may be in position to produce everything from wheat to razor blades, 50 per cent cheaper than her closest competitor, and will, if her plan succeeds.

On the other hand, Soviet officials are not blind to the situation. They are expecting Europe to try to throw a monkey wrench into the works. They are looking for war. They are preparing for war.

Special agents of the bureau of prohibition, department of justice, based their charge against Pedlow on his notarization of applications for certificates of title for autos alleged to have been used by rum runners, but there was no evidence Pedlow was aware of alleged liquor conspiracy, Kern held.

SYMONS, BARR READY AGAIN TO SWITCH PLACES

State Bank Examiner and Assistant Willing to 'Trade' Once More.

BY DANIEL M. KIDNEY

Luther F. Symons, state bank examiner, and his assistant, Thomas D. Barr, may resume the game of "batdore and shuttlecock" with the job of department chief, it was indicated at the statehouse today.

Symons' four-year term expires on Oct. 1, and he has not made formal application to Governor Harry G. Leslie for reappointment, it was learned.

Symons refused to comment on the situation today, but it was understood he has agreed to trade places with Barr, if that meets with the Governor's approval.

Under the regime of former Governor Ed Jackson that same exchange was made. Barr had been appointed head of the department to serve the unexpired term of Eben V. Wolcott, resigned, and then Symons, who was assistant, was made chief. This was attributed to Jackson's indebtedness to Symons, who at one time was said to have aided in obtaining the then Governor a Henry county judgeship appointment.

Recently the bank closings have shifted from the agricultural to the industrial areas, largely in Lake county.

Another appointment for Oct. 1 is that of the state insurance commissioner. Report has it that Leslie has agreed to let Clarence C. Wysong remain in the office until for the first of the year, or after the legislature meets, without reappointment.

Ready to Step Back Up

Barr now is reported ready to step back up to the top, and Symons to become assistant.

Symons' term of office has been marked by more bank failures than any similar period in the history of the department, it was said. But Indiana banks have suffered less than certain other mid-western and western agricultural areas, a tabulation of failures show.

Recently the bank closings have shifted from the agricultural to the industrial areas, largely in Lake county.

Another appointment for Oct. 1 is that of the state insurance commissioner. Report has it that Leslie has agreed to let Clarence C. Wysong remain in the office until for the first of the year, or after the legislature meets, without reappointment.

Fuller Also Seeks Place

Wysong was elected head of the national organization of insurance commissioners at a meeting two weeks ago, and to lose his post would mean to forfeit this office.

Among applicants for the place are Bert Fuller, Leslie's successful campaign manager.

Leaving department heads in office without reappointment almost amounts to a policy with the Leslie administration. Outstanding example of this procedure is his failure to reappoint or discharge the state fire marshal, Alfred E. Hogston, pioneer Leslie campaigner. Hogston's term expired Oct. 1, 1929.

Another holdover from the Jackson era, without reappointment, is Daley McCoy, state purchasing agent.

82 CAUGHT IN VICE RAIDS GET STAY OF TRIAL

Gaming, Liquor Cases Are Continued to Tuesday by Judge Wetter.

Eighty-two persons caught in police raids Wednesday afternoon on suspected gambling and booze joints were given continuances until Tuesday, Sept. 30, when arraigned before Municipal Judge Paul C. Wetter today.

First continuances were granted in cases against Mrs. George Chappell and Mrs. Lulu Ross, both of 26 East Eleventh street, charged with operating a blind tiger and gaming device.

Continuance was granted on request of police who said they have a "man who will testify to buying liquor and playing a slot machine in the place."

Cases against Virgil Morris, 24, of 526 West Morris street, and Morris Becker, 2402 West Morris street, held for liquor, speeding and vagrancy charges after a gun battle with police, were continued until Oct. 7 on a defense motion.

Evidence Is Demanded

Persons who know the outcome of gambling cases in municipal courts do not believe more than a half-dozen of those held for gambling after the raids will be convicted.

From past actions, it is known that raids on places of this kind generally mean nothing because evidence must be produced to show that the tickets held are on an actual ball game or horse and that money was won or lost through the retention of the ticket.

In some instances, evidence that the game was played or the race run have been asked. Newspaper reports or wire press stories on races and ball games have been refused as evidence.

Large Haul in Poolroom

Twelve squads of police were called into Kinney's office and given instructions that netted the arrest of eighty-two persons in the raids Wednesday afternoon.

The first squad returned from Tom Dillon's place, 111 West Maryland street, empty handed, after they found Tom playing solitaire, watched by two onlookers.

Largest haul was made in a poolroom in the basement of the Hotel Exchange on South Illinois street. Thirty-nine men were taken into custody. All were charged with visiting a gaming house with the exception of Otis Roberts, 37, of the Denison hotel, who was charged with keeping a gaming device and a gaming house. Horse race forms and tickets were found, police said.

Holmes Is Chided

Nineteen men were arrested in a place operated by Arthur Rahke, at 12 West Ohio street. Rahke was charged with keeping a gaming house and a gambling device, police declaring they found baseball and lottery tickets.

Eighteen slot machines were confiscated in a raid in a place at 23 North Liberty street, operated by Peter Brown. Brown was charged with keeping a gaming device.

Ira Holmes, Brown's attorney, made an unsuccessful effort in municipal court to recover the confiscated slot machines. Judge Wetter chided him for his assertions "the police will pry them open if they're left around here." Holmes said he would file a replevin suit to obtain them.

Morris and Becker were arrested after a running gun battle with police over streets and alleys during the raiding spree. Police said they found a can of alcohol in the car.

Seize Slot Machines

Morris was slated on a series of charges including transporting liquor and gaming device. He was held on vagrancy charges.

Liquor was found by police in raids at the rooming house of Mrs. Chappell and Mrs. Ross and at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Burgess, 27 East Eleventh street.

In the former raid, police said they confiscated thirty-four dozen quarts of home brew, five quarts of gin, thirty gallons of brew ready for bottling and a slot machine. Mrs. Chappell and Mrs. Ross were charged with operating a blind tiger and keeping a gambling device.

Police who raided the Burgess home said they found 116 quarts of beer and thirty gallons of brew, and a slot machine. Mr. and Mrs. Burgess were charged with operating a blind tiger and keeping a gambling device.

TWO HURT IN CRASH

Woman Injured Seriously as Car Overtakes.

Two persons were injured today, one seriously, when a coupe overtook and attempted to pass another auto at 5700 Madison avenue.

The accident occurred when a car driven by Thomas Glenn, 49, of 815 Eastern avenue, attempted to pass an auto driven by Samuel Workman, 43, of 4802 East Twenty-first street. Glenn's car overtook him.

He braked on the right arm and his companion, Mrs. Eliza May King, 38, of 841 Lord street, suffered a broken right leg and possible internal injuries.

Neither driver was arrested. Mrs. King was taken to the St. Vincent's hospital where physicians said her condition was "dangerous."

OTTO RAY LEGION HEAD

Election of Otto Ray as commander of Police Post 55, American Legion, was announced today following a meeting in Municipal court, Room 4, Wednesday night.

Other officers are C. B. Crouch, first vice-commander; Leo Troutman, second vice-commander; Louis Geiger, third vice-commander; Harry Smith, finance officer and Edward Jordan, chaplain.

Illinois street, was nabbed on charges of keeping a gambling device, gambling, and keeping a gambling house. Thirteen men in the place were held.

Earl Cox, Democratic attorney who resigned recently as a special prosecutor in charge of the Marion county grand jury which failed to return indictments in its primary election fraud investigation, appeared at attorney counsel for Bluestein and Rahke, explaining he has been "Bluestein's attorney for years."

Fifteen men were taken from a place at 122 East Ohio street, operated by Lasky Park. Police held John Jackson, Negro, 935 Pace street, in this raid after they alleged he attempted to bet $10 on several horses while the raid was in progress.

A squad arrested Burley Roselle, 801 Massachusetts avenue, on a lottery charge after they alleged he had baseball pool tickets in his place.

Raids on a soft drink stand operated by Jerry Agnew, 135 East Ohio street, netted police nothing, as did another on a second place operated by Park at 41 West Maryland street.

PROMPT REPEAL OF DRY LAW, IS JIM REED PLEA

Former Senator Fires Fierce Blast in Demand for Immediate Action.

By United Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—Former Senator James A. Reed of Missouri today stood sponsor for one of the strongest anti-prohibition platforms thus far proposed. His program calls for:

Immediate repeal of the Volstead act.

Repeal of the eighteenth amendment as soon as possible.

State control of liquor without federal assistance, but with each state having authority to seize liquor imported for distribution within its boundaries in interstate commerce.

This declaration by Reed, who returned several days ago from Europe, places him ahead of other possible Democratic presidential nominees on the prohibition repeal program.

"Was Drawn by Fanatics"

Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York has declared for repeal of the eighteenth amendment, but for substitution of an amendment to protect state enforcement of prohibition.

Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas, vice presidential nominee in 1928, is a prohibition supporter.

"The Volstead act should be repealed immediately," Reed declared in announcing his program. It should have been written in blood by Drago, and not by a modern legislature.

"It was drawn by fanatics who crowded into it all of the atrocities from all of the state laws," Reed said he expected little to come from President Hoover's law enforcement commission.

"It's Ghastly Failure"

"It is obvious now that the people of the United States have given this 'noble experiment' a thorough trial, and that it has been the most ghastly failure of the century. It has created more crime than any other law in the last 100 years."

Reed provided another campaign issue by charging the business depression to the tariff and government interference with business.

"KONJOLA GOOD FOR INFANTS AS FOR ADULTS"

Says Indianapolis Mother Who Restored Child's Health Through New Medicine.

Men and women of all ages, even infants, have found in this master medicine the end to their health troubles. Konjola is free from alcohol or harmful drugs—anyone can take it.

Imagine the happiness of Mrs. Walter Simpson, 447 Arbor avenue, Indianapolis, mother of Walter Simpson, aged 3, when, after trying since early babyhood to restore the child's health, she at last turned to Konjola and found the happy answer to her worries. The Konjola Man at the Hook Dependable drug store, Indianapolis and Washington streets, this city, is passing out free samples and literature and explaining the use of this master medicine. Now read the experience of this happy mother:

"My little boy Walter, was in poor health almost from birth. He was unable to keep food on his stomach and bloated terribly after meals. Medicine or even water would not remain in his stomach and he cried and suffered all the time. He did not sleep as a healthy child should and was weak and sickly."

"I tried many medicines and treatments but nothing seemed to help him. Finally I decided to try Konjola. This medicine soon began to show results. He began to brighten up and his appetite returned. He now retains his food and is rapidly taking on weight. His stomach no longer bothers him and he is like another child. I am certain that, had I not given him Konjola, he would not be with us now. Konjola is as good for infants as it is for adults."

This is not an exceptional case. Many mothers have restored their children to health through the use of this pure medicine. Konjola is truly a medicine for the entire family.

The Konjola Man is at the Hook Dependable drug store, Indianapolis and Washington streets, Indianapolis, where he is meeting the public daily.
