

SLEUTHS WILL OPPOSE MOVES TO CLIP WINGS

Horsethief Detectives to Point Out Record of Convictions.

"Horses stolen, 0; horses recovered, 0; autos recovered, 71; thieves convicted, 75."

Upon this item in the annual report of its 1930 onslaught against crime, the National Detective Association of Indiana, organized under the "horsethief act" of 1907, will resist any effort in the 1931 legislature to remove or curb its powers.

Cloaked with resolutions which the association's leaders say will vindicate them in the public eye, the organization will send a committee into legislative lobbies next January to oppose any effort to clip the organization's wings.

Association leaders, at their annual convention in the Sevier on Wednesday, denounced as "manifestly unjust" condemnation of their organization that has aroused bitter feelings past legislative sessions.

Official Make Talks

Prominent members of both political parties paid obeisance to the detective association by addressing the convention. Republican speakers included Judson L. Clark, Marion county prosecutor; George L. Winkler, sheriff; Louis O. Shasey, representing Governor Harry G. Leslie, and a Democrat, Russell Ryan, representing Mayor Reginald H. Stillwell.

"Our sole business now is to recover stolen property and protect ourselves against thieves," declared George A. Stillwell, LaGrange, secretary of the association.

Stillwell observed that "since we have cleaned out our organization we no longer wish to be known as horsethief detectives."

But, as if offering a gesture of gratitude for the unique law which vests them with authority, the detectives include in their report: "Horses stolen and recovered."

Target of Criticism

For years criticism has been made that the "horsethief law" gave birth to a class of pseudo-officers who harassed motorists, particularly romantic couples, in their cars parked along the highway at night.

Reprimand from the supreme court for activities against bootleggers has caused the organization to limit its arrests to thieves, Stillwell asserted.

"This fact has limited our convictions to 75 this year, whereas, if we had continued to harass liquor law violators our records would show 500 convictions," he contended.

According to a declaration of principles, members are identified with no clique or organization of any kind in the granting of special favor and stand for law enforcement and just punishment of all law violators.

National Head Speaks

William McMillan, Rushville, national president of the association, was a speaker at the convention. Orin E. Davis, president of the Marion county council of the association, was chairman of arrangements.

Included in a resolution presented by H. G. Walker, Montpelier, former president, commanding Marion county members for entertainment they provided, was a poem, the first verse of which ran:

HONEST MEN

We have found some honest men. Honest life's battles have fought. Ones who know the worth of trust. With bribes could not be bought.

JUDGE SELECTED FOR VOTE OFFICIAL TRIAL

Dowling to Hear Case of J. L. Blenz in Criminal Court Monday. Henry M. Dowling has been selected to occupy the bench at the criminal court jury trial Monday of John L. Blenz, 3425 North Illinois, primary election poll official, charged with violation of official duties.

Worker in the Ninth precinct of the Fourth ward, Blenz is alleged to have marked ballot in the presence of two persons. Three other officials at the same polling place were named in affidavits following the election, but charges against them were nolled by Prosecutor Judson L. Stark.

E. W. Hoover, attorney and poll inspector, against whom the state nolled an affidavit charging election fraud, will act as counsel for Blenz. It is rumored new charges may be preferred by Stark against Hoover.

PRAISES DOCTOR AS INDIGESTION PAINS VANISH

For seven years I kept trying medicines, hoping to get relief from indigestion," says Mrs. Grace Wheeler, 153 Church St., Highland Park, Detroit, Michigan. "Nothing really helped me. I got so I never felt quite right; was tired and weak. I would bloat and have awful sick headaches after every meal.

"Now it's a different story. I got back most of my lost weight in a few months and feel fine. Nearly everything agrees with me. When anything starts to disagree, a tablet of Diapepsin has me comfortable in a minute.

"My doctor ordered me to take these wonderful tablets and I sure thank him for his advice. They're just like candy to eat; but they work better than any medicine I could find."

For years, leading physicians have endorsed Pape's Diapepsin. All drug stores sell the handy boxes. Get one and the next time heartburn, headache or nausea appears, soothe your stomach and make digestion complete with one or two of the pleasant, candy-like tablets. If you would like personal demonstration of their merit before buying, write "Pape's Diapepsin," Wheeling, W. Va., for a FREE trial box.
