CLEANING AUTO RADIATOR CUTS REPAIR COSTS

Poor Circulation of Water Results in Frequent Garage Bills.

More and more motorists are appreciating that the economical and successful use of a motor car is dependent largely on the radiator, says Vern Reed of Reed-Mueller, Inc., 111-119 Kentucky avenue.

This company specializes in auto radiator work. Located as it is, within a block of the heart of the city, it has a drive-in service by which a car may be left in the morning, the necessary work done upon it, and the car driven from the shop in the evening. There is space for forty-five cars in the shop at one time.

"Overheating really is the beginning of all motor troubles of a serious nature, and proper functioning of the cooling system prevents many motor ills," says Reed.

Efficiency Decreased

"Examination of the radiators taken from a large number of pleasure cars and trucks, which have had enough service to need repairing, establishes that these radiators only are from 40 per cent to 60 per cent efficient, as compared to those on a new car.

"This efficiency is decreased by the accumulation of grease, scale and particles of rubber from the hose used in the cooling system.

"Grease inside of a radiator grows and picks up the sediment and bits of rubber, and in time will close the tubes and waterways entirely.
Further, if this sediment is permitted to remain, it will deteriorate the zinc to such extent that in time the radiator becomes porous and is worthless.

Boiling Harms Metal

"It practically is impossible to repair a radiator in such a condition, as the grease will hold small leaks that will not show up under an air pressure test. The radiator may be replaced with the air test, and yet replaced will leak as the vibration jars loose the scale.

"Therefore the radiator always should be cleaned properly before it is repaired. We can not approve the practice of boiling a radiator in a strong chemical solution, as this in most instances proves detrimental to the metal. We therefore have developed the R. & M. system, which, with the R. & M. solution, will clean the radiator without boiling.

"It also cleans the entire cooling system of the car, including the motor block and pump, without removing the radiator from the car.
This R. & M. system is a guaranteed cure for overheating cars."

PRACTICE GIVEN IN LAW SCHOOL

Courts of City Serve as College Classrooms.

For thirty-six years the Indiana law school, located at 143 East Ohio street, has been preparing students for the practice of their profession.
This school, with a faculty of fourteen prominent attorneys of this city, and under the leadership of James A. Rohbach, dean, has enjoyed a high enrollment the last two years, more than 150 students having been instructed compared to about 100 a year for several years previously.

The school is unique in that it makes its training very practical by resorting to the courts of the city for demonstrations of the actual practice of law.

Following the system of instruction advocated by the association of American law schools, and with a library equipped fully for needs of the school, it makes a regular practice of holding all its classes in the mornings, giving students the opportunity to work either at means of livelihood or in the study of actual proceedings in the afternoon.
The school runs from the third Wednesday in September to the Wednesday following June 3 each year. The tuition fee is fixed at $150 a year, payable in three instalments. Thus it affords the opportunity for young men of limited means to secure a thoroughly practical education in the principles and practice of law, which opportunity has been taken advantage of by hundreds of students since the school's opening thirty-six years ago.

Misaligned Car Wheels Are Both Dangerous and Costly to Driver

Specialized Service Station Offers Public Speedy, Efficient Work.

Recent investigation has shown that fully one-half of the automobiles in use today are giving unsatisfactory service because of misalignment of wheels or axles, or both.

The average driver does not realize the importance of maintaining proper alignment, which prevents steering troubles and costly tire scuffing.

Regardless of how carefully a manufacturer may build a car, or how efficient and accurate the alignment job may be, a few weeks' driving may have disarranged the intricate balance which must be maintained if the owner is to have comfortable and economical service from his car.

Accident Is Possible

A car that steers hard is dangerous. Wheels must incline inward at bottom and front, and the front axle must tilt backward. These easily are thrown out of line by a bump hardly noticed at the time, by sagging springs, or by applying the brakes suddenly. Balloon tires and front wheel brakes twist the axle, upsetting both the tilt of the axle and alignment of the wheels, making the car hard to steer.

Weaving, wandering, hard steering and shimmying may cause a car to go into a ditch any minute, may cause a regrettable accident.
When axles are out of line the wheels are dragged sideways along the road, grinding away the life of tires.

Work Done Quickly

Examination of tires frequently reveals them pitted, gouged on the tread of worn uneven. Motorists should examine their tires frequently because improper alignment costs more in wear of tires than the service the Bear Scientific Wheel Aligning Station offers.

This firm, located at 928 East Washington street, is equipped with the Bear axle press, which will straighten bent or twisted axles cold, giving a perfect job. It is not necessary to tie up a car two days while the axle is taken out, because the firm can turn out the entire job in a few hours.

The station now is equipped with the famous Bear precision tools that measure accurately to the sixteenth of an inch, according to William D.
Furlow, service manager.

Service Guaranteed

"The Bear station restores cars to their original factory condition, they have like new, and new guaranteeing a perfect job or no charge," he said.

In order to acquaint the public with this specialized service, the station is making a worthwhile special offer, giving cars a regular $2.50 thorough checkup free the first time, guaranteeing to find the trouble.

Furlow is a mechanic with fifteen years' experience in diagnosing automobile front system quickly and efficiently. A visit to the Bear Scientific Wheel Aligning Station may save motorists many dollars and future trouble.

FIRE LOSS CUT BY SPRINKLERS

Automatic Device Smothers Flames at Start.

Fires in the United States reduce to ashes about $500,000,000 of usable property each year. That, however, is only a part of the loss, for the reason that insurance rates must be enough to cover and maintain the insurance companies, business must suffer from the loss of time, and workers must suffer from unemployment.

While these latter figures must be estimated, it probably is true that fire costs every man, woman and child in the United States about $72 each in a year.

Most of this loss is preventable.
Two effective ways exist. One is better construction of buildings and better handling of stocks. The other is better fire fighting and more prevention. With the former time probably will work out a vast improvement. With the latter, the use of the automatic sprinkler appears to be the most effective way of preventing big fires by quenching little ones.

The automatic sprinkler is a device that goes into operation when the heat in a room exceeds normal.
That action consists of spraying a stream of water and sounding an alarm. When sprinklers are so placed as to cover the area of a room, the fire often is extinguished before the aid summoned by the alarm arrives.

Such a system saves property and often life. The Indianapolis Automatic Sprinkler Company, 702 East Market street, is a local firm that installs, extends and repairs these systems. It has placed this protection in many Indiana businesses, and it will be pleased to talk the matter over of making any place as near fireproof as human ingenuity is able to make it.
