

STARK LOUDLY PRAISES SELF IN RALLY TALK

Lauds Running Mates on Slate; Accomplishments in Office Outlined.

BY BEN STERN

"Fearlessness, honesty, ability and efficiency" are the self-claimed attainments of Judson Stark, Republican candidate for re-election as prosecutor.

"Only Stark is able to carry out the 'difficult' duties of that office." "A dozen deputies Stark has trained 'are more capable today in the duties of his office than his Democratic opponent will be at the end of two years of service.'"

"And all on the Republican ticket possess the virtues of Judson Stark." Judson Stark, himself, declared all this at a G. O. P. rally at 3911 East Washington street Thursday night.

Praises Running Mates

Stark praised his running mates and declared that charges made against the Republican organization by the Democrats are true, "why don't they bring the evidence to me so I can prosecute?"

"I am just itching to send those fellows who have committed crimes to the penitentiary," said Stark.

Long before the federal government indicted eighteen policemen, Stark had reports that conditions were bad in the city, he said.

"I sent out men and they made investigation, which, of course, were superficial."

"But it is not my duty to investigate these reports. I am too busy attending to the legal business of my office."

Keeps Deputies Busy

"That also keeps my twenty-two deputies busy," the prosecutor pointed out.

"Policemen on the beats have been trying to do the best they can. The higher-ups, the men above them, let the patrolmen know what to do and the higher-ups are responsible," Stark charged.

"My office in particular, is a difficult office," he said. "I have had experience in it, for I served four years as chief deputy and that made me capable of taking it over." Stark then praised Herbert Wilson, his Democratic opponent, as "a nice young man."

"But so far as I know, he hasn't tried many cases and I have heard he doesn't know anything about the prosecutor's office."

"Any Deputy More Able" "I have under me twenty-two deputies and among them a dozen men who are more able now to take over the duties than my opponent will be at the end of two years as prosecutor."

Stark admitted there was "one thing I can't do anything about." This, he said, is the business depression.

He then moved to national issues and commenting upon the nomination of Philip La Follette as for Governor of Wisconsin by 10,000 votes declared: "This makes me feel sad for Democracy. At no point in his address did

Mary Is Back

"Some women must get married. There is nothing else for them to do. I'm too busy." That's what Mary Garden told newspaper reporters when, as pictured above, she arrived in New York from Europe with a red dress, red hat and red hair.

The opera star said that reports of her swimming in the nude in the Mediterranean were correct, that she does not intend to become a citizen, and that she will star in an opera produced for the talking pictures.

Hunting, Fishing Permits Boom
Despite Depression.

Business of the state conservation department in hunting and fishing licenses boomed despite the depression, the annual report of the fish and game division for the fiscal year, which closed Oct. 1, shows.

The report was filed today with Director Richard Lieber by Walter Shirts, fish and game division chief. Total division receipts for 1930 were $337,230.53, a gain of $3,214.97 over the same period for 1929.

I. U. Medicine Dean to East
Dr. Charles P. Emerson, Indiana university school of medicine dean, has gone to Atlantic City where he is recovering from an operation.

Stark tell when he would obtain indictments against policemen and county officials, he promised several weeks ago.

He did not mention what he was going to do about the grand jury report charging numerous frauds in the May primary.

Stark was preceded by Howard Meyer, Republican speaker's chairman, who praised the candidates on the ticket, and by Sheriff George Winkler, who declared:

"I will say tonight that there is not one notorious roadhouse operating outside the city."

"I created a uniformed road patrol."

"I established a hospital at the jail."

"I established a radio service in connection with the police radio."

"I have established school safety work and we have a wonderful ticket."

BISHOP CANNON ASKS 5 MILLION IN HEARST SUIT

Charges Newspaper Story About Wife Before Marriage Is Libel.

By United Press
CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—Questions of procedure occupied attention of court authorities today in connection with the $5,000,000 libel suit brought against William Randolph Hearst on behalf of Bishop James Cannon Jr.

The publisher's address was given in the suit, filed Thursday in the District of Columbia supreme court, as care of the Washington Herald and the Washington Times. Hearst at present is in California. Under court rules, service must be made personally upon the defendant.

The allegedly libelous statements of which Cannon complains were published, according to the declaration, in the New York Evening Journal, the Washington Herald and the Los Angeles Examiner.

The complaint charges the defendant contrived "to deprive the plaintiff of his good name, reputation and professional and business standing, and to bring him into scandal and disrepute among his friends, neighbors, associates, acquaintances, members of his church and other religious bodies, and those engaged in the work against the beverage intoxicating liquor traffic and with the public."

Cannon alleged he was libeled by an article to the effect he was at the New York apartment of Mrs. McCallum, whom he later married, on the night before his first wife's death, two years ago. This was printed, Cannon charged, to give the impression he had been guilty of improper, unseemly and immoral conduct with the said Mrs. McCallum.

The declaration also accused Hearst of instigating a systematic campaign against the plaintiff and members of his family with the alleged object of destroying the bishop's influence.

PLAN JOBLESS AID

Series of Conferences to Be Held.

Plans for a series of distribution conferences to aid local business interests, manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers, in increasing distribution have been completed by the Chamber of Commerce.

The conferences will commence in November.

They are part of the three-fold plan for aiding unemployment, which was submitted Thursday by G. M. Williams, chairman of the joint committee appointed by Mayor Reginald H. Sullivan and president Paul Q. Richey of the Chamber of Commerce.

Another part of the plan includes "made work"—jobs created for the needy, so that they will be given employment instead of actual charity. The third idea advanced is the intelligent handling of charity.
