

CLUB FEDERATION NOMINATIONS ARE SET FOR TODAY

Indianapolis Woman Is in Race for Vice-President; Resolutions Are Drafted

BY MARY BINGHAM

NOMINATIONS and presentation of candidates at 11:30 this morning was the high spot of the convention of the Indiana Federation of Clubs, in session at the Claypool hotel through Thursday.

Mrs. Frederick G. Balz of Indianapolis announced herself last week as a candidate for vice-president of the State Federation, opposing Mrs. Robert Hicks, Cambridge City. This was scheduled as the only contest. Mrs. James S. Boonshot, Petersburg, is the sole candidate for trustee, and Mrs. Charles S. Hartley, Cambridge City, for treasurer.

Mrs. Frank Donnan was nominated for the post of recording secretary. A resolution approving the constitutional convention for Indiana was adopted with little opposition.

The resolution reads: "Resolved, That the Indiana Federation of Clubs go on record as supporting this progressive movement and that every effort be made to stimulate a favorable majority vote at the election Nov. 4. Also in the event the referendum is carried, that every assistance be given in the formation of a constitutional convention."

Ask Citizenship Regulation

Another resolution, mentioning that while the laws of Indiana require citizenship as a qualification for voting, they do not require it as a necessary qualification for holding certain offices in local government, asking that the convention go on record as deploring such condition and recommending to the department of American citizenship and of legislation the working out of some constructive plan whereby this may be rectified.

A revision suggested Tuesday afternoon during Mrs. Frank Sheehan's discussion, for strengthening the federation, was approved by the convention. It changes the words "county chairman" to "county president," and "district chairman" to "district president," to avoid confusion with the terms county department chairman and district department chairman.

Would Draft Constitution

A motion was carried to suggest to the convention that a committee be appointed to draft a model constitution coinciding with the constitution of the state federation, for guidance of county and district federations, to be accepted or rejected by them.

The award of $50 in two annual payments of $25 each goes to the Tenth district for its work in student loans contest, establishing thirteen $50 loan funds during the year. Federation loan funds at Indiana and Purdue universities amount to $17,049.05. Fifty-seven funds have been established or added to, totaling $23,895.50. The grand total of funds, including several others administered locally, is $22,760.60.

The convention opened formally Tuesday night with Mrs. Edwin F. Miller, Peru, president, Mrs. George W. Phillips, South Bend, chairman of trustees, and Mrs. Frederick G. Balz, Seventh district chairman, presiding.

Franklin Professor Speaks

Dr. Homer P. Rainey of Franklin college spoke on "Two Demands On One Supply."

Dr. Rainey developed the thought that the greatest need of our individual lives today is spiritual demands. He pointed out the great need for the development of civic, social, moral and spiritual intelligence "commensurate with the development in our mechanical universe."

In her president's message, Mrs. Miller said "The past is of interest only as it visualizes stepping stones for the future. This is our harvest time—a sign of progress."

Mrs. Miller spoke of the advance of the federation during the year, particularly in the organization of juniors, and in the success of its plans for adult education.

Mrs. Balz as chairman of the hostess organization, welcomed the delegates. Others who spoke were Mrs. Virginia C. Meredith and Mrs. Phillips.

A reception honoring state officers followed.

Contest Prizes Awarded
Announcement of awards of contest prizes was made at the luncheon of the Fine Arts department this noon. Mrs. Eli F. Seibert, South Bend, presided. Mrs. Caesar Misch, Providence, R. I., was guest of honor.

Mrs. Seibert announced the junior chorus prize to go to the Hammond Junior Chorus, Mrs. Mildred D. Westfall, director. The composition prize was awarded Miss Bernice Crandall Forsythe, LaGrange, for her song contrasts.

The prize, a book, was awarded the Woman's club of Worthington, the only entrant in the contest. The Home Library, and How to Build It.

Mrs. Misch was speaker at the meeting of the fine arts department in the afternoon. She discussed early pagan music and the development of instruments and harmony, and contrasted it with the music of today.

Dr. Cantwell Is Speaker
Dr. Guy Cantwell of Indiana university was speaker at the education luncheon. Mrs. Quincy A. Meyers, Perryville, presided.

Dr. Cantwell's subject was "Taxation and State Aid for Schools."

CUTS SILK HOSE BILLS IN TWO
A New York fashion expert has just made a wonderful discovery. Realizing the expense of constantly buying silk hose and lingerie, she learned that with perspiration comes an oily excretion from the sebaceous glands that causes silks to rot.

Soap and water she found were inadequate. Only a solvent like Eucalypti cuts this film of oil.

So when next washing silk hose or delicate undergarments, add a tablespoonful of Eucalypti to a quart of lukewarm, soapy water. Wash thoroughly—rinse well. Note the new fresh cleanliness—see how the original color is revived so easily and with less rubbing. After using this new method, you'll be amazed at the difference in results from washing in just soap and water.

And when you see how many more weeks you get from silk hose, you'll be more than delighted. Eucalypti is unexcelled also for quickly removing all dirt and grease spots from dresses, hats, shoes, gloves, ties. Large can 25c. Advertisers' choice.

New Afternoon Frocks Feature Rich Materials

It is something like gliding the lily.

Another new phase of this mode for exquisite materials made in somewhat tailored fashion is the fact that the materials themselves have a tendency toward conventional designs in their rich, metal brocades, rather than quaint, old-fashioned floral designs.

Made of Metal Cloth
One of the late afternoon frocks is made of a plaided green and gold broadened metal cloth, flecked with a tiny bit of red and tan.

It is made with an unusual little yoke of vertical shirring and at hip length there is a ruffle of pleated material. This same idea of pleated ruffles is applied to the sleeves at elbow height.

The gown has a deep cowl collar and ruffled sleeves. It is ankle length. Very comfortable, useful on so many occasions, and very correct and stunning.

House Is Enchanting
A trifle more feminine in its softness is a silver and black metal cloth bolero dress, the metal in a kind of twined pattern. There is a little flaring skirt and a short, jaunty bolero jacket with very short sleeves.

The piece of resistance of this outfit is the enchanting little shirred silver gray velvet blouse. It sounds heavy. But you should see it!

It is such very soft silver gray velvet that, shirred, it seems hardly more than the sheers' crepe. The blouse fits into a hip-band of the gray velvet that is plain. A flower of the silver velvet adorns the jacket.

Family Menus

BY SISTER MARY

When we plan to substitute rice or one of the paste foods for potatoes, certain fundamental differences should be kept in mind.

Properly cooked potatoes furnish minerals lacking in the cereal foods, but at this season of the year when vegetables are abundant this deficiency can be taken care of easily and cheaply.

The tendency to serve macaroni or noodles in a rich sauce leads to the addition of many calories to the dish that, simply cooked and served, potatoes would not provide.

Variety Is Even
Potato substitutes combine admirably with late fall vegetables and offer pleasing variety to vegetable menus. There is no doubt that potatoes 365 days in the year become monotonous and a change is welcome.

When the meat course is light a tasty dish of macaroni, spaghetti, rice or noodles does much to eke out the dinner. The noodle ring with its eggs and milk adds many plain calories to the menu.

Macaroni in a tomato and cheese sauce does its share toward increasing the calories. Plain boiled rice is suitable to serve with a heartier meat course, for unless rice is cooked in milk or richly dressed with butter, three-fourths of a cup is required to make one hundred calories in four tablespoonfuls.

Macaroni Blends Well
Macaroni combines well with vegetables. Tomatoes and macaroni often are used, but the combination of macaroni and onions is novel and delicious.

The macaroni or spaghetti is parboiled as usual. Then thinly sliced onions and macaroni are arranged layer for layer in a buttered baking dish and a thin white sauce is poured over to cover and the whole is baked forty-five minutes in a moderate oven.

Noodle Ring
Two cups noodles, 1 tablespoon butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 cup milk, ½ cup grated cheese, 2 eggs, ½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce. Cook noodles in boiling salted water for ten minutes. Drain. Melt butter, stir in flour and slowly add milk, stirring constantly. Season with salt, pepper and Worcestershire sauce. Add cheese and cook until melted.

Remove from fire and add noodles and yolks of eggs. Fold in whites of eggs beaten until stiff and dry. Turn into a very well buttered mold and bake forty-five minutes in a moderate oven. Unmold and serve.

THE National Congress of Parents and Teachers, one of the most forward-looking of organizations, which women belong, and certainly the one with the widest field for future activity, long since has indorsed national prohibition.

This appears to be utterly inconsistent with all its teaching, to any person who will take the time to think about it. While its main purpose is to bring about a closer co-operation between the parent and the teacher, it also has for its ambition successful child training.

If prohibitions were working all the time for the further education of mothers, and they number many of our leading psychologists and child experts. Men and women trained by years of study are helping to direct its methods in the most delicate of all the arts—the art of bringing up children.

CERTAINLY the bulk of its teaching is away from the old order. By frequent conversations with many who are interested in it, I find that the organization, almost to a member, favors freedom for the child mind. A full freedom of the personality of the individual is advocated. Repression in any sense is deplored.

For this reason, many of us will find it difficult to reconcile this training with the organization's official stand on prohibition.

Of what use will it be to train children to a full dependence upon their own ideas, only to find them in an adult world where they will be met upon every side with forbidden signs? Unless we actually teach repression in their youth, how on earth are we to expect them to observe the many fool laws that hedge the grown-up individual about?

If prohibitions are not good for children; if "don't" is the worst of words to use on them, then it is common sense to believe that the same thing would be bad psychology for the mature person.

We do inestimable harm to our poor youngsters when we lead them to suppose that they are free agents in the ordering of their lives, because our grown-up world is a prison, physical and mental. Until we change it a bit, it is cruel to send them a child trained to freedom of thought.
