

'WILD JACKASS' SENATORS ARE FIGHTING ALONE

Western Progressives Are Accorded No Aid by
G. O. P. Committee.

By Service-Howard Newspaper Alliance
DENVER, Oct. 24.—The Republican national committee and senatorial campaign committee virtually have closed up shop and gone out of business as far as aiding in re-election of western progressive senators is concerned. The "sons of the wild jackass," bereft of administration or party support, are bumbling together and going it alone. If they win, they will be under no obligations to the White House or to the party, and they will make more of their independence than they have in the past. Their actual leader is Senator Borah, of Idaho. Though he is up for re-election himself, he has a comparatively easy time, as always, and can afford to answer the distress summons of his associates. He has sent letters and statements out on behalf of all of them, and he will speak in Nebraska for Norris later in the month.

MAY GO INTO MONTANA

If necessary, he will go into Montana to campaign for Senator Walsh (Dem.) against Judge A. J. Galen. Borah's two-room office in Boise, Idaho, is for the present the political headquarters of the progressive forces. Because of his part in the western battle, and the failure of the administration or normal party agencies to supply reinforcements, Borah's prestige with the insurgent group undoubtedly will be enhanced at the December session.

Nobody who knows him doubts that he will make the most of it in the predicted battle with the administration over additional farm legislation and correction of what he regards as "tariff evils."

MOSES AVOIDED BOISE

Boise, incidentally, was one place which Senator Moses of New Hampshire, chairman of the senatorial campaign committee and author of the "wild jackasses" description, was lucky enough to avoid. Although he visited Helena, Mont., and it was announced he was on his way to see Borah, the wiscracking chairman never arrived.

Here he carried out his original program which he would have been met at the station by two "wild jackasses" dressed up in G. P. harness and regalia. The Boise Statesman, a Republican newspaper, was prepared to splash its front page with cartoons portraying the senator in the midst of a herd of bucking donkeys. He would have been given a loud western "hah-hah," rather a bray. But he didn't come. Moses has been roaming in the western and middle western regions, but he is taking no active part in the progressives' struggle.
