Former Judge Sued on Bond Breach Ground

Action Filed at Elkhart Seeks Recovery of $8,000.

By United Press
ELKHART, Ind., Nov. 8.—Suit to collect $8,000 on the official bond of Walter G. Walker, who was city judge here from 1922 to 1926, has been filed in Elkhart superior court by James R. Nyce, as counsel for the city, and for Joseph Falcone, Walker and his surety, the Federal Surety Company, Davenport, Ia., are defendants.

It is alleged in the suit that Walker never made any record of posting of $2,000 bond by Joseph Falcone for the release of Peter Falcone, pending trial on an assault and battery charge. It is alleged the bond, in cash, was placed directly in the judge's hands.

Peter Falcone was released, and later another charge was filed in superior court and bond set at $7,500. Joseph Falcone asserts he was not notified of the change, nor apprised of forfeiture proceedings filed when Peter disappeared before the trial date.

Pointing out that Walker was in possession of the $2,000, the complaint says: "As a matter of record, Judge Walker never paid to any one the purported forfeiture of the cash bond."

Under regular procedure, the forfeiture money would have been paid into the Elkhart county school fund. Charging Walker with breach of bond, the city alleges damages of $5,000 and asks $3,000 more in attorney's fees.

Walker resigned as judge in 1925.
