

POLITICAL ROLE MAY SHIFT AS VOTING RESULT

St. Joseph County Democrats May Unseat Lake G. O. P.

By United Press
SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 10.—Political observers of northern Indiana look to the powerful Democratic machine of St. Joseph county to occupy the place in state politics held before the party victory at the polls Tuesday by the Republican organization of Lake county.

The reign of the Lake county organization, which centered about the office of the county prosecutor with its estimated salary of $100,000, ended with the election of Democrats.

For years the Calumet machine has been a powerful factor in shaping Republican policies at the capital. Recognized as one of the most important units in the organization behind Senator James E. Watson, its reputation spread through the nation in informed circles as the best functioning unit of its kind.

Criminal Case Recalled
On more than one occasion the activities of important figures in the machine embarrassed the senator. The last occasion was about a year ago, the indictment of 200 Calumet residents, about half of them officials or henchmen of the organization and the other half gangsters and racketeers. According to the indictments, many of which resulted in convictions, the operators of liquor and vice resorts of the region were paying through the nose for protection.

Gary, Hammond and East Chicago have benefited by state appropriation of funds for their arterial highways. Other northern Indiana counties have looked longingly at the prominent position of Lake in capital councils.

Benefits from State Funds
But the transfer of power from the Republicans to the Democrats does not mean southern Indiana without a voice. The St. Joseph county machine which has so regularly piled up pluralities for the state tickets is expected to bear about the same relation to the incoming Democratic administration as Lake county did to the Republican.

Otto Fifeid, the present secretary of state, is from Crown Point, the county seat of Lake county. His successor, Frank Mayr, is a South Bend resident.

Chester Montgomery, former South Bend mayor and permanent chairman of the last state Democratic convention; Rudolph Ackermann, South Bend city controller and head of the St. Joseph county machine; and William P. O'Neill, Mishawaka, former Lieutenant-Governor, are expected to extend their dominance in the county to the state councils.

NEGRO SLAIN DURING ATTEMPT AT ROBBERY

Confederate Blamed for Accidental Shot Near Richmond.

By United Press
RICHMOND, Ind., Nov. 10.—When bandits held up the Ruggles filling station four miles east of here, the attendants made a report of the incident to local police but failed to tell all the story, including slaying of an unidentified Negro.

The body of the Negro, who appeared to have been about 28 years old, was found and investigation revealed that he had been accidentally shot by a confederate during a gun battle with the attendants. Police had not been informed at first of any shooting in connection with the holdup, in which about $20 was obtained.

The body was at first thought to be that of a Negro who wounded Officer Moses Shores here, Friday morning, but the description does not tally. The officer was shot in a hand.

Indiana Mother Knew Best

Wise mothers find the things that keep children contented, happy, well. Most of them have learned they can depend on one thing to restore a youngster's good nature when he's cross, fretful, upset.

The experience of Mrs. M. McMillan, 805 Prospect St., Indianapolis, is a typical one. She says: "I have used California Fig Syrup with Eva and Betty since they were both just tiny babies. Whenever they're the least bit constipated or restless I give them a little. It has them comfortable, happy, well in a jiffy. Their splendid condition proves I knew best when I decided to use this wonderful preparation with them."

Physicians endorse the use of pure vegetable California Fig Syrup when bad breath, coated tongue, dullness, feverishness, listlessness, etc., show a child's bowels are in need of help. Weak stomach and bowels are toned by its gentle aid; appetite increased; digestion and assimilation are so assisted that weak, undernourished children quickly improve in weight, strength and energy.

The genuine always bears the word California. So look for that when buying. All drugstores have it.

OFFICIAL VOTE CHECK SLATED

State Board Will Count Eighth District Ballots.

The battle front in the Eighth congressional district, where Albert H. Vestal (Rep.) and Claude C. Ball (Dem.) have been playing a fascinating game of electoral tag, shifted today to the statehouse.

Here the state canvassing board, in the person of Ed Hecker, appointee of Secretary of State Otto C. Fifeid, and another member yet to be named by Governor Harry G. Leslie, again will recheck votes from the district.

Returns from Delaware and Jay counties, where several errors in computation already have been found, have not yet been certified to the secretary of state's office, it was said.

Vestal, at last reports, still retains his ten-vote lead. Herbert Spencer, son of W. W. Spencer, state election commissioner, has been detailed by R. Earl Peters, Democratic state chairman, to watch the re-count for further changes.

GENERAL BLISS TO BE BURIED WITH HEROES

Last Rites for High Army Official Will Be Held on Wednesday.

By United Press
WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—General Tasker Howard Bliss will be buried in Arlington cemetery Wednesday, the day after the twentieth anniversary of cessation of hostilities in the war with which he so prominently was identified.

The famous soldier-statesman died early Sunday at Walter Reed hospital. He was nearly 77 and had been suffering for six months with an acute intestinal disorder.

Plans for a full military funeral, with interment on a grassy slope of the national cemetery near the grave of William Howard Taft, were completed today as men high in official life publicly expressed sorrow at the passing of one of America's outstanding military heroes.

Soldiers from the ranks who attended General Bliss during his illness will escort the body from the Bliss home to Washington cathedral, the burial place of Woodrow Wilson, for services at which Bishop James E. Freeman will officiate.

Then the body will be borne to Arlington, while the guns of Ft. Myer boom the slow funeral salute. "The army loses a great soldier and the country one of its distinguished citizens," said General John J. Pershing, who was commander of the American expeditionary force in France while General Bliss was chief-of-staff of the army.

"In his long military career he won by sheer ability the highest positions open to a professional soldier," said Secretary of War Hurley. General Bliss was born at Lewisburg, Pa., Dec. 31, 1853.

After a career that took him into the Porto Rican campaign, where he was cited for gallantry in action, and the country one of its distinguished citizens, he served as chief-of-staff during the critical period of the World War Sept. 22, 1917, to May 10, 1918.

General Bliss later was made chief of the American section of the supreme war council in France and at the peace settlement was one of President Wilson's principal advisers.

Some Light on City's Closed Bank Tangles

Events which preceded today's court action in the receivership battle involving the City Trust Company, Washington Bank and Trust Company, the city banking commissioner, attorney-general and county courts were:

Nov. 8.—City Trust Company closes its doors, its directors blaming former assets, placing company's affairs in hands of state banking department.

Nov. 8.—Washington Bank and Trust Company closed by its directors after heavy run Oct. 27; state banking department takes charge.

Nov. 8.—Attorney-General James M. Ogden, through his chief deputy, Charles Werner, files suits in Marion circuit court (Harry O. Chamberlin, judge) asking appointment of receivers for both the City Trust Company and Washington Bank and Trust Company.

Nov. 8.—Luther F. Symons state banking commissioner, without Judge Chamberlin's approval, withdraws the suits from circuit court, paying costs by personal check, and relieves them, designating City Trust Company receivership suit for probate court (Judge E. B. Bush, judge) and Washington Bank and Trust Company suit for superior court (Judge Joseph M. Miller, judge).

Nov. 7.—Attorney-General Ogden and Circuit Judge Chamberlin declare attempted transfer without their approval. Symons refuses explanation of action.

Nov. 7.—Thomas D. Bary, deputy banking commissioner, declines to be interested in being appointed receiver for either institution.

Nov. 8.—Symons asserts that Jess Murden, Peru, state highway commissioner, talked to him about transferring the suits from circuit court. Reported that Murden's interest was inspired by Arthur B. Ayres, Newcastle capitalist and heavy donor to Republican state campaign funds, who with George Marott, Indianapolis merchants, owns City Trust building, where City Trust Company pays $25,000 annual rent.

Murden denies Symons' assertion and disclaims acquaintance with Ayres. Ayres denies having asked Murden or Governor Harry G. Leslie to act. Report persists that Murden, when relit by telephone to make the transfer if it could be done without embarrassment.

Symons issues statement upholding his right to choose the courts, defends his action as intended for best interests of depositors. Attorney-general admits Symons' charges that he (Ogden) filed the suits in circuit court despite the fact that court intended them for superior and probate courts.

Ogden explains he did this because Judges Miller and Bush leave office Jan. 1, 1931, and probate court lacks jurisdiction. Ralph Kane, attorney, announces his firm is entering appearance for City Trust Company in circuit court and in superior court. Although Kane, when relit by Symons, bore penciled notation sending City Trust action to probate court and Washington Bank and Trust Company action to superior court, they now are found to be on file in just the opposite position. City Trust in superior court and Washington Bank and Trust in probate court.

Ogden's chief deputy filed motion in circuit court to dismiss Symons' motion for dismissal (filed when the transfer was sought).

BROWN LIKELY TO OUST FESS AS G. O. P. HEAD

Hoover Reported Planning Shakeup as Result of Election Losses.

BY RAY TUCKER
Times Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—President Hoover's mind is on the field of politics rather than on the administration and the G. O. P. on Tuesday as an engineer rather than a politician, according to reports in political circles today.

Instead of sitting back quietly and hoping for the best in the immediate future and in 1932, as Calvin Coolidge was wont to do, it is understood Hoover will inaugurate a sweeping reorganization in several executive departments and political offices. Strange faces may appear at the capital, it is said, including possibly one or two new cabinet members and a new national chairman to replace Senator Fess of Ohio, whose regime has been fraught with misfortune.

Though Hoover's main achievements have been in the field of foreign affairs, there are unconfirmed reports that Secretary Stimson may decide to retire to private life and his New York law practice. Postmaster-General Brown of Ohio is mentioned as Fess's successor. If Hoover seeks a renomination, Brown's political astuteness would serve him well between now and the next convention.

Decide on Curtis
Hoover also may be forced to decide whether he wants Vice-President Curtis as his next running mate. The latter's friends are speaking of him as a candidate for the senate seat which Henry J. Allen lost to a Democrat on last Tuesday.

Curtis is reported to be dissatisfied with the results of his present post, and to feel the need for more active participation in politics and governmental affairs. He undoubtedly will consult Hoover before reaching a decision.

Stimson's various indiscretions as departmental chief may not be so much as his personal activities resorted to in his personal attack against Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York in the recent campaign. Roosevelt's impressive victory by more than 700,000—larger than A. Smith ever received—indicated the people of New York repudiated and repudiated the administration's foremost spokesman.

Brown won no more honors in the election result than Fess, it is admitted, and he may not climb much higher on the political ladder. But as postmaster-general in charge of political plums, he is in a peculiarly strategic position to corral Hoover delegates for the 1932 convention.

Silent on Dry Issue
Contrary to reports, it is predicted Hoover will make no definite move in any direction on prohibition. As before, he will keep aloof from the controversy over this subject, feeling that it crosses too many party lines to permit presidential interference.

If anything, the White House will be glad to see the Wickersham commission submit a specific report one way or the other, and thereby toss the burning brand into the house and senate.

The administration will continue its present efforts at enforcement, but it is believed that any new money that has been appropriated in the past. But the broad policy of the new enforcement regime will be, as Colonel Amos A. Woodcock already has made clear, to make the burden of booze-hunting as light as possible.

Unwilling to accept Tuesday's outcome as a rebuke to his policy, his political aids think he can stage a comeback if he tries to be the type of executive and engineer the people thought him when they gave him the largest plurality in history. There have suggested that his major mistake was to attempt to solve difficulties as a politician rather than as a broad-gauged and far-seeing chief executive.

With the next congress in the control of his enemies, they point out he must again direct his appeal to the people. They believe he has a fifty-fifty chance of success, despite the business depression, the drought, unsettled conditions here and abroad and the reverse at the polls.
