

PERJURY CASES MAY BE RESULT OF ALIBI TALK

Grand Jury Called at Brazil Due to Testimony of Four Persons.

By Times Special
BRAZIL, Ind., Nov. 29.—Four persons who sought to prove an alibi for Albert Graves, convicted in Clay circuit court here on a charge of passing a bad check, may be indicted for perjury, Judge T. W. Hutchinson indicated in calling the grand jury to investigate testimony the four gave.

Just before Graves entered the state prison to begin serving his sentence, he made a complete confession, authorities announced, saying that in addition to passing a bad check on a store at Brussels Bridge, for which he was convicted, he was guilty of a similar offense in Greene county.

Since the conviction it has developed that the proprietor of the store who accepted the check had known Graves since boyhood, despite testimony of directly opposite tenor given at the trial on the theory of mistaken identity.

In the meantime a motion for a new trial was filed by counsel for Graves and overruled. The defense contended that conviction was obtained through failure to observe a court rule, and that Graves should not be penalized for an error on the part of his attorney. Counsel indicated, after denial of the motion, that an appeal would be taken.

Graves, in his confession, is said to have stated that his attorney ceased services when his client was unable to give him any more money. According to Graves, he lost a farm given as security for money he borrowed to pay counsel.

Conviction of perjury carries a heavier penalty than that on which Graves was sent to prison.

FUTURE FARMERS GIVE HONORS TO HOOSIERS

Two Receive Degree and One Presiding in National Organization.

By Times Special
LAFAYETTE, Ind., Nov. 29.—Two Indiana delegates to the national meeting of the Future Farmers of America, at Kansas City, have received honors for outstanding conduct, according to word received at Purdue university.

William Haase, Martinsville, a freshman in the school of agriculture at Purdue university, was granted the degree of American Farmer, the highest honor awarded a vocational student in the Future Farmers organization.

The other award was given William Showalter, St. Joseph county, who was elected vice-president of the national organization, as representative of the north central states, thus becoming a member of the national board of trustees.

Showalter, who operates a 200-acre farm with his brother, has grown mint and potatoes and now is building up a dairy herd. He is state president of the Future Farmers of Indiana. His three years vocational work was under the direction of F. E. Van Pelt, Milton, former vocational teacher in the Madison township high school in St. Joseph county.

CORN CHAMPION BALKED

Borer Quarantine Will Prevent Entry in Contest by C. E. Troyer.

By Times Special
LAFONTAINE, Ind., Nov. 29.—The corn borer, scourge of the farmer, will prevent C. E. Troyer, Lafontaine, twice corn king of the world, from competing for honor this year at the international hay and grain show which opened at Chicago today.

A borer quarantine which this year covered Liberty township, Wabash county, in which the Troyer farm is located, will prevent the former champion from entering an exhibit.

TERRE HAUTE PRISONERS GUILTY OF MANY CRIMES

Twenty-Foot Stalactites Found by Cave Explorers

By Times Special
SPENCER, Ind., Nov. 29.—Two hours exploration of a cave recently discovered on the Ross farm northeast of here revealed twin stalactites, each about twenty feet long, one being of chalky whiteness and the other of the usual gray color. Beem, Cleo Powell, Stuckey Bryant and Carl Anderson made the exploration.

Entrance to the cave is through a sink hole. Five feet from the opening is a small landing from which there is a sharp drop of about 60 degrees, a passageway that opens into a large two-story cavern which has a total height of twenty-seven feet. On the west side of the lower room, Powell found an opening about eight inches across which apparently widened greatly within a short distance, but he did not explore it, having failed to clear away enough stone to admit his body.

OFFICE HOLDERS MAY BE OUSTED IN $50,000 SUIT

Shelby County Surveyor and Road Chief Involved.

By Times Special
SHELBYVILLE, Ind., Nov. 29.—Ralph Cochran, Shelby county surveyor, is at liberty under $500 bond pending trial on an indictment charging him with practicing engineering without a license, and Samuel Gardner, county road superintendent, is defendant in a civil suit in which his impeachment is sought.

Both cases are an outgrowth of charges made during the recent campaign, which also resulted in a civil suit against the county commissioners charging malfeasance, misfeasance and nonfeasance in office.

It is alleged against Cochran that he practiced engineering without a license in connection with construction of the H. P. Gordon drain.

In the suit against Gardner, allegations include one that he authorized expenditure of $5,000 for bridge flooring, which sum was in excess of the appropriation for that purpose.

YOUNG BANDIT SENT TO PRISON FOR 25 YEARS

Indianapolis Resident Pleads Guilty to Robbery at Frankfort.

By Times Special
FRANKFORT, Ind., Nov. 29.—A twenty-five-year prison term was imposed on Robert Brown, 20, Indianapolis, by Judge Brenton A. Devoil in Clinton circuit court here after he pleaded guilty to robbery.

Previously, he had been sentenced to serve ten years for automobile banditry.

Ryno Paddy, 20, of Benton Harbor, Mich., Brown's companion, pleaded guilty to robbery with firearms, and was sentenced to twenty years in the state reformatory. He had been given a one-to-ten-year sentence at Indianapolis.

Theft of Auto in Evansville Started Long List of Three Young Men.

By Times Special
TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Nov. 29.—Three young men are being held here for sentencing Dec. 2 on their confession of robberies that led them through several states, in five of which they committed burglaries. They were returned here this week from Berlin, Wis., for trial.

Sentencing of the three, Vincent Cassidy, 16, Olney, Ill.; Keith A. Drury, 20, Turtle Lake, Wis., and Jesse McClelland, 22, former Terre Haute garage employee, was deferred when Prosecutor William E. Littlefield told Judge Joseph Jeffries in Vigo circuit court he had received a request from Drury's relatives to withhold judgment until their arrival.

According to a signed statement by Cassidy, he left his home at Olney, Sept. 2, and while traveling from Vincennes to Evansville, on a freight train, met McClelland. They stole an automobile at Evansville, he related, and drove to Turtle Lake, where they met Drury. The three then drove to Winona, Minn., abandoned the car and stole another.

Turning eastward, Cassidy said, they drove to Vincennes, stole a third auto and went to Calhoun, Ga., where they took eight automatic revolvers and six rifles from an armory.

Leaving Georgia, they returned to Terre Haute and robbed several groceries and a poolroom, getting a total loot of about $200.

They were arrested at Turtle Lake, where they had gone to hunt some chickens, on a charge of stealing chickens, and returned to Terre Haute for trial.

Cassidy confessed he had been convicted of robbing a drug store in Illinois and sent to the state school for boys, from which he escaped July 3.

Drury admitted he had served a sentence in Wisconsin on a criminal assault charge.

GALLANT BANDIT ROBBS SUNMAN BANK OF $200

Young Women Employees Receive Promise of Not Being Molested.

By Times Special
SUNMAN, Ind., Nov. 29.—The second time a man called at the Sunman State Bank Friday, asking for change, he held up John Beer, assistant cashier, and took $200.

Two young women bookkeepers were warned not to make an outcry, but the bandit, with an air of gallantry, promised he would not harm them.

Change for a dollar was asked by the man just before he pointed a small automatic revolver at Beer.

The robber did not mention the vault in which the bulk of the bank's money was at the time. After obtaining his loot, the bandit walked to an automobile he had parked in front of the bank and drove away.

HIGH COURT TO GET NEXT FIGHT ON EXTRADITION

Hoosier Resisting Attempt to Try Him on Bank Robbery Charge.

By Times Special
ANGOLA, Ind., Nov. 29.—Lester Krill, 35, formerly proprietor of a garage at Hamilton, is held in jail here pending the outcome of a second round in his fight to prevent return to Michigan for trial on a charge of bank robbery.

The first round was lost in Steuben circuit court here when Judge Clyde C. Carlin refused Krill's petition for a writ of habeas corpus. Krill's wife, who is in poor health, collapsed as the judge gave his decision.

Counsel for Krill immediately filed notice of an appeal to the Indiana supreme court. Judge Carlin ruled that an appeal bond should be filed within twenty days and the case perfected for transfer to the high court within 120 days.

It is alleged that Krill robbed the State Bank of Montgomery, Mich., Nov. 3, escaping with $2,500. In denying the writ of habeas corpus, Judge Carlin pointed out that three witnesses had identified Krill as the bandit.

Testimony offered in behalf of the alleged bandit was to the effect that on the day of the robbery he was not in Michigan, but at Butler and Hamilton. Krill was formerly cashier of a bank at Butler.

Hearing in the habeas corpus proceedings consumed four days and attracted one of the largest crowds in the history to the Steuben county courtroom.
