

NEW THRILLS AWAIT BRAVE AT JOY PARKS

Latest in Heart Thumpers
Devised to Frighten
Poor Customers.

CHICAGO, Dec. 4.—The amusement park owners of the country are together here Wednesday night to figure out new ways to torture the customers.

They succeeded nobly. The ordinary roller coaster, they decided, wasn't quite efficient enough in making hearts jump to throats, and young women's arms clutch about young men's necks. So they devised a contraption known as the "flying turns," a model of which now is on display in the Stevens hotel, where the twelfth annual meeting of the National Association of Amusement Parks is in session.

Just a Few Tricks The "flying turns" consists of a long spiral sheet upon which run cars with rubber wheels. The cars start at the top, whirl faster and faster around the banks, jump up and down, until they are roaring around in circles, horizontally, at an apparent speed of 100 miles an hour.

The customers have to be strapped in good and tight else they would sail through space, head first, also at an apparent speed of 100 miles an hour. That "apparent speed" business, itself, is another little trick of the roller coaster-merry-go-round-hot-buttered-pop-corn magnates. The little cars really travel only 50 miles an hour, but the wily operators make the cars small as possible, the wheels tiny as practical, and the scenery alongside as near as possible without endangering the frightened passengers.

You Must Loop the Loop The resultant optical illusion thus makes the customers gasp at what seems to be a 100-mile an hour velocity. Another pleasant little device is a stationary airplane. It consists of a seat on a universal swivel, an assortment of levers and an airplane propeller.

The seeker after thrills gets himself belted into the seat, the propeller shoots a blast of air which blows off his hat and rumples his hair. Aghast, the client clutches a lever and his seat turns over, leaving him dangling head down and gurgling in fright. The levers are supposed to be exact replicas of those in an airplane.

POP CORN BY RADIO AT SCIENTISTS' PARLEY

Transportation of Light by Liquid
Air Also Demonstrated.

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—The latest achievements of practical science, including the popping of corn by radio and the transportation of light in liquid air—were demonstrated today by two scientists of the General Electric Company.

The Merchants' Association of New York witnessed the performance given by L. A. Hawkins and E. L. Manning at a luncheon. Unpopped corn in a transparent bag was passed between two jars containing ice cubes floating in a salt solution. The salt made the water a conductor of radio waves, the high-frequency generating equipment. The popcorn began to give off steam and soon was popping.

Hawkins and Manning brought with them a piece of fluorescent screen material which had been subjected to a cathode ray treatment. The material was contained in a vacuum bottle filled with liquid air. The screen was removed from the bottle at the luncheon and soon the temperature of the room heated it, and it began to glow, first yellow, then purple and blue through the range of colors.

BLIZZARD HERO DOCTOR MAY SAVE HIS PATIENT

Gives Up Practice Temporarily to Be Old Mountaineer's Nurse.

BOISE, Idaho, Dec. 4.—Dr. Don S. Numbers, the only physician in miles of sparsely settled Idaho wilderness, has given up his regular practice to become nurse, temporarily, to a 70-year-old mountaineer, J. D. Monroe.

Hemmed in by huge snowdrifts and a howling blizzard, the two men today waged a battle against death in a little cabin at Burgdorf, thirty miles from McCall.

Monroe became suddenly ill Monday night, at White Creek. His friends summoned the veteran Dr. Numbers from McCall.

In the middle of the night and at the height of the blizzard, Dr. Numbers hitched up his dog team and began a 40-mile trek alone. Friends of Monroe brought him to Burgdorf, where the physician arrived after a day and a night of fighting his way through the storm.

"Dr. Numbers was prepared to perform an emergency operation, but was unable to do so because internal hemorrhages had so greatly weakened the mountaineer."

SWINDLERS OBTAIN $5 After Buying Soft Drinks.

Two money jugglers made $5 in a hurry early today from Vernon Crowder, employee of a lunch wagon at 1358 North Illinois street. Crowder told police the men asked for two soft drinks and presented a $10 bill. Permitting the bill to lay on the counter, Crowder started heading out the change. When he laid $5 before the duo they grabbed their $10 and his $5 and fled, he said.

SLASHED IN KNIFE DUEL Roomer Who Packed and Left After Fight Is Sought.

Police today sought Walter Bush, 1112 East Washington street, after a knife duel in which Elmer Arbuckle, 40, also a roomer at that address, had his throat slashed Wednesday night. Bush, who lived in a room adjacent to Arbuckle, packed his clothes and departed after the fight.

Boosts Fuel Saver

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 4.—A fuel saving of about 40 per cent was made by Captain Frank Hawks in his cross-country flight from New York to Memphis, he reported today.

The saving Captain Hawks said, was made by use of a motor at tachment known as the "moko-vite." The device is designed to permit the pilot to adjust his carburetor to use a minimum of fuel to obtain a maximum of power while in flight.

Hearing Is Restored

WAYCROSS, Ga., Dec. 4.—Ever since he fell out of a window a year ago, Francis M. Roberts has been deaf and dumb—that is until he took an airplane flight a short time ago.

During a plane ride of 3,000 feet, "something popped" in the back of his head and he found his speech and hearing were restored.

Smoker for Fliers

LONDON, Dec. 5.—Huge passenger planes containing a smoking room are planned by the British Imperial Airways on its European and empire routes. The design of the planes will provide for a fireproof smoking room, large enough to seat twenty persons, separated from another compartment for those who don't smoke.

Prepare for Races

LONDON, Dec. 4.—Flight Lieutenant E. Hope is leading a fast life with the high speed flight group designated by the air ministry to fly the supermarine Rolls-Royce and Gloster Napier seaplanes at Felixstowe.

Three pilots now are being trained to operate these fastest planes in England to provide a team for defense of the Schneider trophy next year. They have been flying at between 300 and 400 miles an hour.

Airman Hits High Speed

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—Hawkeye, piloting a new-type Curtiss pursuit plane, Wednesday flew the 400 miles from Dayton to Washington in 2 hours and 2 minutes, averaging nearly 200 miles an hour.

The plane is a single-seater fighter, powered with a 600-horsepower Wright Cyclone motor, and is being tested for the army. Orden left Dayton at 2:30 p. m. and landed at Bolling field at 4:32.

The plane will be demonstrated here before high officials of the government. It has cowlings over the motor and "pants" on the wheels, to increase its speed.

Air Delegates Named

Curren, have been named to represent Indiana at a meeting on aeronautical problems in Washington, Dec. 16-17, called by the United States Chamber of Commerce. Major purpose of the meeting will be adoption of resolutions favoring uniform flying regulations for all airports and airlines throughout the nation.

U. S. WOMAN HELD FOR PLOT AGAINST ITALY

Poet D'Annunzio Expected to Intervene in Behalf of Mrs. De Bosis.

ROME, Dec. 4.—Gabriel D'Annunzio, Italy's most famous living poet, was expected today to intervene in behalf of Mrs. Adolfo De Bosis, American woman under arrest here on charges of complicity in an alleged plot against the Fascist government.

Mrs. De Bosis is the widow of a famous Italian poet and a close friend of D'Annunzio. She formerly was Lillian Vernon of Syracuse, St. Louis, Mo., and Boston, and has a sister living in Syracuse, N. Y.

D'Annunzio was notified of her plight and was expected to write to Premier Mussolini in her behalf from his home.

The fact that Mrs. De Bosis was demanded for examination by the special tribunal for the defense of the state may complicate efforts of D'Annunzio to help her. She was held in connection with the publication of an anti-Fascist pamphlet.

Mrs. De Bosis and two men arrested with her confessed to the charges against them, but were not expected to receive heavy sentences, because they conducted their activities peacefully and without efforts at violence.

Mrs. De Bosis has been ill for several years. She was confined in a prison infirmary until Wednesday night, when she was taken to a private clinic.

Her arrest, and that of her conspirators, was the result of a roundup of three charged groups charged with plotting against the Fascist regime.

QUAKE ROCKS WEST

Albuquerque Is Shaken by Severe Tremors.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Dec. 4.—Two severe earth tremors shook Albuquerque and adjacent territory as far as thirty-five miles east late Wednesday.

Many people fled to the open country, coming back later to see walls of several buildings cracked and many dishes shaken from shelves.

HOUSE WETS FORM LINES FOR BATTLE

Ready to Fire Opening
Shots Friday; Arrange
Mode of Action.

BY THOMAS L. STOKES
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—Wets in the house were organized today to carry on the anti-prohibition fight.

The decision of the California supreme court in regard to Moorey and Billings is disappointing to all lovers of justice, he said. "It is another revelation of the inevitable influence of the prejudices of a community upon the supposedly impartial judicial tribunals."

"The decision will result in renewed efforts on the part of all men and women in America who believe that the Moorey and Billings case is potentially another Sacco and Vanzetti case."

EIGHT GO DOWN WITH SHIP
YARMOUTH, N. S., Dec. 4.—The crew of eight on the motorship Linton was given up for lost after the body of Officer Carmon Frye had drifted ashore and the submerged hull of the ship was sighted.

Eastern Experts Match Bridge Skill Over Radio

MILTON C. WORK's second radio bridge game of the season, broadcast Tuesday from station WEFM, brought together as exhibition players Mrs. Wistar Morris Chubb, South, Orange, N. J.; Mrs. John Munce Jr., Alexandria, Va.; Christian A. Herter, Boston, and Sidney S. Lenz of New York.

Lenz, as Dealer, South, opened the auction with one heart on Spades, 8, 5, 3; hearts, K, Q, J, 10; diamonds, K, J, 9, 7; clubs, Q, 6; Spades, K, J, 9, 4, 3; hearts, A, 8, 7, 4; diamonds, A, Q, 10; clubs A, 10.

Her partner bid was much sounder than a double would have been, as South had bid hearts and her own strength was predominantly in spades. Mrs. Munce, North, went to two hearts on: Spades, A, Q; hearts, 9, 5, 3, 2; diamonds, none; clubs, K, J, 10, 8, 5, 4, 2.

She had wonderful assistance for her partner's heart bid, four trumps, the ace-queen doubleton of the suit bid on her right, so it was probable that no tricks would be lost in that suit; a blank diamond suit, presumably assuring that no tricks would be lost in that suit; a long strong club suit.

Herter, East, passed. His hand was practically worthless, containing only: Spades, 10, 7, 2; hearts, none; diamonds, 8, 6, 5, 4, 3, 2; clubs 9, 7, 6, 3. Being blank in the adverse heart suit was not sufficient reason for raising his partner, who had made only a following bid.

On the second round of bidding, Lenz, South, passed; Mrs. Chubb, West, bid two spades. Four cards of the adversaries' suit being a feature of her strong hand, she was prepared to bid until she got the contract at spades or could double hearts safely.

Frat's Speaker

The Rev. W. Henry McLean More than 300 members of Sigma Chi fraternity are expected to attend the tri-province diamond jubilee and convention here Dec. 12 and 13. The Rev. W. Henry McLean, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, Bloomington, will be principal speaker at the banquet at the Columbia Club the evening of Dec. 12. The convention will end Saturday night, Dec. 13, with a grand ball.

CITY RENTALS ON DOWNGRADE, SURVEY SHOWS

Indianapolis Overbuilt in Dwellings, Apartments,
Board Declares.

Indianapolis is overbuilt in dwellings, apartments and business buildings and rentals are on the downgrade, a committee of the Indianapolis Real Estate Board today reported to the National Association of Real Estate Boards in the semi-annual real estate survey.

Robert Stockwell, chairman, Frank L. Moore and James W. Hurst, comprised the committee, which made its report on personal investigations. The report declared: That the real estate market in Indianapolis today is less active than in November, 1929.

That selling prices are lower than they were a year ago. That the city is over-built in single dwellings. That the city is over-built in apartments.

That the subdivision market today is less active than in November, 1929. That the rent trend for unheated single family dwellings is down. That the rent trend for unheated duplex or flat units is down.

That the rent trend for heated apartments is down. That rental asked for business locations is the same as a year ago in the heart of the business section, but that on the border the rent trend is lower.

That the rent trend in the outlying locations is down. That the rent trend for office space in the central district is the same as a year ago and in the outlying districts is lower.

That there are desirable mortgage loans in the excess of the supply in capital. That the gross cost to the borrower on first mortgages with good security shows no change.

NAMES WIFE IN 'GLASS MURDER'

Detective on Stand Calls
Stepmother Guilty.

DENVER, Colo., Dec. 4.—For the first time since the body of his 10-year-old daughter Leona was found in Berkeley lake Oct. 17, Leo O'Loughlin, detective, had intimated publicly today that he believed his wife guilty of slaying the girl.

O'Loughlin testified for two hours Wednesday at the trial of Leona's stepmother, Mrs. Pearl O'Loughlin, on charges of murder. He told in detail of his family life preceding his daughter's death, told of the last meal the family ate together, of how his wife served rice to him and Leona, but refused to let her own son, Douglas, eat any of it, and of how he became seriously ill that night, the same night Leona disappeared.

While he was ill, O'Loughlin said, he told fellow members of the Denver police department to "look for Leona in Berkeley lake." On cross-examination, he explained that he had thought of the lake "after my father told me of finding ground glass in his sugar bowl."

OLD PORTRAIT BOUGHT AND GIVEN TO STATE

J. I. Holcomb Presents Life-Size
Painting to Lieber's Department.

A century-old portrait of Ralcliff Boon, first lieutenant governor and second Governor of Indiana, now hangs in the restored old capital building at Corydon, Richard Lieber, state conservation director, reported today.

The portrait was purchased by J. I. Holcomb of Indianapolis and presented to the state conservation department for this purpose. The Boon portrait, life size, is unique in that it is painted upon hand-woven linen. Name of the artist does not appear. It was recovered from a southern Indiana home.

In it they found bloodstained garments, and a cap with Patrick's initials, together with a quantity of Hook company cash register tapes. The car had been parked since Saturday night or Sunday in front of 15 South Rural street.

KELLY SITS ON FLAGSTAFF TO HELP JOBLESS

'Shipwreck,' 400 Feet
Stay Up 'Til Christmas.

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—Twenty-one days until Christmas, and Alvin Aloysius Kelly, king of the flagpole sitting kentry, yawned from his sky-high perch above the Paramount hotel today.

Shipwreck Kelly is up to do his bit toward unemployment relief. He intends to stay on top of the pole, nearly four hundred feet above Times square, until Christmas eve. "I'll stay up here that long," he shouted down today, "then maybe I'll come down through the chimney like Santa Claus."

It's Below Zero It was pretty cold on the street below, but Kelly didn't seem to mind the high winds that howled in his beloved welkin.

He has only been sitting something like seventy-five hours to date, but Wednesday night his thermometer registered a low of 10 below freezing. The wind, he said, was blowing about seventy miles an hour. The human masthead spends most of his time looking at the funny people down on the street, who, in turn, spend their time arching their necks and looking at him.

Shipwreck has a pair of field glasses, through which he surveys his domain. A lot of the sidewalk lookers likewise were equipped today. Kelly is dressed for a long and hard winter. He wears a long coat, a heavy hat, a scarf, a pair of gloves, and a fur-lined flying helmet.

Vets Sell Life Sketch A little pamphlet called "Personal Sketches of the Life and Experience of Alvin (Shipwreck) Kelly" is being sold in the Times square district by disabled war veterans who are out of work.

In a preface to the life and experience, Kelly has written: "In presenting this pamphlet I am not doing so with the belief that it is going to revolutionize anything." Kelly sets forth that he has never suffered from any disease and has never had a cold in his life.

He was born on the thirteenth day of the month and started out as a human fly on the thirteenth. He has followed thirteen hazardous occupations, he writes, "all classified by the life insurance companies as a poor risk."

Kelly's present perch is the highest of his career save for the time when he sat on an airplane flagpole.

SQUANDERS $90,000 TURNS BANK ROBBER

Shot in Holdup After Failing to Find Work as Scenario Writer.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 4.—Philip Holden, 25, who spent $90,000 within a few years, and then, it is charged, turned bank bandit when he failed to find work as a scenario writer in Hollywood today was identified by police as the son of a former general manager of Marshall Field & Co. of Chicago.

Surgeons who treated Holden for a critical, and possibly fatal bullet wound in the head received during an attempted bank robbery Tuesday, declared that the youth during periods of consciousness had admitted his identity.

The surgeons quoted him as saying that his father was the late James F. Holden, vice-president and general manager of the department store, prior to his death ten years ago.

WIFE-KILLER IMPROVED

Kastor Expected to Recover From Self-Inflicted Wounds.
