Residents of the western part of the county report seeing wild geese going north.

Senate inquiry into alleged state highway department inefficiency took a new turn today as several of the committee members continued to gather ammunition for quizzing commissioners and Director John J. Brown early next week.

Direction of the inquiry was indicated at a committee hearing Friday afternoon where Robert B. Boren (Dem., Fountain City), member of the state highway commission, appeared for questioning.

Under examination of Senator Anderson Ketchum (Dem., Barthomew, Decatur, Franklin and Union), Boren yielded the admission that the department had failed in its collection of federal aid funds for the fiscal year 1930.

"I fully realize we didn't collect all that was coming to us," Boren declared.

One of the reasons for the inquiry set out in the resolution introduced by Senator Charles L. Strey (Rep., Kosciusko and Wabash) was failure of the commission to collect $3,500,000 of available federal funds while borrowing $1,600,000 from the state treasury to operate.

Asked About Purchase

Strey gave the inquiry a new twist as the hearing closed by questioning Boren regarding purchase of snow plows.

The commissioner admitted he had been approached at one time by a material man who asked if the snow plow business could be had on the "same basis as the year before."

He denied that he had ever said that this meant a 10 per cent cut to a certain commissioner. Such information had been conveyed to Strey by former highway commissioner George Hershman of Crown Point, the senator explained.

"Was there an offer made regarding these snow plows?" Boren was asked.

"No, but I think there might have been if I had lent an ear to it," he replied. "I didn't get the details of what was meant by 'on the same basis as the year before.'"

Boren's being approached occurred before John J. Brown became commission director, he testified.

John D. Williams, Brown's predecessor, was present, but presented testimony as the commission adjourned to permit Senator C. Oliver Holmes (Rep., Lake) to return to Gary for the week-end.

William C. Titus, chief commission engineer, was also scheduled to appear, but will be called later, Strey said.

Denies Offer Made

Holmes said earlier in the day that he felt the quiz thus far was "just a fishing expedition."
