

JEAN WORTH DECREES BLACK FOR NIGHT WEAR ONLY

Trinkets Are Deleted in Late Styles

BY MARY KNIGHT
United Press Staff Correspondent

PARIS, Feb. 6.—The Worth summer collection, shown to a carefully selected group of critical buyers and fashion writers, seems to have eliminated black except for night wear.

And black is hard pushed by red and white as a favorite night color. Worth follows the general movement for longer skirts and less visible calves.

His new conception of style appears to be definitely feminine without any of the trinkets and gaudiness, laces and feathers that another era once believed to be necessary to distinguish a well-dressed woman from her male escort.

Jean Worth predicts that black will soon pass completely from the foreground of fashion and that dark blue will take its place. He uses much dark blue for tailored suits this spring, usually combined with white blouses of georgette. Here he allows the only use of lace or batiste.

Tailored Suits Seen

Browns were used for sports suits a great deal, with many shades from the dark "tete de negre" to "cane au lait."

Beige again came into its own, the rosy beiges and those with yellow tints predominating. These colors were used in light weight woollens, lace jersey effects, tweeds with small flecks of white or other pale shades. Other colors were not neglected entirely, and plaids played a prominent role in the new production.

Tailored suits with short jackets were seen frequently.

Cost dresses were shown for the first warm spring days. These simulated the jacket suit, and their skirts were a bit longer and straighter, similar to the two or three models Worth showed in the mid-season collection.

Since short evening wraps are so much prettier with the long, straight evening gowns they were shown for the months when warmth is not so essential.

Patterns Small and Neat

Worth has just designed for the Honorable Mrs. Andrew Vaneck, formerly Miss Louise Clews, two short evening wraps in velvet, which fit the figure snugly, have a full peplum with a raised waistline in the front, and a wide circular cape reaching to the elbows which takes the place of sleeves. One of these was in bright cherry red and the other in Worth blue, and they were to be worn with either black or white evening gowns.

When patterned fabrics were used, the patterns were usually small and neat; narrow stripes or stripes varying in width, and a few geometric patterns.

Chiffons in plaid effects in two tones, flowered chiffons, ever a favorite but conservative in design; satins in bright colors, the new triple georgettes, and organdie or starched chiffons were used for evening gowns.

Though white continued to be worn because of its general becomingness and youthful qualities, various shades of blue, pale green, pinks, and yellow helped to lend gaiety and color to the new evening mode.

French Writer Scheduled for Address Here

Pierre de Lanue will speak on "The Outlook for Disarmament" at the luncheon of the Indiana Council on International Relations Saturday at the Antlers. He comes to Indianapolis under auspices of the League of Nations Association.

Lanue is director of the Paris information office of the League of Nations. He has traveled extensively and is well known as a lecturer and writer. He is the author of "The Life of Henry the Fourth," "Young France and New America," and "Evel d'ne Etique Internationale." Reservations may be made by calling the office of the Indiana Council on International Relations, in the Illinois building.

Personals

Miss Eunice P. Dupuy will return to her home in Golden Hill after spending several weeks in the east. Miss Marjorie Kittle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Sloan Kittle, Kessler boulevard, arrived today from Chicago, where she is attending college, to visit her parents. She brought as her guest Miss Dorothy Pachen.

The Misses Mary Jayne Benham, Grace Jarboe and Benice Baynes are spending the week-end in Cincinnati.

Mrs. David Ross, Haverstick, and Mrs. Fred H. Knodel, 721 East Twenty-second street, have returned from Ft. Wayne where Mrs. Ross addressed a luncheon of the better film committee.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Carpenter, 1 West Twenty-ninth street, have gone to Detroit for a two weeks' stay.

Miss Ruby Well, Evansville, formerly of Indianapolis and New York, arrived here today for a visit with Miss Evelyn Hahn, 402 Broadway. Miss Hahn will entertain for her house guest during her stay.

Mr. and Mrs. William Henry Meub, 639 Central court, have left for a three-month tour. They will visit in Texas, Mexico and the West Indies before returning in the spring.

Radio Hour Changed
The time of a program, sponsored by Marion County W. C. T. U., to be broadcast tonight over WKBF, has been changed from 9 to 9:30.

ROBERTSON'S PERFECT PERMANENTS
Needle Curling ..... $5.00
Wave Rite ..... $2.50
Formerly of Shelbyville, Indiana
2157 N. Ill. St. TA. 5003

PRESENTS COMEDY

Miss Margaret Warner
—Photo by National Studio
Alumni of Sacred Heart High school will present "A Prince That Was," a three-act comedy, at the St. Cecilia hall, Union and Palmer streets, at 3 and 8 Sunday. Miss Margaret Warner is a member of the cast.

Meeting Held by Mothers at Sorority House

Mrs. Edna Christian, social director of Butler university, and Miss Corinne Welling, a Butler faculty member, were honor guests at a luncheon given by the Psi Psi sorority at the Delta Delta Delta chapter house, 811 Hampton drive, today.

Mrs. Christian addressed the members of the organization, composed of members of Delta Delta Delta, on "Social Activities." Mrs. R. G. Null, violinist, gave a musical program, accompanied by Mrs. D. T. Brownlee.

Mrs. Ira Foxworthy was chairman of the committee in charge.

Patterns

PATTERN ORDER BLANK
Pattern Department,
Indianapolis Times,
Indianapolis, Ind.

Enclosed find 15 cents for which send Pattern No. 151

Size .....

Street .....

City .....

Name .....

State .....

When patterned fabrics were used, the patterns were usually small and neat; narrow stripes or stripes varying in width, and a few geometric patterns.

Chiffons in plaid effects in two tones, flowered chiffons, ever a favorite but conservative in design; satins in bright colors, the new triple georgettes, and organdie or starched chiffons were used for evening gowns.

Though white continued to be worn because of its general becomingness and youthful qualities, various shades of blue, pale green, pinks, and yellow helped to lend gaiety and color to the new evening mode.

When patterned fabrics were used, the patterns were usually small and neat; narrow stripes or stripes varying in width, and a few geometric patterns.

Chiffons in plaid effects in two tones, flowered chiffons, ever a favorite but conservative in design; satins in bright colors, the new triple georgettes, and organdie or starched chiffons were used for evening gowns.

Though white continued to be worn because of its general becomingness and youthful qualities, various shades of blue, pale green, pinks, and yellow helped to lend gaiety and color to the new evening mode.

When patterned fabrics were used, the patterns were usually small and neat; narrow stripes or stripes varying in width, and a few geometric patterns.

Chiffons in plaid effects in two tones, flowered chiffons, ever a favorite but conservative in design; satins in bright colors, the new triple georgettes, and organdie or starched chiffons were used for evening gowns.

Though white continued to be worn because of its general becomingness and youthful qualities, various shades of blue, pale green, pinks, and yellow helped to lend gaiety and color to the new evening mode.

When patterned fabrics were used, the patterns were usually small and neat; narrow stripes or stripes varying in width, and a few geometric patterns.

Chiffons in plaid effects in two tones, flowered chiffons, ever a favorite but conservative in design; satins in bright colors, the new triple georgettes, and organdie or starched chiffons were used for evening gowns.

Though white continued to be worn because of its general becomingness and youthful qualities, various shades of blue, pale green, pinks, and yellow helped to lend gaiety and color to the new evening mode.

When patterned fabrics were used, the patterns were usually small and neat; narrow stripes or stripes varying in width, and a few geometric patterns.

Chiffons in plaid effects in two tones, flowered chiffons, ever a favorite but conservative in design; satins in bright colors, the new triple georgettes, and organdie or starched chiffons were used for evening gowns.

Though white continued to be worn because of its general becomingness and youthful qualities, various shades of blue, pale green, pinks, and yellow helped to lend gaiety and color to the new evening mode.

When patterned fabrics were used, the patterns were usually small and neat; narrow stripes or stripes varying in width, and a few geometric patterns.

Chiffons in plaid effects in two tones, flowered chiffons, ever a favorite but conservative in design; satins in bright colors, the new triple georgettes, and organdie or starched chiffons were used for evening gowns.

Though white continued to be worn because of its general becomingness and youthful qualities, various shades of blue, pale green, pinks, and yellow helped to lend gaiety and color to the new evening mode.

When patterned fabrics were used, the patterns were usually small and neat; narrow stripes or stripes varying in width, and a few geometric patterns.

Chiffons in plaid effects in two tones, flowered chiffons, ever a favorite but conservative in design; satins in bright colors, the new triple georgettes, and organdie or starched chiffons were used for evening gowns.

Though white continued to be worn because of its general becomingness and youthful qualities, various shades of blue, pale green, pinks, and yellow helped to lend gaiety and color to the new evening mode.

When patterned fabrics were used, the patterns were usually small and neat; narrow stripes or stripes varying in width, and a few geometric patterns.

Chiffons in plaid effects in two tones, flowered chiffons, ever a favorite but conservative in design; satins in bright colors, the new triple georgettes, and organdie or starched chiffons were used for evening gowns.

Though white continued to be worn because of its general becomingness and youthful qualities, various shades of blue, pale green, pinks, and yellow helped to lend gaiety and color to the new evening mode.

When patterned fabrics were used, the patterns were usually small and neat; narrow stripes or stripes varying in width, and a few geometric patterns.

Chiffons in plaid effects in two tones, flowered chiffons, ever a favorite but conservative in design; satins in bright colors, the new triple georgettes, and organdie or starched chiffons were used for evening gowns.

Though white continued to be worn because of its general becomingness and youthful qualities, various shades of blue, pale green, pinks, and yellow helped to lend gaiety and color to the new evening mode.

When patterned fabrics were used, the patterns were usually small and neat; narrow stripes or stripes varying in width, and a few geometric patterns.

Chiffons in plaid effects in two tones, flowered chiffons, ever a favorite but conservative in design; satins in bright colors, the new triple georgettes, and organdie or starched chiffons were used for evening gowns.

Though white continued to be worn because of its general becomingness and youthful qualities, various shades of blue, pale green, pinks, and yellow helped to lend gaiety and color to the new evening mode.

When patterned fabrics were used, the patterns were usually small and neat; narrow stripes or stripes varying in width, and a few geometric patterns.

Chiffons in plaid effects in two tones, flowered chiffons, ever a favorite but conservative in design; satins in bright colors, the new triple georgettes, and organdie or starched chiffons were used for evening gowns.

Though white continued to be worn because of its general becomingness and youthful qualities, various shades of blue, pale green, pinks, and yellow helped to lend gaiety and color to the new evening mode.

When patterned fabrics were used, the patterns were usually small and neat; narrow stripes or stripes varying in width, and a few geometric patterns.

Chiffons in plaid effects in two tones, flowered chiffons, ever a favorite but conservative in design; satins in bright colors, the new triple georgettes, and organdie or starched chiffons were used for evening gowns.

Though white continued to be worn because of its general becomingness and youthful qualities, various shades of blue, pale green, pinks, and yellow helped to lend gaiety and color to the new evening mode.

When patterned fabrics were used, the patterns were usually small and neat; narrow stripes or stripes varying in width, and a few geometric patterns.

Chiffons in plaid effects in two tones, flowered chiffons, ever a favorite but conservative in design; satins in bright colors, the new triple georgettes, and organdie or starched chiffons were used for evening gowns.

Though white continued to be worn because of its general becomingness and youthful qualities, various shades of blue, pale green, pinks, and yellow helped to lend gaiety and color to the new evening mode.

When patterned fabrics were used, the patterns were usually small and neat; narrow stripes or stripes varying in width, and a few geometric patterns.

Chiffons in plaid effects in two tones, flowered chiffons, ever a favorite but conservative in design; satins in bright colors, the new triple georgettes, and organdie or starched chiffons were used for evening gowns.

Though white continued to be worn because of its general becomingness and youthful qualities, various shades of blue, pale green, pinks, and yellow helped to lend gaiety and color to the new evening mode.

When patterned fabrics were used, the patterns were usually small and neat; narrow stripes or stripes varying in width, and a few geometric patterns.

Chiffons in plaid effects in two tones, flowered chiffons, ever a favorite but conservative in design; satins in bright colors, the new triple georgettes, and organdie or starched chiffons were used for evening gowns.

Though white continued to be worn because of its general becomingness and youthful qualities, various shades of blue, pale green, pinks, and yellow helped to lend gaiety and color to the new evening mode.

When patterned fabrics were used, the patterns were usually small and neat; narrow stripes or stripes varying in width, and a few geometric patterns.

Chiffons in plaid effects in two tones, flowered chiffons, ever a favorite but conservative in design; satins in bright colors, the new triple georgettes, and organdie or starched chiffons were used for evening gowns.

Though white continued to be worn because of its general becomingness and youthful qualities, various shades of blue, pale green, pinks, and yellow helped to lend gaiety and color to the new evening mode.

When patterned fabrics were used, the patterns were usually small and neat; narrow stripes or stripes varying in width, and a few geometric patterns.

D.A.R. Sends Delegates to Convention

Caroline Scott Harrison chapter and Cornelia Cole Fairbanks chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, elected delegates Thursday for the Continental congress, to be held in April in Washington, D.C. Caroline Scott Harrison delegates include:

Mesdames Walter C. Marmon, Maurice E. Tennant, F. Ellis Vander, C. P. Leach, C. P. Voyles and Eugene H. Darrach. Alternates will be Mesdames Bertram R. Day, R. L. Kruse, Walter Green, H. E. Fisher, James L. Kallion, H. S. Tuttle, Samuel Lewis Shank, Henry I. Raymond Jr., C. A. Cook and M. A. Ryan.

Celebrate Lincoln Day

Mrs. Wilbur Johnson, regent, is delegate by virtue of her office. Mrs. James L. Gavin, vice-president-general of the national society, also will attend.

Election was held at the regular meeting at the chapter house. The program was in observation of Abraham Lincoln's birth anniversary.

Officers of the Old Glory Society, G. A. R., were hostesses. Mrs. G. B. Taylor, president, presided at the tea table. Vaughn Cornish, barytone, accompanied by Dorothy Knight Green, sang. Mrs. Kallen, regent, was Albert J. Booth Jr., and Miss Marion Noble, pictured above. Their engagement has been announced. Booth is captain-elect of the Yale football team and star forward on the basketball five.

Red Cross Convention

Mrs. Thomas Reid Kackley will be delegate to the congress from Cornelia Cole Fairbanks chapter, with Mrs. Alfred Conklin, regent. Mrs. Newton Todd is regent's alternate, and Mrs. Louis H. Levey, Mrs. Kackley's alternate. Other alternates are:

Mesdames Jacqueline Holliday, Bernice Kennedy, Edgar H. Evans, Ovid Butler, Jameson, William H. Coleman, J. W. Lilly, Eben H. Wolcott and William J. Brown.

The chapter voted to give the American Red Cross $25.

Dr. George Arthur Frantz spoke on "Abraham Lincoln."

The Caroline Scott Harrison chapter donated $200 to the Red Cross relief fund, which included the chapter appropriation and a $100 personal gift from a member.

Fifty dollars was designated for the public school milk fund, and $100 to the emergency employment fund of the Chamber of Commerce.

Entertains at Bridal Dinner for Miss Evans

Mr. and Mrs. Edward D. Evans, 3434 Washington boulevard, will entertain with a bridal dinner tonight at the Woodstock Club in honor of their daughter, Margaret Mary, and Robert Spencer Kersey, who will be married at 8:30 tomorrow night, at the home of the bride's parents.

The table will be centered with pink and yellow roses, and lighted with yellow tapers, tied with bows of pink tulle, carrying out the bridal colors of pink and yellow. Guests with the bride and bridegroom-elect will include:

Mesdames and Messrs. Robert Evans, Perry Lesh, Fred Weiss, William R. Evans, Robert Glass, Mesdames James Pearson, Lydia Boyd, Mesdames Emily Kersey, Christina Kersey, Muriel, Eleanor Ann Barrett, and Margaret Allen Boston, Mass., and Edgar Bradley, Grand Rapids, Mich.

MRS. TAYLOR IS BRIDGE CLUB HEAD

The Marott Monday Bridge Club will hold its second meeting Monday in the bridge studio at the hotel. The club held its inaugural meeting Monday, Feb. 2, and the following officers were elected: Mesdames Edward Taylor, president; John H. Oliver, treasurer, and Oliver P. Ensley, secretary.

The club was organized for charitable purposes. Proceeds at present are being donated to the Red Cross relief fund. Both residents and nonresidents of the hotel are invited to the meetings, which will be held each Monday afternoon.

MRS. WALL AND DAUGHTERS FETED

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Osterhouse entertained Thursday night with a dinner party at their home, 430 North Oxford street, in honor of Mrs. John T. Wall and daughters, Mary Elizabeth and Virginia Rita, who will leave Sunday for residence in Cincinnati.

The Ladies League of St. Philip Neri Athletic Association will entertain with a farewell party in their honor tonight.

SON OF PANTAGES IS ON HONEYMOON

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 6.—Rodney Pantages, son of Alexander Pantages, former millionaire theater owner, and his wife, the former Miss Beatrice Sweeney, were honeymooning in Southern California today, after their marriage here Wednesday.

Pantages, who is 24, was a student at the University of Washington. Mrs. Pantages, a year his junior, was graduated from the University of Southern California.

CHILDREN NOT IN MARITAL CONTRACT

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—The appellate division has affirmed a ruling of Supreme Court Justice Byrne of Brooklyn that the marriage contract in New York state does not require a wife to bear children even though she promises before marriage to become a mother. It is the first such ruling ever made in this state on this phase of marriage.

Alfred A. Kahn, plaintiff in the case, asked for an annulment of his marriage on the ground of fraud, alleging that before marriage his wife promised to have children and that after their marriage she took steps to make this impossible. His attorney argued that rupture of the agreement had made a happy marriage impossible.

Quick Salad

For hurried company salads, there now are canned fruits put up in a desirable combination of kinds and colors that are all ready to put right on to lettuce leaves and grace the table with fruit salad.

ENGAGED

Mrs. Helen Brown

In the limelight at Yale university's junior prom, certainly, were Albert J. Booth Jr., and Miss Marion Noble, pictured above. Their engagement has been announced. Booth is captain-elect of the Yale football team and star forward on the basketball five.

Flower Mission Trustees to Be Luncheon Guests

An informal luncheon will be held March 6 by the Indianapolis Flower Mission, in honor of the newly elected trustees of the organization, according to plans made at a board meeting Thursday.

The old and new trustees will be guests of the board. The new trustees are Dr. Alfred Murray, Murray Auerbach, Paul H. Buchanan, Mansur B. Oakes and William L. Taylor. Mrs. Robert Elliott is chairman of the committee on arrangements, assisted by Mrs. James D. Ermonston and Mrs. Robert Geddes.

Glorifying Yourself

BY ALICIA HART

TAKING your beauty for a ride—be it in a train, airplane, motor or steamship—is a real responsibility.

There is nothing on earth quite so hard on beauty as dirt. And try to keep dirt off your face while you are traveling!

The most important things, therefore, about any beauty travel kit you may be compounding or purchasing in its entirety, is to make sure that the removal of dirt is taken care of high, wide and handsomely.

It is a mistake to rely on washing with soap and water every time your face gets dirty. The water you may get in some of the western states, not to mention the interior of China, may not mix well with either your skin, which is unaccustomed to it, or the soap you use.

THEREFORE, "cleansing lotions are important. I do not say say cleansing creams, for I think it is a mistake to cleanse too often with cream when you are in the midst of dirt, for more just adheres to your face when you have finished.

If you want to make your own cleansing lotion, rose water and glycerin is one good one, but witch hazel is another, all prepared and not the least greasy.

There are many pleasant ones on the market and it may be a good plan to try out some of them before starting.

After you have solved the type of cleansing lotion, be absolutely sure you have a non-breakable container, or a non-breakable place to put it, anyway!

There are so many small cases that are handy for beauty lotions that it seems a pity not to have one if you are making a trip of any distance.

NEXT to "cleansing lotions, the creams are important. Winds, hot or cold weather, unusual changes in temperature all must be considered. Your skin will need nourishing and you must be prepared to give it a good reliable cream.

There are certain beauticians who are simplifying their lines of creams, recommending a single cream for cleansing and nourishing.

One of these, or two of your favorite brands should be enough for a short trip. It is a shame to load yourself down with things you won't need.

Last, but not least, don't take too much. Invest in some very minute jars that will supply you for a short journey and not weigh too much.

But, whatever you do, have cleansing tissues, creams, lotions, a hair brush, tooth brush and paste, your make-up and your soap.

That is a good start toward reaching cleanliness as your final goal.

Card Parties

Assumption Social Club will hold card parties at 2:30 and 8:15 at the hall, 1105 Blaine avenue. Euchre, bistro and lotto will be played. Supper will be served from 5 to 7.

This Ward Democratic Women's Club will entertain with a card party at 8 Tuesday at the home of Mrs. John Donnelly, 1824 North Pennsylvania street.

FAREWELL PARTY TO MISS DINKINS

Miss Thelma Dinkins, who will leave Thursday for a six weeks' trip to the West Indies, was honored by her brother, Byron Dinkins, with a farewell party at their home, 3059 North Illinois street.

The guests were Misses Lillian Lay, Louise McDermott, Helen Cummings, Margaret Kennedy and Messrs. Charles Hsman, William Halcarty and J. Byron Dinkins.

Permanent Waves $2.50 and $5.00 None More Beautiful

Good looks go hand in hand with well dressed hair. A Permanent wave will add to your beauty. We invite you to give us a trial.

Artistic Permanent Wave Shop

817 S. 7th St. 710 Odd Fellow Bldg.

BE BEAUTIFUL

Small Down Payment and $2.00 a Week

No Interest No Extras No Carrying Charge

Complete With Tubes

Complete With Tubes

Complete With Tubes

Complete With Tubes

Complete With Tubes

Complete With Tubes

Complete With Tubes

Complete With Tubes

Complete With Tubes

Complete With Tubes

Complete With Tubes

Complete With Tubes

Complete With Tubes

Complete With Tubes

Complete With Tubes

Complete With Tubes

Scarf Club to Sponsor 'Jinx' Party

Scarf Club, freshman women's honorary club,